BUSINESS MUST CLEAN HOUSE, JUSTICE CLARK TELLS LAWYERS

If This Is Not Done, Jurist Says, More Industrial Leaders Will Find Themselves in Jail.

Business must clean its house or more industrial leaders may find themselves in jail, Associate Justice Tom C. Clark of the United States Supreme Court told delegates to the American Bar Association's convention today.

Justice Clark, who addressed an anti-trust section at the Statler Hilton Hotel, said that in addition to possible action by the Department of Justice, "legislative [illegible] or other restrictive statutory measures are not beyond the realm of possibility."

Lawyers engaged in anti-trust practice must adopt a preventive law program that will make certain hard core violations of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act will be eliminated, he said. Questionable practices could be reduced to a minimum with a fresh approach to the laws, he added.

Industry must be concerned with obedience even to the unenforceable, Justice Clark said, not because obedience is required but because it is right.

"Through the good offices of the lawyer," he said, "business may, indeed, develop a conscience."

Justice Clark said the recent sentencing of 29 electrical manufacturers and some of their officers for price fixing was the first time in the 71--year history of the Sherman Act that top-level business men have served terms in jail for violations.

Address by Quesada.

Elwood R. Quesada, former chairman of the Federal Aviation Agency, said last night that vigorous administrators for federal regulatory agencies are needed to protect the public interest.

Constant conflicts arise between vested interests and the public interest over proposed legislation, and although the former have protection in the nation's courts, "the public is frequently helpless unless protected by federal administrators," Quesada said.

Quesada, president of the Washington Senators, American League baseball team, and a retired lieutenant general of the Air Force, spoke at a joint dinner meeting of the American Bar Association's sections on government law and administrative law.

11,000 at Convention.

More than 11,000 jurists, lawyers and guests are attending the association's five-day convention which closes Friday.

"It is perfectly logical and natural that you, as lawyers, might view proposed legislation with less objectivity than persons with a broader interest," he told his audience of 200 persons.

"By the same token, federal administrators pursuing public interests are just as conscientious as you are, and might even be more so when a particular subject is before them," he asserted.

Quesada praised the efforts of Newton N. Minow, chairman of the Federal Communication Com-

'Met' Calls Off Opera Season Over Orchestra's Demands

Association Head Says Union's Request Would Add $750,000 to Deficit.

© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 — The Metropolitan Opera Association announced last night that it had canceled its next season.

Two chief reasons were cited: The demands of its orchestra and and the loss of a handful of stars because the opera and the orchestral union have not yet agreed on a contract.

This is the third time the Metropolitan has announced cancellation of a season because of union difficulties. The 1948 cancellation, which was announced on Aug. 4, was rescinded on Aug. 23. The 1956 cancellation, announced on July 18, was rescinded on July 23.

(United Press International said today that Mayor Robert F. Wagner conferred with aids this morning on a possible couse of action to keep the Metropolitan from closing.)

Last night's announcement was made at a press conference in the offices of Anthony A. Bliss, president of the Metropolitan Opera Association. Neither Bliss nor Rudolf Bing, the general manager, expressed any hope that the cancellation would be revoked.

Bliss called the present crisis "the most serious in the opera's history." He said that the demands of the orchestra would add $750,000 to the Metropolitan's deficit. He disclosed, however, that last Friday the musicians reduced their demands by $20 a week.

At a special meeting held at the request of the other unions involved with the Metropolitan, all of which have signed agreements, Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians asked for a weekly base pay of $248 for the members of the orchestra. Previously it had been asking for $268 a week.

The weekly base pay last season was $170.13, and this is the same the Metropolitan was offering for next season, with a pay rise of $3 the following season and an additional $3 for 1963-64.

The canceled season was to have opened on Oct. 23 and run for 25 weeks. The cancellation of the New York season automatically involves the cancellation of the seven-week spring tour. Boston, Cleveland, Atlanta, Dallas, St. Louis, Minneapolis, Detroit and Toronto were the eight cities the company was scheduled to visit.

Bing was asked to name the stars that had been lost because of the failure to reach an agreement with the musicians by July 30. He declined, saying that to

TAVERN KEEPER ON EAST SIDE SHOT 3 TIMES

2 Women Take Victim to Hospital, Admit Giving False Story of Robbery.

Thomas E. McGovern, operator of a tavern near Horseshoe Lake in Madison county, was shot three times and seriously wounded today.

Two women who took McGovern to Christian Welfare Hospital in East St. Louis told police at first that he had been robbed and shot by two men who forced his automobile off U.S. Alternate Highway 67 between East St. Louis and Madison. The women later admitted their account was false.

Police found evidence that a fight had occurred at the tavern McGovern operates, End of the Line Tavern on Bend road in Madison county. They found blood on the floor of the tavern and on the back porch.

False Address.

Detective Sgt. Roy Fields and Detective Thomas Friels of East St. Louis answered the call to the hospital at 3:30 a.m. The account of the robbery and shooting was given by Miss Sallie Harrison, 21 years old, and Miss Judy Hayes, 22, who each gave an address of 500 North Fifteenth street. The address turned out to be false.

The women said they had lived in East St. Louis only two weeks and were not familar with the area but that they could point out the place where the robbery and shooting had occurred.

However, they were unable to agree on the location. Police finally stopped at a service station near Madison and asked the attendant, Leon Lee Master, if he had heard shots earlier in the evening. Master said no but told of a conversation with an ambulance driver who had stopped at the station. He said the driver told him he had been called to Bend road but could find no one injured.

Two Deputies Sent.

Knowing about the tavern at the end of Bend road, Fields and Friels decided to go there. They called the Madison county sheriff's office for assistance and two deputies were sent to the tavern.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—A full-grown lion was found sleeping today on the back seat of an automobile in a parking lot opposite Pennsylvania station.

William Shepard, an attendant at the lot, made the discovery after other occupants of the car—two women and a man—had left. They had said they would return in 45 minutes.

Shepard said he had not noticed the lion at the time the car was parked.

"I didn't look," he said. "Who would look for a lion in a car?"

As a crowd of onlookers gathered, police sent for a truck from the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

When the owner of the lion, Ellsworth R. Flynn, returned to the car, police issued two summonses against him.

Flynn said he had been having lunch with Miss Bon Bon Bass of the Bronx and her mother. Miss Bass once appeared with Flynn in his act, he said, and he was trying to talk her into rejoining it.

First Infantry, Second Infantry and Second Armored Being Held Ready for Quick Deployment.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (UPI)—The Army has called for the immediate conversion of three training divisions into combat divisions ready for deployment on short notice, the White House notified Senator John A. Carroll (Dem.), Colorado, today.

The units are the First Infantry Division at Fort Riley, Kan.; Second Infantry Division, Fort Benning, Ga., and Second Armored Division, Fort Hood, Tex.

Simultaneously, Carroll was notified that an Army basic training center capable of training about 16,000 soldiers would go in operation at Fort Carson, Colo., Sept. 7. Carson will receive its first trainees early next month and will have a permanent strength of about 4000, Carroll said.

The reception station at Fort Riley will be moved to Carson and be operational by Aug. 28. Carroll said basic training is being conducted at 10 Army posts, and at the three which are to be converted to combat divisions.

He said the Second Medium Missile Command now at Carson would be inactivated, but the two Honest John rocket battalions of the command and a group headquarters would be retained as combat units.

Most of the remaining personnel of the missile command, which has an approximate strength of 3800, will be retained at the Carson training center.

ENLISTMENT RISE CONTINUES UNDER SPUR OF DRAFT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—A sustained increase in volunteers has followed President Kennedy's call for a build-up of United States armed forces and the announcement of higher draft calls.

Defense Department sources said today a sampling of enlistment trends in widely scattered areas showed there has been no letup in the increased rate that followed the President's speech two weeks ago.

Major emphasis is on the Army which is authorized to add about 133,000 men to build up to more than 1,000,000.

The draft rise is spurring voluntary recruiting for all services. Only the Army uses the draft. President Kennedy said that draft calls might be doubled or tripled.

Latest volunteer, first-enlistment recruiting figures are for June and those are still an estimate. The Army estimate is about 12,000, compared with 6400 for May.

The estimate for the Air Force in June totaled about 11,000, compared with 7800 in May; the Navy, 11,405 compared with 4700 and the Marines, 2643 compared with 1900.

BOLIVIA INFLATION A THING TO BE RECKONED WITH

LA PAZ, Aug. 8 (AP)—Bolivia has one of the worst cases of inflation in the world. Only a few years ago the par value of the boliviano was 190 to one United States dollar. Today it takes 12,000 bolivianos to buy $1.

So $100 will buy 1,200,000 bolivianos.

SURPRISE FOR SOMEONE

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (UPI)—The thief who looted an automobile of a package labeled "French cologne" might regret turning it over to his girl friend, police said today.

Pierre Schmied, owner of the car, whose hobby is snakes, said the package contained a 4-foot, nonpoisonous Indian rat snake.

BERLIN, Aug. 8 (AP) — Two East German refugees, wearing only trunks, reached West Berlin in the night. The two 22-year-old mechanics swam a lake to get here. They reported to a police station where they were given clothes and assigned to a refugee center.

NATO COUNCIL STANDING FIRM FOR FREEDOM OF WEST BERLIN

Reaffirms Conviction That Solution Will Be Found Only in Self-Determination for Germans.

(Related Article on Page 1C.)

PARIS, Aug. 8 (AP)—Members of the Atlantic alliance met today for two hours with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and then announced they are standing firm to maintain the freedom of West Berlin.

Rusk reported to the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on his weekend talks with French, British and German officials over the Russian threat to West Berlin.

The council issued a statement reaffirming its conviction that the solution to the Berlin crisis will be found only in self-determination for all of Germany. The council said it is determined to "maintain the freedom of West Berlin."

(United Press International quoted a NATO spokesman as saying the council unanimously indorsed Rusk's appeal to strengthen NATO forces.

(A communique published after the meeting said, "The permanent council, in view of the seriousness of the situation, agreed to intensify its consultation on these matters.")

COUNCIL HEARS RUSK'S REPORT

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Aug. 8—Secretary of State Dean Rusk went before the council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today to report on the firm and united stand taken by the Western foreign ministers' conference on the Berlin crisis and to appeal to all NATO members to increase their military contribution to the defense of Berlin and western Europe.

Rusk outlined American policy on Berlin and Germany as it has evolved from President Kennedy's speech to the nation. He expressed the President's gratification that the 15 NATO members should be so united on the need to defend Berlin with force if this become necessary.

Even those hitherto skeptical about the intentions of NATO pay tribute to this unity. But it is also true that NATO members are confident that the Berlin crisis will be resolved by negotiation.

Study of Speech.

With the foreign ministers conference concluding yesterday in advance of the scheduled time, Rusk devoted his morning to routine tasks and to a study of the text of Premier Khrushchev's speech last night. It was considered unlikely that he would have any public comment to make on the Khrushchev speech. Members of the American delegation professed to see nothing new in it. It is more of the same hot and cold, only a little more hot and a little more cold, as one of them put it.

This was not the view, however, of many European diplomats. They were inclined to put stress on Khrushchev's declaration that he had no intention of closing the access routes to West Berlin even though he might go ahead and sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany. The feeling is growing in Europe that negotiation with Moscow will come not long after the German elections on Sept. 17.

As the London Times put it in an editorial today, both President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev have now declared themselves in favor of negotiation and they have both outlined the points on which they will not yield. At some moment, The Times concluded, someone has to be the first to take the plunge to see whether there is room for a settlement.

CALIFORNIA G.O.P. TAKING POLL ON GOVERNOR RACE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8 (UPI)—A poll that may help convince former Vice President Richard M. Nixon to run for Governor of California in 1962 is being conducted among more than 1500 Republican officeholders and party workers.

State G.O.P. chairman John Krehbiel said yesterday that a letter was sent out Saturday asking for opinions on who would make the strongest Republican candidate to run against incumbent Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Democrat.

Nixon has urged party leaders to sound out party members on possible candidates and has indicated he will run if he feels he is the only Republican who can win. The Republican state central committee named Nixon as the best man for the job last July 15.

Results of the poll will be made public in a week to 10 days, a G.O.P. spokesman said.

400 COMMITTEES CUT IN PENTAGON; 130 MORE TO GO

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (UPI)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said yesterday he is making some progress in trying to cut down the Pentagon's thousands of committees, but it is not easy.

When he took office in January, there were almost 3000 committees, McNamara told a Senate subcommittee on national policy machinery.

"Up to July 1 we had dissolved 400 plus another 130 scheduled for dissolution," he said.

"That still leaves us 2400 to work on."

McNamara estimated he spent 20 days of his first six months in office testifying before congressional committees.

While time-consuming, he said, the system keeps Congress informed and "it also acquaints the individual with his own department."

MOSCOW PLANS HUGE WELCOME FOR SPACEMAN

Titov Going There Tomorrow — He Is Apparently Found Medically Fit.

MOSCOW, Aug. 8 (UPI) — Soviet officials announced today that Maj. Gherman S. Titov will be brought to Moscow tomorrow for a huge public welcome.

Russian doctors examining the spaceman to determine the effects of his prolonged period of weightlessness and possible exposure to cosmic radiation apparently decided he was fit.

Titov described himself in excellent condition shortly after his landing yesterday.

The 26-year-old air force pilot who orbited the earth 17 times in 25 hours and 18 minutes was taken to an undisclosed place in the Soviet Union for his medical check-up.

Titov's wife, Tamara, said today that Yuri Gagarin's flight into orbit fired her husband's ambition to make his space journey.

Wife Tells Story.

Mrs. Titov sketched the story of her husband's life for Pravda, the Communist party newspaper. But she said, "Had I known that so many people would show interest in Gherman, I would have become his best biographer."

Pravda said the Titovs have been married for three years. It said the 23-year-old Mrs. Titov "is studying to become a doctor and is a strong personality."

Mrs. Titov said her husband "dreamed of becoming a pilot from early boyhood."

"I am very proud of my husband," she told newspaper men. "No one is happier than we Soviet women because our friends, father, and brothers are first in everything."

Pravda said the Siberian-born spaceman's parents were being flown to Moscow from the vil-

Russian Spaceship Had to Orbit 17 Times for It to Land on Target

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (UPI) — United States space agency officials explain it was necessary for Russia's latest spaceship to orbit 17 times so it could land on target.

After a spaceship makes three orbits of the earth, it must go on to 17—as Vostok II did—before the earth is in a correct position for a predetermined landing. This is because of the spin and tilt of the earth.

In an orbit requiring 90 minutes, 17 passes would require about 25 hours, the length of time spent in the air by Vostok II.

Since any point on earth spins around at about 1000 miles an hour, the spaceship would be over substantially the same point from which it was launched after 17 passes.

In the case of the United States Mercury capsule, three orbits are planned for the first shot. Because of the speed of the capsule and the relative speed of earth rotation, the capsule should then be in position to land east of Puerto Rico. It will be launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

EXPERTS FIND LITTLE NEW IN SPEECH ON HIS PLAN FOR BERLIN

Talks Late This Year Still Expected—Kennedy May Comment After Study of Translation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal to "negotiate in an honest way" on Berlin drew generally skeptical reaction today from congressional and diplomatic sources.

United States experts found little that was on Khrushchev's plan for Berlin in the Soviet leader's radio-television speech yesterday.

The White House left open the possibility that President Kennedy might comment after a translation can be studied here. The State Department was officially silent.

The National Security Council met for an hour and a half at the White House today, but a spokesman said he did not think Khrushchev's speech was a main topic of discussion.

United States officials still expect the Berlin question to result in negotiations late this year, and not until then do they expect Khrushchev to reveal what concessions he might have in mind.

East German Treaty.

Once again yesterday the Soviet Premier said he planned to sign a peace treaty with the Communist East German Government.

Also, as he has in the past, Khrushchev denied any intent to "infringe upon any lawful interests of the Western powers" in Berlin. He said "any barring of access to Berlin, any blockade of West Berlin is entirely out of the question."

Senator J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Khrushchev was "more positive than he has been before" in his statement denying plans for a new Berlin blockade.

"I believe he wants to negotiate about Berlin," Fulbright said. "Whether he wants to negotiate on the basis of what is yours is mine is another matter. Nevertheless, I don't see why we cannot take the position that these differences should be discussed."

One problem in any negotiations is that Khrushchev and the Western powers do not agree on what the West's "lawful interests" in Berlin are.

Khrushchev has made plain that under his proposed treaty the West must seek its access to West Berlin from the East German regime, which the West does not recognize and which has threatened to shut down Western activities in the city.

Talking War and Peace.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Khrushchev appeared to be talking "in the language of both war and peace."

"It is to be devoutly hoped that, unlike the great Russian novel of that title, the balance this time is on the side of peace," Mansfield said. "If it is, then negotiations may yet prove fruitful in finding a rational way, a third way to deal wit the Berlin situation."

Senator Thomas H. Kuchel of California, the assistant Republican leader, said he felt the speech had a belligerent tone. He said:

"If, God forbid, war should come, Khrushchev will be the aggressor. He knows it and the world knows it."

Senator John Sherman Cooper (Rep.), Kentucky, said he believes the Khrushchev statements "open the way for negotiations" despite the threats the Soviet Premier made.

"We should talk to Khrushchev now and see what guarantees he is willing to give for continued access to Berlin," Cooper said.

Spur to Aid Program.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said the Khrushchev speech should clinch passage of President Kennedy's foreign aid program.

The speech proved, he said, that "we are faced with an intensified Communist propaganda

BRAZIL JOINS OTHER LATINS IN SUPPORT OF KENNEDY PLAN

Nations Given General Backing, but Oppose Move to Co-ordinate Various Development Programs.

PUNTA DEL ESTE, Uruguay, Aug. 8 (AP)—Brazilian Finance Minister Clemente Mariani today joined other Latin American leaders in general support of the aims of President Kennedy's sweeping program for hemisphere development.

Mariani praised the United States offer of long-term multi-billion-dollar aid to help raise Latin American living standards in his address to delegates of the inter-American conference. He warned that grave dangers have arisen in the Southern Hemisphere because of its poverty and population explosion.

"Our apprehension over the East-West conflict is justified," Mariani said, "but it would be imprudent to ignore that the tension between the Northern Hemisphere and the Southern Hemisphere is perhaps even more crucial."

Cuba Only Holdout.

With the exception of Cuban economic chief Ernesto Guevara, delegates have praised the United States proposal. However, serious objections were expressed on a seven-man planning committee that would co-ordinate development programs in the various countries. Some Latin American delegates look on it as a violation of their sovereignty, always jealously guarded in Latin America, especially against United States interference.

Alfonso Gumucio Reyes, Bolivia's minister of national economy, told the delegates he hoped President Kennedy's Alliance for Progress would help Latin America face increasing competition from Africa. He said Latin America's "entire economic system is absolutely vulnerable."

Argentina, Mexico and Chile indicate they feel they are making significant strides on their own in planning. Brazil, largest of the Latin American countries, considers itself a case apart, worthy of special treatment.

Secretary of the Treasury C. Douglas Dillon outlined the Kennedy program at yesterday's session. He pledged the United States to a 10-year development program involving more than a billion dollars a year in United States contributions alone to help lift Latin America out of its centuries-old rut of misery and illiteracy.

Dillon offered United States guarantees to development loans on a long-term basis "running where appropriate up to 50 years." Most of these loans, Dillon told the delegates, would be "at very low or zero rates of interest." The loans would actually amount to 80 per cent grants and would match or better the terms offered by the Soviet Union in its loans to backward nations.

Calls for Sacrifices.

Dillon warned Latin America's wealthy landlords they would have to sacrifice many of their traditional privileges if the plan were to succeed. He referred to honest tax structures, surrender of vast landholding rights and other social and economic reforms.

Many delegates who applauded Dillon are members of the same landlord class that the Kennedy program seeks to eliminate.

Guevara, who abstained from the prolonged applause that greeted Dillon's speech, listed himself as a speaker for the conference session this afternoon. He said earlier he would talk for half a day, emulating his leader, Fidel Castro.

He reportedly intends to present the view that his country wants to remain in the Latin American economic family—without, however, acknowledging any United States role in the future development of the area.

In Washington, the White House said President Kennedy has again thought over the possibility of going to the conference but is standing by his original decision against making the trip.

Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, told reporters, "Our position is the same, that due to the pressure of domestic and foreign affairs the President will not leave the country in August."

SECRECY TO SURROUND RELEASE OF KENYATTA

NAIROBI, Kenya, Aug. 8 (UPI)—Former Mau Mau leader Jomo Kenyatta will be transferred to a new home in a Nairobi suburb next week as a free man, the government announced today.

The move to his Gatundu home will end nearly nine years of confinement by British authorities, seven of them in jail and two in detention in northern Kenya.

Kenya Defense Minister A. C. C. Swann said that as a precautionary measure the day of Kenyatta's release would not be disclosed until he is installed in his new home.

Compromise Crop Control Bill Signed by President

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (UPI)—President Kennedy signed into law today a bill designed to cut grain surpluses and increase farmers' income. The compromise bill was signed at a White House ceremony.

In signing the bill, Mr. Kennedy praised this country's ability to produce more food with less manpower than any other nation in the world. He noted this "in contrast to the people behind the Iron Curtain who have been having difficulties."

The President said Americans want food for everyone throughout the world and wish those in Communist-dominated countries could achieve better farm production.

'Significant Step.'

He called the act a "significant step toward a sound agricultural economy and better life for farmers in this country." He predicted it would reduce surpluses and relieve taxpayers of some of the extra burden on subsidies.

"In these critical times," Mr. Kennedy said, "this bill takes on a significance in helping us toward achievement of our goals in American agriculture."

Present for the signing were heads of five major farm organizations, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, Congressional leaders and key men on the Senate and House Agriculture committees.

The law requires farmers to cut next year's wheat planting allotment by 10 per cent in return for payments based on 45 per cent of the normal yield of the land made idle. Durum wheat would be exempted.

Farmers could cut back wheat plantings by an additional 30 per cent in 1962 for payments based on 60 per cent of the normal yield.

Provisions on Other Grains.

The law provides also that farmers growing corn, feed barley and grain sorghum will not be eligible for price supports on these crops unless they reduce plantings 20 per cent below their 1959-60 average.

As a further inducement, farmers who cut acreage will get payments based on 50 per cent of normal yield. This is basically a continuation of the 1961 feed grains program.

Other provisions of the law include:

Extension for three years of the Food-for-Peace program, under which surplus products are exported for foreign currency. Sales would be limited to $4,500,000,000 over the period, with a two-billion-dollar ceiling in any one year.

Extension of the wool price support program for four years and renewal of the Great Plains conservation program for 10 years.

Liberalization of farm credit terms for low-income farmers.

Special provisions designed to reduce imports of oranges, onions, walnuts and dates except dates used in processing.

The House Science and Space Committee voted in principle yesterday to make it a federal crime for any Communist to apply for a fellowship grant from the National Science Foundation. The measure would eliminate the non-Communist affidavit required under present law.

The House passed yesterday and sent to the Senate a bill which would require military enlistees to swear before God their allegiance to the Constitution.

In other actions involving the military, the House voted to require graduates of service academies to spend at least five years on active duty after graduation. The bill, which went to the Senate, would increase the active service requirements, which now vary from three to four years.

Service men stationed abroad would be granted up to two months' pay in advance to help defray costs in case of emergency evacuation of their dependents, under another bill approved by the House.

CUBA REOPENS ITS BORDERS AFTER CURRENCY EXCHANGE

HAVANA, Aug. 8 (AP)—Cuba was reopened to international traffic today after being shut off from the rest of the world for an exchange of currency.

All air and sea traffic to and from the island republic was halted Saturday in a surprise move to prevent now worthless old bills from being smuggled in and exchanged for new ones. The exchange was designed to stop wealthy exile from sending in money to finance counter-revolutionary activities against Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government. All bills had to be exchanged by yesterday.

ETHAN ALLEN, NEW POLARIS SUBMARINE, JOINS FLEET

GROTON, Conn., Aug. 8 (UPI)—The nuclear polaris submarine Ethan Allen, whose solid-fuel missiles can attack any land or sea target within 1500 miles, joined the Navy today.

It is the sixth fleet ballistic missile submarine to be commissioned, and the first of five to fire the 1500-mile missile. All of its predecessors fire the 1200-mile missile and most of them are on patrol.

The Ethan Allen displaces 6900 tons and will carry 16 nuclear missiles which can be fired while the ship is submerged or surfaced. It is the twenty-first nuclear-powered submarine to be turned over to the Navy since the Nautilus pioneered in nuclear propulsion six years ago.

RUSSIAN DEFENSE WORKERS OFFER TO INCREASE HOURS

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Moscow radio reported that two big meetings of defense workers in the Soviet Union last night called on the government to step up their workday from seven to eight hours.

In the aftermath of Premier Khrushchev's speech warning that Russian defense readiness may be accelerated, thousands of workers at a Moscow armaments factory held one rally, it said.

In Leningrad the night shift at an armaments factory said it was willing to put in an extra hour a day, the radio said.

11 KILLED IN RUANDA CLASH

BRUSSELS, Aug. 8 (UPI)—Rival political groups clashed in the Ruanda trusteeship territory last week, killing 11 Africans and injuring about 50, reports reaching here today said.

The clashes started when one political leader, Anastase Makuza, was slightly injured in a traffic accident, and rumors spread that he had been killed by a political assassin. Troops restored order.

MORTON BACKS LONG-RANGE AID PLAN OF KENNEDY

Senator Says It Would End Problems Which Eisenhower Also Faced.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Senator Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, former Republican national chairman, threw his support behind President Kennedy's long-range foreign aid program today.

Mr. Kennedy seeks Treasury borrowing authority to finance a five-year, $8,800,000,000 loan program for aid to underdeveloped nations.

Morton, in a prepared Senate speech, said the proposal was identical in principle to one advocated by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1957, for which 21 Republicans now in the Senate voted.

"I see no reason in principle that they should not support the same proposal when made by this Administration," he said.

Called Power Grab.

Senator George D. Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, has predicted that 30 of 36 Senate Republicans will vote for an amendment sponsored by Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, to require that financing of the loan program come from annual appropriations.

Aiken, in another prepared speech, called the authority to borrow from the Treasury primarily a grab for power that would rob Congress of its control over the foreign aid program. He said:

"The President requests Congress to give him authority to bet nine billion dollars in the game of power politics, with no assurance that it will not be lost."

Hopes to Resume Debate.

Texts of the speeches were released in advance but there was no assurance they would be delivered today. Senator William Proxmire (Dem.), Wisconsin, after speaking nearly nine hours yesterday, expected to talk for at least another eight hours today against Senate confirmation of Lawrence J. O'Connor Jr. as a member of the Federal Power Commission.

Democratic leaders conceded today that Congress probably would amend the foreign aid bill but clung to hope that President Kennedy's main proposals would survive.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and other Democratic leaders, including Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, met for an hour with Mr. Kennedy this morning at their regular Tuesday breakfast conference.

Won't Be 'Hurt Too Much.'

Afterward Rayburn told reporters that the Administration measure may be amended before it clears the Senate and House but added: "I don't think that fundamentally it will be hurt too much."

He predicted it would emerge from Congress in "pretty good shape."

A total of $1,187,000,000 of the loan money is part of this year's $4,326,500,000 foreign aid program on which the Senate hoped to resume debate today, with no votes expected until later in the week.

Morton said that if Congress adopted the Byrd amendment it would "perpetuate for five more years the uncertainties which plagued President Eisenhower" and Republican Secretaries of State John Foster Dulles and Christian A. Herter for the last eight years.

Cites Past Practice.

He said they never knew from one year to the next how much would be available to provide help to struggling nations in rebuilding their economies, and "nobody can be expected to run a successful development program under these difficulties."

Aiken said that in nearly every instance in which Congress has granted borrowing authority it has done so "only where it might reasonably be expected that the amount of money borrowed would be repaid in full as to principal and interest."

He said some of the 50-year loans which would be made without interest could not be called sound investments.

Once Congress grants the authority Mr. Kennedy seeks, Aiken said, it would "have little, if any control, over the expenditures in the foreign aid field during the next five years."

Symington Calls Aid Borrowing Plan 'Justified and Sensible'

Speech Prepared for Senate Debate on Administration Program Denies Fiscal Irresponsibility.

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — Senator Stuart Symington (Dem.), Missouri, defended today as "justified and sensible" the Kennedy Administration's request for authority to borrow from the Treasury to finance a new five-year program of foreign aid.

In a speech prepared for later today when the Senate was expected to begin debate on the controversial foreign aid plan, Symington rejected complaints that Congress will lose control of the program. He denied that Treasury borrowing, labeled "backdoor spending" by opponents, is fiscally irresponsible.

"Opposition to this provision," he said, "boils down essentially to the position—and therefore the assertion — that the American people are incapable of deciding on a policy of as long as five years' duration in a field where such a determination is vitally needed in the interest of our national security."

Object of Attack

The five-year lending program is expected to be the principal object of attack by opponents of the foreign aid plan proposed by President Kennedy. Some Republicans and conservative Democrats oppose the measure, but the borowing proposal won support today from Senator Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, former Republican national chairman.

Center of the controversy is a request by Mr. Kennedy for authority to borow $8,800,000,000 from the Treasury over a five-year period in order to finance loans to less developed countries.

Asserting that the fear that Congress may lose control of the foreign aid program is unjustified, Symington said the pending legislation "provides fully for the retention and exercise of congressional power."

3 Types of Controls.

He listed three types of controls: Control over the basic program since Congress is being asked to make the initial decision to establish the plan; yearly authority, "should circumstances require," for Congress to "limit, curtail or even revoke the lending authority or the use of the borrowed funds themselves"; annual need to obtain authorization and appropriations for outright grants for foreign aid, which form an important part of the over-all assistance program.

In addition, he pointed out that the basic loan program could be revised at any future time by attaching an amendment to one of the yearly bills making grants for foreign assistance. He noted that in order to veto such an amendment the President would be forced to kill an entire bill authorizing grants for foreign aid.

GERMAN EXODUS TO WEST BERLIN AT 8-YEAR HIGH

BERLIN, Aug. 8 (AP)—The flood of refugees from Communist East Germany hit 2021 today, the highest daily total for eight years, West Berlin officials said.

The flow continued despite reports that East German police had reinforced patrols in disguised radio automobiles and were hunting down refugees trying to make their way through East Germany to Berlin.

The highest number of refugees registered previously for one day was 3793 on May 28, 1953, during the unrest just before the June 17 revolt against Communists.

The actual number fleeing today was probably much higher than recorded as many persons did not register immediately.

Most of them must have begun their difficult journey to the Berlin escape hatch before Premier Khrushchev's television speech on Germany last night. There was nothing in the speech calculated to stem the flow.

Information Bureau West, a private Western agency, gave as an example of the desperate Communist effort to stop the flow the measures taken at Schoenefeld, on the southeast city limits.

There the border police unit has been increased to 65 men. Fifteen plainclothesmen are on constant street patrol with walkie-talkie radios hidden in their cars, the report said.

On Sunday, a favorite day for refugees, the police hauled 218 persons out of trains at Schoenefeld and ordered them to return home. Nine automobiles heading for Berlin were turned back.

A woman who made it to West Berlin said she was stopped by police seven times in her 50-mile journey.

East Germans traveling to Berlin on official business now have to have certificates from ther factories or institutions that their trips are genuine, the agency added.

SENSATIONAL PRE-TRIAL NEWS IS CRITICIZED BY LAW DEAN

Harvard Educator Says Some Press Stories Interfere With Administration of Justice.

American newspapers were criticized yesterday by Erwin N. Griswold, dean of the Harvard Law School, for interfering with the administration of justice by sensational and sometimes inaccurate handling of pre-trial news stories.

Equally to blame, Dean Griswold said, are prosecuting attorneys who make inflammatory statements about defendants before and in trials, and make non-admissible evidence available to the press. The bar association should be alert to investigate these incidents, he added.

Griswold spoke at a panel discussion of the section of judicial administration sponsored by the Law and Laymen Conference of the American Bar Association. The discussion was held at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel.

TV Documentary.

The session began with a showing of a one-hour television documentary, "CBS Reports," a study of a New York murder case. The defendant, a 15-year-old boy was tried for beating a 63-year-old man to death.

The documentary, which has won a bar association "gavel" award for distinguished journalistic effort, was presented on television last March. It showed how sensational presentation of the case by New York newspapers created a false image in the minds of newspaper readers. The documentary indicated that helping to form the image were prosecution statements and withholding of information helpful to the boy's defense.

"Sensationalism creates controversy between a free press and the administration of justice," said Judge Stanley N. Barnes of the United States Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals at Los Angeles, the moderator. "Lawyers must take the lead in seeing that responsibility is exercised."

Joseph A. Ball, Long Beach, Calif., retiring chairman of the National Conference of Bar Presidents, said he was not worried about America's free press. He expressed hope that newspapers would use discretion. He described inflammatory statements by counsel as "unethical."

Changes Urged.

Several of the panelists argued for changes in criminal trial procedure that would eliminate the element of chance in the "adversary" system. Pre-trial discovery by the defense of the state's primafacie evidence was recommended.

Dean Griswold said American courts might do well to alter its court system. He pointed out facets of the judicial systems of England, Germany and Japan which he considered fairer than American trial methods.

Among those on the panel were District Attorney Edwin S. Silver of Kings county, Brooklyn, who prosecuted the murder case presented in the television report, and Abraham H. Brodsky, the defense counsel in the case. Chief Judge Charles S. Desmond of the New York Court of Appeals participated.

Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, addressing the section of criminal law at the Statler Hilton Hotel, said a new Illinois criminal code will make it easier to prosecute persons who bribe public officials and influence peddlers.

The code, which will become effective next Jan. 1, will "make it criminal to offer a bribe to a person the offerer believes to be a public official, but who is in reality a mere influence peddler," Kerner said.

"Thus, it is the evil intent to purchase favorable treatment by public officials or agencies which is made criminal, regardless of whether the person bribed may not be able to carry out the promise," the Governor said.

Aimed at Gambling.

Another provision of the code, Kerner said, is aimed at large-scale gambling activities, which are the financial backbone of organized crime.

"Among key sections is one which prohibits for the first time the transmission of betting information by telephone or telegraph and the installation and maintenance of such equipment," he said. "Gambling houses are categorized as public nuisances and subjected to the rigors of injunctive relief by the prosecutor."

Persons buying federal gambling stamps also must register them with the county clerk under the code, Kerner said. This will make it simple to detect an illegal gambling operation and also put local law enforcement agencies on notice, he said.

Kerner described as "one of the most heartening reforms" a section of the code which will place sentencing power in the hands of the court.

"This should eliminate shocking disparities in sentences received by defendants engaged in identical conduct under a jury sentencing system," he said.

Gov. John Anderson Jr. of Kansas told the criminal law section that he was disturbed by a growing tendency of courts to reverse convictions because of fundamentally harmless error, despite unquestioned guilt of the defendant.

Anderson was critical of shifting ground rules governing search and seizure He said law enforcement agencies follow basic ground rules in solving crimes, but often find when they get to court that the rules have been changed.

The doctrine of habeas corpus is being abused in this country, Anderson said. He said that the doctrine was developed in England as a legal device for protecting the defendant from delays, but is used as an instrument of delay by defense counsel in the United States.

Jane Russell Urges Change In Law on Foreign Adoptions

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Actress JANE RUSSELL at family law section of American Bar Association convention.

Changes have become necessary in laws relating to the adoption of foreign children by Americans because the spirit behind the law has changed, actress Jane Russell said here yesterday.

Miss Russell is founder and director of the Worldwide Adoption International Fund (WAIF), an agency of the International Social Service. The eight-year-old WAIF attempts to help American families enmeshed in international legal problems when attempting overseas adoptions.

Speaking before the family law section of the American Bar Association at the Coronado Hotel, she made a plea for better legal understanding of the problems encountered by WAIF.

"You must help promote changes in the laws where the spirit behind the law has changed," she urged the audience of about 150 lawyers and their wives. Citing a Biblical quotation, she added, "The letter killeth and the spirit maketh alive."

"I know little about the law, except what my mother told me," she noted. "The laws I know are based on the Good Book."

Miss Russell said about 90 per cent of the American pairs desiring to adopt children are forced to look abroad because of the short supply in the United States. The number of orphans in Europe far exceeds the demand there for adoptions, she said.

Miss Russell outlined some of the problems faced in overseas adoptions by relating her experiences in Ireland in the adoption of her son Thomas, 11 years old. She has also two children adopted in this country, a daughter, Tracy, 10; and a son, Buck, 5.

"The idea of 'having some duty toward others besides yourself' is the foundation for my work with WAIF," Miss Russell said. "I grew up with four younger brothers, and was trained to be a 'busy-body' and 'do-gooder' in helping Mom take care of them."

Mrs. Susan T. Pettiss, associate director of the American Branch of the International Social Service, also addressed the family law section.

FENTON BOARD OPPOSES PLAN FOR AIRPORT

Resolution Adopted, 9 to 0—Commission to Study Possibility of Condemnation.

Development of a secondary airport in the vicinity of Weiss Airport at Fenton was opposed by a vote of 9 to 0 by the Fenton Board of Aldermen last night.

A resolution was adopted calling for all legal action necessary to block the proposed airport expansion.

John Fabick, chairman of the City-Council Airport Commission, said today that the power of eminent domain could be exercised by the commission to condemn airport property whether or not Fenton approves the plan.

"It has not been determined whether the commission will take such action," Fabick added. "That is a matter which we will discuss."

I think the aldermen are being short-sighted in turning this down because they can look at the Lambert-St. Louis Field area and see the way things have built up around that airport."

George E. Murray, Fenton city attorney, said that any move by the commission to acquire the property will be fought in the courts.

Expansion of the airport would be "injurious to the economic well-being and would radically upset the tax base of the City of Fenton," the resolution said. It asserted that the enlarged airport would remove from the tax books an area constituting about one sixth of the city and one half of its potential industrial area.

In addition, the resolution said expansion would be detrimental to county taxpayers because 700 acres of industrial ground would be removed from the tax books "and would increase the tax burden of the residents of the county as a whole."

The airport, as a tax-free facility, would increase the tax burden of the city because of the additional services which would have to be provided, including lights, protection, street contruction and maintenance of streets, the aldermen said.

The proposed area of expansion has been found by the St. Louis County Planning Commission to be in a flood plain, the board said.

"There are serious doubts that governmental agencies would approve this site and the proposed flight patterns," it was said.

The joint airport commission could in a short time "make a complete and detailed study of all the possible sites for an airport in the metropolitan St. Louis area and find one that could be acquired and developed at much less cost to the taxpayers," the resolution said.

KENNEDY PRESS CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—President Kennedy will hold a press conference Thursday at 9 a.m. (St. Louis time) his first since July 19. The conference will not be carried live on television or radio, but will be taped for later use.

LAWYER REPLIES TO ATTACK ON INJURY AWARDS

Few Adequately Paid by Insurance Firms, Says Head of Lawyers Association.

Orville Richardson, president of the Lawyers Association of St. Louis, said today that "few injured people are adequately compensated by insurance companies under our present system."

The comment was made in reply to a statement made yesterday by R. Newell Lusby, New York insurance attorney. Lusby said that awarding large damage claims to injured plaintiffs causes increases in insurance rates and that standard equipment of an insurance company does not include a printing press for money.

"I would not answer Mr. Lusby if I did not consider his statement an attack upon juries, judges and the legal profession," Richardson told the Post-Dispatch. Lusby spoke before a section of the American Bar Association convention meeting here.

"First, only half of the motor vehicles in the United States are insured or operated by financially responsible persons," Richardson said.

Not Enough Insurance.

"The vast majority of those who do carry insurance do not have enough to protect themselves or injured people. Only a small percentage of injured persons employ lawyers and, as to the rest, insurance companies themselves control claims dollars."

Richardson said that "these are only three reasons — and there are many more—that very few injured people are adequately compensated under our present system."

He pointed out that only three states, one of which is New York, have compulsory automobile insurance.

"Second," Richardson continued, "less than two per cent of the few claims in which lawyears are employed are tried before juries. About half of these result in verdicts for the defendant. A tiny minority of those in favor of the claimant are excessive."

Richardson said that in Missouri and almost every state "both trial judges and appellate courts freely exercise the power to reduce jury verdicts, but have no power to increase inadequate ones, except by granting a new trial. Therefore, it is manifestly unjust to blame juries, judges or lawyers for the level of insurance premiums."

Rise in Other Costs.

"Third," Richardson said, "If insurance premiums are high, so is the cost of milk, medical services and the salaries of insurance officials and their attorneys. Only human life and limb remain cheap in the eyes of the drunken motorist and some few insurance companies."

Making his fourth major point, Richardson said that "What the people of Missouri would really like to know is this: What is the insurance industry doing about the thousands of people justly entitled to compensation who receive none at all or inadequate amounts?

"What is it doing about the lack of compulsory insurance, the coverages inadequate in amount, our antiquated insurance laws, the fly-by-night companies which become insolvent for reasons other than claims costs, the exclusions written in fine print into some policies so as to leave the motorist uninsured and the injured person uncompensated, the sharp and fraudulent claims practices which fortunately are indulged in by only a few adjusters and finally the slander and intimidation of juries, judges and lawyers in magazines and newspapers under the guise of protesting against high insurance premiums."

Conflicting Testimony on Cost Of Ozarks Park Easements

Backers of Curtis Proposal Put Figure at $500,000 — Agriculture Dept. Estimate Is Higher.

By MICHAEL PULITZER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — A House subcommittee heard conflicting testimony today on the cost to the Government of easements on land in a proposed recreation area along the Ozark rivers.

Witnesses testified on a measure sponsored by Representatives Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, for limited development of the Current, Jack's Fork, and Eleven Point rivers by the National Forest Service.

A key feature of Curtis's proposal is the acquisition of easements rather than purchasing land outright. An easement is a limited interest in land for a specific purpose. In this case, the landowners would give the Government "scenic easements." The land then could be used by the owner as he wished as long as the scenic beauty was not changed.

Second Proposal.

Another proposal now pending in Congress authorizes the National Park Service to buy outright 113,000 acres for development of the Ozark rivers national monument.

Supporters of the Curtis proposal said acquisition of easements would cost the Government about $500,000, but a spokesman for the Department of Agriculture put the cost at considerably more either to acquire easements or to purchase the land.

Supporters of the Park Service proposal contend that the cost of easements is about the same as purchasing land outright. This view was supported in part by the testimony of William H. Whyte Jr., a rural land planning expert with the Rockefeller Foundation.

Land Values Up.

Whyte spoke in favor of the easement approach as a matter of principle. "The saving in cost is not that important," he said.

Whyte later told the Post-Dispatch that the cost of an easement on speculative land near an urban area is about the same as the cost to purchase the land outright. In rural areas, however, the cost of an easement is about one-fourth the cost of the land, he said.

Land values in the Ozark region have gone up substantially in recent years because of the prospect of development of a large recreation area and mining exploration.

George A. Selke, assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, spoke against the Curtis measure. "In this particular case, it would not appear desirable for this department to seek to enlarge the area under its jurisdiction in order to be able to administer narrow strips of land along the large sections of the Current and Eleven Point rivers area which are presently outside the national forest boundary."

Would Include 3000 Acres.

The Clark National Forest in the Ozarks encompasses about 900,000 acres. The proposed recreation area, under both the Park Service and the Forest Service bills, would include only about 3000 acres of this forest.

In answer to questions from members of the subcommittee, Selke said the Department of Agriculture decided it did not want to acquire 113,000 acres of land and add it to the Clark National Forest. He put the cost of the land between $70 and $90 an acre.

Curtis testified that the Forest Service approach to development of the land would be "considerably less expensive" that the Park Service proposal and could better preserve the area as it is now. Curtis said "an overwhelming number of people in the counties affected favor the Forest Service approach."

Curtis said, however, that he was not "wedded" to the Forest Service approach. "My objective is to preserve the area. If it is thought that the Park Service approach is better, I certainly will go along with that," he said.

CARROLL TAX CASE SETTLED FOR $49,999

U.S. Sought $407,663 in Original Claims Against Former St. Louis Gambler.

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — The Internal Revenue Service has settled tax claims totaling $407,663 against James J. Carroll, former St. Louis gambler, for $49,999, records in United States Tax Court showed today.

The agreement was worked out in a stipulation entered into by attorneys for Carroll and the revenue service, and approved by Judge Morton P. Fisher of the tax court.

The settlements covered two cases. One named only Carroll. The other named Carroll and his wife, Edith.

The case against Carroll covered the years from 1942 through 1947. The second claim was for the years from 1948 through 1950.

New Evidence.

Tax court records showed that much of the reduction in the Government's claim resulted from its agreement that collection of alleged tax deficiencies for the years 1942 through 1945 was prevented by the statute of limitations.

Other reductions stemmed from certain "newly discovered evidence" submitted by Carroll after the two claims were filed against him in 1958.

The Government's claims alleged that Carroll "was engaged in gambling, bookmaking and other illegal activities" in the period in question. In its original claims it said the tax deficiencies were fraudulent and asserted that Carroll had failed to keep adequate books and records.

The total of additional taxes and penalties originally sought by the Government for the 1942-47 period was $277,739. This claim was settled for $20,176. The settlement included $13,451 in deficient taxes and $6725 in penalties.

One answer, Humphrey said, should be to pass the foreign aid bill and "show we are prepared to defend the free world economically as well as militarily."

Senator George D. Aiken (Rep.), Vermont, a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, said, "I think Khrushchev took a good, long step forward in what he said about maintaining access to Berlin. Perhaps it is time for us to take a step, too."

Aiken said he thinks it is "time for both sides to stop shaking missiles and start talking."

COOL RECEPTION IN WEST EUROPE

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Much of western Europe gave a cool reception today to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's suggestion for East-West talks on Berlin.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home said: "It is quite clear that Mr. Khrushchev is playing a game of political poker and we cannot and ought not to disclose our hand."

Home discussed Khrushchev's speech in Paris where he attended the weekend western foreign ministers' meeting.

"Should reason not prevail in this matter of Germany and Berlin we come close to a very dangerous situation and possibly war," Home told reporters.

Home said Khrushchev's invitation to new talks must be studied carefully, but "if from the start there is no real hope of getting an agreement, then in this case negotiations are worse than no negoitiations at all."

Mayor Brandt's Views.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said Khrushchev had done nothing to reduce East-West tensions. Brandt assailed Khrushchev's statement that self-determination for Germany was just a hypocritical Western slogan. The Mayor said the Germans' elementary wish for self-determination cannot be passed off with the art of dialectics.

The deputy chairman of West Germany's opposition Socialist party, Herbert Wehner, agreed that Khrushchev had not departed at any point from his previously stated position on Berlin.

The London Daily Mail called for a summit meeting with Khrushchev "at the earliest moment . . . to find out what his real intentions are." The London Times said the door on both sides is open to negotiation.

"Mr. K wants recognition for East Germany," said Britain's Laborite Daily Herald. "The West wants copper-bottomed guarantees for the freedom of Berlin. Here is surely a basis for talks."

East German Recognition.

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express also called for bargaining and indicated the West should give Khrushchev the recognition he demands for the Communist East German regime. The Express said, "It is not impossible, too, that a free West Berlin could be adequately guaranteed within that (East German) republic."

The Times compared Khrushchev's speech with President Kennedy's and found striking similarities.

"Both speakers," it said, "used language as tough as any that has been heard since the end of the war, but both came back to the possibility of negotiations."

The Manchester Guardian took the gravest view of the situation, commenting:

"Both sides remain set on their collision courses, and neither will make the first move to end the crisis.

"The world situation is therefore more dangerous than at any time for the last 10 years. In one sense, indeed, it is more dangerous than ever before—for 10 years ago the Soviet Union had no thermonuclear weapons.

"In these circumstances, the West's failure to propose negotiations as soon as possible is lamentable."

"Negotiations in his (Khrushchev's) eyes can be conceived only on the basis of the settlement he envisages for solving the Berlin crisis," said Paris's conservative Figaro.

Swedish Comments.

Stockholm's Svenska Dagbladet thought the West would take up Khrushchev's offer to talk but said the Soviet leader would get the sole credit for taking the initiative.

Stockholm's Tidningen called the speech unduly harsh and said the western powers are heading for their toughest negotiations since the end of World War II.

Of Khrushchev's threat to call up more troops, the Paris Figaro said:

"This kind of intimidation should not surprise us. Mr. Khrushchev is respecting the rules of the game he has decided to play. . . . To accuse the Western powers of putting world peace in peril, to affirm that these powers meditate an aggression against the socialist states is to mock the whole world."

In Italy, the organ of the Christian Democrat party, Il Popolo, said "Mr. K. talks of negotiations but does not tone down his position."

ish and French press to the effect that on insistence of the French in the foreign ministers' conference any attempt to arrive at a negotiating position was postponed. Some stories went so far as to refer to a "deadlock."

According to the American spokesmen, this greatly exaggerated the situation in the conference. There were differences of emphasis but it was agreed unanimously that this was not the time to try to reach agreement on an advanced negotiating position.

The working group made up of representatives of the United States, Britain and France, who will resume their labors in Washington, will receive guidance out of this conference. They must advance the negotiating process a step farther and it will be reconsidered when the foreign ministers get together at the meeting of the General Assembly of the United Nations next month.

Rusk is meeting with President De Gaulle tonight. He will try to impress on him the American view on the importance of a compromise settlement of the French dispute with Tunisia over the Bizerte base but his aids were not too optimistic about the Secretary's chances of success. De Gaulle has a habit of launching into a long disquisition with numerous historical parallels at any mention of a subject on which he has unshakeable views. His interlocutor has no choice but to sit quiet and listen.

There is no sign that the French President has altered his resistance to any compromise that would set an eventual date for the evacuation of Bizerte. De Gaulle has been insisting that it is all the more important to keep the base in view of the Berlin crisis and the possibility that if it were turned over the the Tunisians it might fall into Soviet control.

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville entertained Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home last night at dinner. Dining without any of their aids present, they are believed to have covered some of the touchier subjects omitted at the conference.

At yesterday's concluding session, trouble points in Southeast Asia and Africa were discussed. The ministers are said to have arrived at a slightly more optimistic view of the situation in South Viet Nam, where Communist guerillas have threatened the American-backed regime of Ngo Dinh Diem. Recent developments in The Congo were also said to have given some cause for optimism.

Other Talks By Rusk.

By United Press International.

Rusk had a breakfast conference today with NATO Secretary General Dirk U. Stikker of The Netherlands and Thomas Finletter, United States ambassador to NATO, before meeting the permanent council.

He described the weekend conference as "very opportune and useful."

"It allowed us to examine the problems which cannot fail to arise this autumn concerning Germany and Berlin," he said.

Rusk leaves for Italy tomorrow to meet with German Chancellor Adenauer, who is vacationing there. He will see also Italian Foreign Minister Antonio Segni, who has just returned from Moscow.

mission, who was at the meeting. "Mr. Minow's efforts to get for the public better television programs is what I call vigorous pursuit of the public interest," Quesada said.

Representing Millions.

Unfortunately, he continued, it is not always the case that those who hold public office have public trust. A reasonably conscientious administrator must realize he represents 190,000,000 persons, as compared with the thousands pursuing vested interests, he said.

Quesada assailed vested interests as at times being "unreasonable and lacking in truth." He cited as an example the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, which he described as in reality a corporation engaged in selling products and insurance for profit.

The organization fought his ruling when FAA administrator that no pilot who had suffered a cardiac attack, or who had diabetes or epilepsy should get a license, Quesada said, adding, "Yet, the A.O.P.A. refuses to sell its insurance polices to such persons."

Henry Luce Speaks.

Henry R. Luce, editor-in-chief of Time, Inc., said last night at another section meeting that until law is made the major theme of all United States policy, the nation "will never have a policy, but only expediencies."

In an address to the section on judicial administration at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel, Luce asserted that President Kennedy has an opportunity to raise materially the nation's judiciary standards.

Mr. Kennedy has the power to appoint nearly 100 federal judges, or about a fourth of the nation's total, he said. Each new appointment should receive the utmost attention by the American press so that the people are informed, he said.

"Assuming that the President and Attorney General do a good job, then surely it would be the signal for every judge in America to measure himself by the highest modern standards; to speed up reform in his own court, to resign if he is too old and feeble, as in some cases, to open his court at 9 a.m.," Luce said.

Luce told the lawyers that "our job today is to maintain our system of liberty under law." To maintain the system, "we must expand it for the expanding universe and strengthen it to bear the far-greater strain and stresses it must soon bear."

President Installed.

John C. Satterfield, Yazoo City, Miss., was installed as president of the A.B.A. at yesterday's opening session of the organization's policy-making body, the House of Delegates.

Satterfield, who takes office at the close of the eighty-fourth annual convention, is the first Mississippian ever elected to head the 101,500-member national legal organization. He is a former member of the Mississippi Legislature and a former president of that state's bar association. He succeeds Whitey North Seymour, New York, and will hold office for one year.

Chosen as president-elect was Sylvester C. Smith Jr., West Orange N. J., general counsel for Prudential Insurance Co., and former president of the New Jersey State Bar Association. Smith will succeed to the presidency in August 1962.

The House of Delegates confined its efforts yesterday to procedural matters and proposed minor amendments to the bylaws. The 257-member body begins discussion today of proposed resolutions, which if adopted, become official policy of the A.B.A.

Wayne L. Millsap, 20 Plaza square, yesterday was elected speaker of the Junior Bar Conference Assembly at the organization's annual meeting at the Statler Hilton Hotel. The assembly is the J.B.C.'s policy-making body.

Millsap is vice president of the St. Louis Bar Association and director of the St. Louis Legal Aid Society.

Your time is on time at Eastern

To bring you split-second accuracy in scheduling, Eastern has taken special steps to eliminate delays in takeoff and landing caused by the complex problems of the jet age. In short: we're doing everything possible to get you there on time.

As a result of this continuing effort, 91.1% of Eastern's passenger flight departures in July were right on the nose, or within 15 minutes of being exactly on time. What's more, 87.3% of our passenger flight arrivals for July were also on time, or within 15 minutes of schedule time. These figures are for all 41,536 passenger flights operated in the month of July, and are, we believe, the best on-time figures in the industry. As for August, we expect to do even better.

Whether it's scheduling, reservations, baggage handling or any other service, we strive to bring you jet speed and efficiency from the ground up...to make Eastern the world's most dependable airline...with the world's most satisfied passengers.

Rise in U.S. Fish Catch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The United States catch of fish and shellfish in the first half of 1961 totaled 1,692,400,000 pounds, the Department of Interior estimated yesterday. This was an increase of about 241,000,000 pounds or 17 per cent over the catch in the first six months of 1960.

Asia-Africa Bloc in U.N. Urges Assembly Session on Tunisia

© New York Times News Service

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 8—A special session of the General Assembly on the dispute between France and Tunisia was formally requested yesterday by the African-Asian group of the United Nations.

The chief of one Asian delegation said last night that the group hoped the session would start in 10 days.

They still lacked three of the 50 signatures that would make the session mandatory. Members of the group said they were confident that the total would be reached in a day or two as Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold polled the nations.

Thirty-five of the 45 members of the African and Asian group signed the original letter of request yesterday. So did Cuba, Yugoslavia and Brazil. Most of the former French colonies among the Africans did not sign.

Nine members of the Soviet bloc sent in a separate letter. It is their current policy to ignore Hammarskjold because they consider him prejudiced against them. The African-Asian letter was addressed to him and the Soviet bloc letter simply to the secretariat in general.

The current acting president of the African-Asian group, Michel Collet of Guinea, and Platon D. Morosov of the Soviet Union told reporters later that they were convinced of the importance of speed in settling the Tunisian dispute.

The Secretary General is required by the rules of procedure to summon the session within 15 days of receiving a request from a majority of the members.

The crisis between France and Tunisia erupted on July 19. More than 600 Tunisians and some French troops were killed in four days of fighting before an interim resolution of the Security Council on July 22 brought a cease-fire.

Some of the delegates involved have said that a number of countries were unwilling to sign the request but would be willing to support it on a poll.

lage of Polkovnikovo in the Altai Krai region.

Picture posters of the new cosmonaut began going up in Red Square. Souvenir badges were rushed to Moscow stores. Titov probably will receive a cosmonaut medal, the first of which was awarded to Gagarin.

Maj. Titov was quoted as saying his spaceship came back to earth in condition good enough for another space flight.

"The ship and all its instruments are fine and in working order," he told reporters for Pravda.

Describing some of what he saw, he said, according to Pravda:

"I saw the fantastic sun and stars, the extraordinary, unearthly colors. The cosmos awaits its own painters and poets, and of course scientists."

Titov said also that although he felt fine circling around in space he was homesick for earth.

"There is nothing more splendid in the world than mother earth," he was quoted. "On earth one can stand, work and breathe."

'Homesickness for Earth.'

While aloft, he said, "I knew there was something in the nature of homesickness called nostalgia. But I found there is also a homesickness for the earth."

The official Tass news agency said Titov laughed and joked in preparations for his flight around the earth.

It described him as having a "love of life."

In a report from the site where Titov's spaceship, Vostok II, was launched, Tass special correspondent Aleksandr Romanov wrote:

"The sun burning and hot over the steppe, lit up the silver spaceship, the cosmodrome and the flowers growing beside the pavement.

". . . Everything is ready for the flight. . . . The launching area is cleared. . . . Here comes the light-blue bus carrying the spaceman. . . .

"Gherman Titov alights, crosses towards the launching area and the lift takes him up to his cabin. He is wearing an orange colored flying suit with U.S.S.R. written on it. . . .

"Gherman ascends the stairway to the platform where the lift is situated and addresses those assembled below and all the Soviet people.

"He says that he will fulfill with honor the task which has been entrusted to him by the party and the government. . . .

"And at last, in the silence, rings out the last command.

"From the distance we can see the silvery rocket, already completely free from the supporting gantry. Another second—exactly 9 a.m., and the rocket, propelled by some unbelievable, miraculous force, slowly, it seems very slowly, leaves the earth.

"Gathering force, it streaks more and more quickly upwards, like a roaring fiery globe.

"At this moment it seems that two suns are shining on the earth.

"At a comparatively low height the spaceship inclines to the side and flies on its set course into orbit."

Titov may have been in control of his spaceship when it landed, Tass indicated.

Tass said Titov met with Gagarin, and "quite a lot of other people" at a quiet cottage last night and discussed the flight.

Tass said Titov told reporters that when he took over manual control of the spaceship he "was able to orient it in any direction." It quoted him further as saying: "Also when landing when I operated the controls I felt myself a real pilot."

Kennedy Aid Urges Bar to Help Improve Work of U.S. Agencies

Full co-operation of the nation's organized bar in helping to improve the processes of the federal administrative agencies was urged here today by James M. Landis, chief adviser to President Kennedy on these agencies.

The administrative process, relatively new in government, is "likely to be a continuing method for keeping economic society in balance, whatever the alleged philosophies of our rival political parties may be," he said.

Landis, former dean of Harvard law school, spoke at the Coronado Hotel before the administrative law section of the American Bar Association convention. In a report to the President last January, Landis recommended sweeping reforms in the administrative agencies.

The speaker emphasized the need in the administrative process "for the utilization of disciplines other than law."

As an example he cited a recent case before the Atomic Energy Commission involving the issue of safety in licensing of nuclear reactors. In addition to the normal legal treatment of the matter, Landis said he recommended that the hearing examiner be assisted by two scientists familiar with the safety problem. This procedure, however, violated the Administrative Procedure Act, Landis said.

The prime difficulty with respect to procedures of the administrative agencies is "the factor of delay," Landis continued.

"It is an old and common saying that justice delayed is justice denied, but the fact that such a saying is shopworn does not detract from its essential truth," he said.

The lag in administrative disposition of cases "approaches a national scandal, but to date the bar has not seriously or studiously considered this problem or risen in its majestic wrath to demand its cure," he said.

However, he went on, the problem "fortunately has now gained the attention of Congress . . . and no longer does the Administrative Procedure Act have about it an aure of untouchableness as if it had been brought down from Mount Sinai."

'Deadwood' in Agencies.

Philip Elman, a member of the Federal Trade Commission, said yesterday the commission's new rules, although drastic, are merely "paper reforms" and how well they work will depend on the measure of compliance by commission personnel.

"The real problem in our administrative agencies is to get rid of the political hacks and the deadwood, to obtain the finest young men from our law schools and to stimulate and pay them enough to keep them," Elman declared.

Elman, a political independent, was elevated to FTC membership last April from his post as assistant to the Solicitor General. He appeared with chairmen of the other five major federal administrative agencies on a panel before the administrative law section.

Chairmen on Panel.

Agency chairmen on the panel were Everett Hutchinson, Interstate Commerce Commission; Jerome K. Kukyendall, Federal Power Commission; William Cary, Securities and Exchange Commission; Newton N. Minow, Federal Communications Commission, and Alan S. Boyd, Civil Aeronautics Board.

All agreed that, while recent reorganizations of the agencies have brought improvements, much remains to be done toward eliminating delays in handling cases and in otherwise increasing efficiency.

Elman said that after joining the FTC he was "amazed to find that the commission had developed peripatetic hearings from city to city which continued over months and years."

"It took 16 years, for example, for a final order to be entered requiring deletion of the word liver from the name of a certain little pill," he said.

"The new rules require that a case, once begun, must be carried to a conclusion unless a strong case can be made before the commission as a whole for postponement."

Workable Laws Urged.

Kuykendall told of recent improvements in Federal Power Commission procedures, but said there could be "no real improvement until Congress enacts workable laws for us to administer. We must have new tools to do the job assigned us."

Boyd, of the CAB, agreed that "speed and simplification must be attained," but added that these "become hollow things if their price is action that is unsound or unfair."

"Even the most meticulous procedures cannot be justified if they become a luxury that only the person with financial resources to withstand long and expensive litigation can afford," Boyd continued.

Boyd said an essential in improvement of the administrative process was the delegation to subordinates by agency members of decision-making authority.

Minow echoed Boyd's remarks about work load as applied to Minow's agency, the Federal Communications Commission, and also about the need for authority to delegate some of its functions.

Minow pointed out that bills pending in Congress, if passed, would allow the commission more discretion in this connection.

Hutchinson said recent changes in ICC procedures and practices "are sound, in the public interest and will speed our work and improve our actions."

QUEEN ELIZABETH, PHILIP VISITING NORTHERN IRELAND

CARRICKFERGUS, Northern Ireland, Aug. 8 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrived aboard the royal yacht Britannia today, to begin a two-day visit to northern Ireland.

It was the first royal visit to Carrickfergus since King William III landed here in 1690.

The royal couple arrived in a steady downpour and it was still raining when the Queen inspected a guard of honor and visited the Twelfth Century Carrickfergus castle. After the welcome, they drove the eight miles to Belfast. They were accompanied by Prince Charles and Priness Anne.

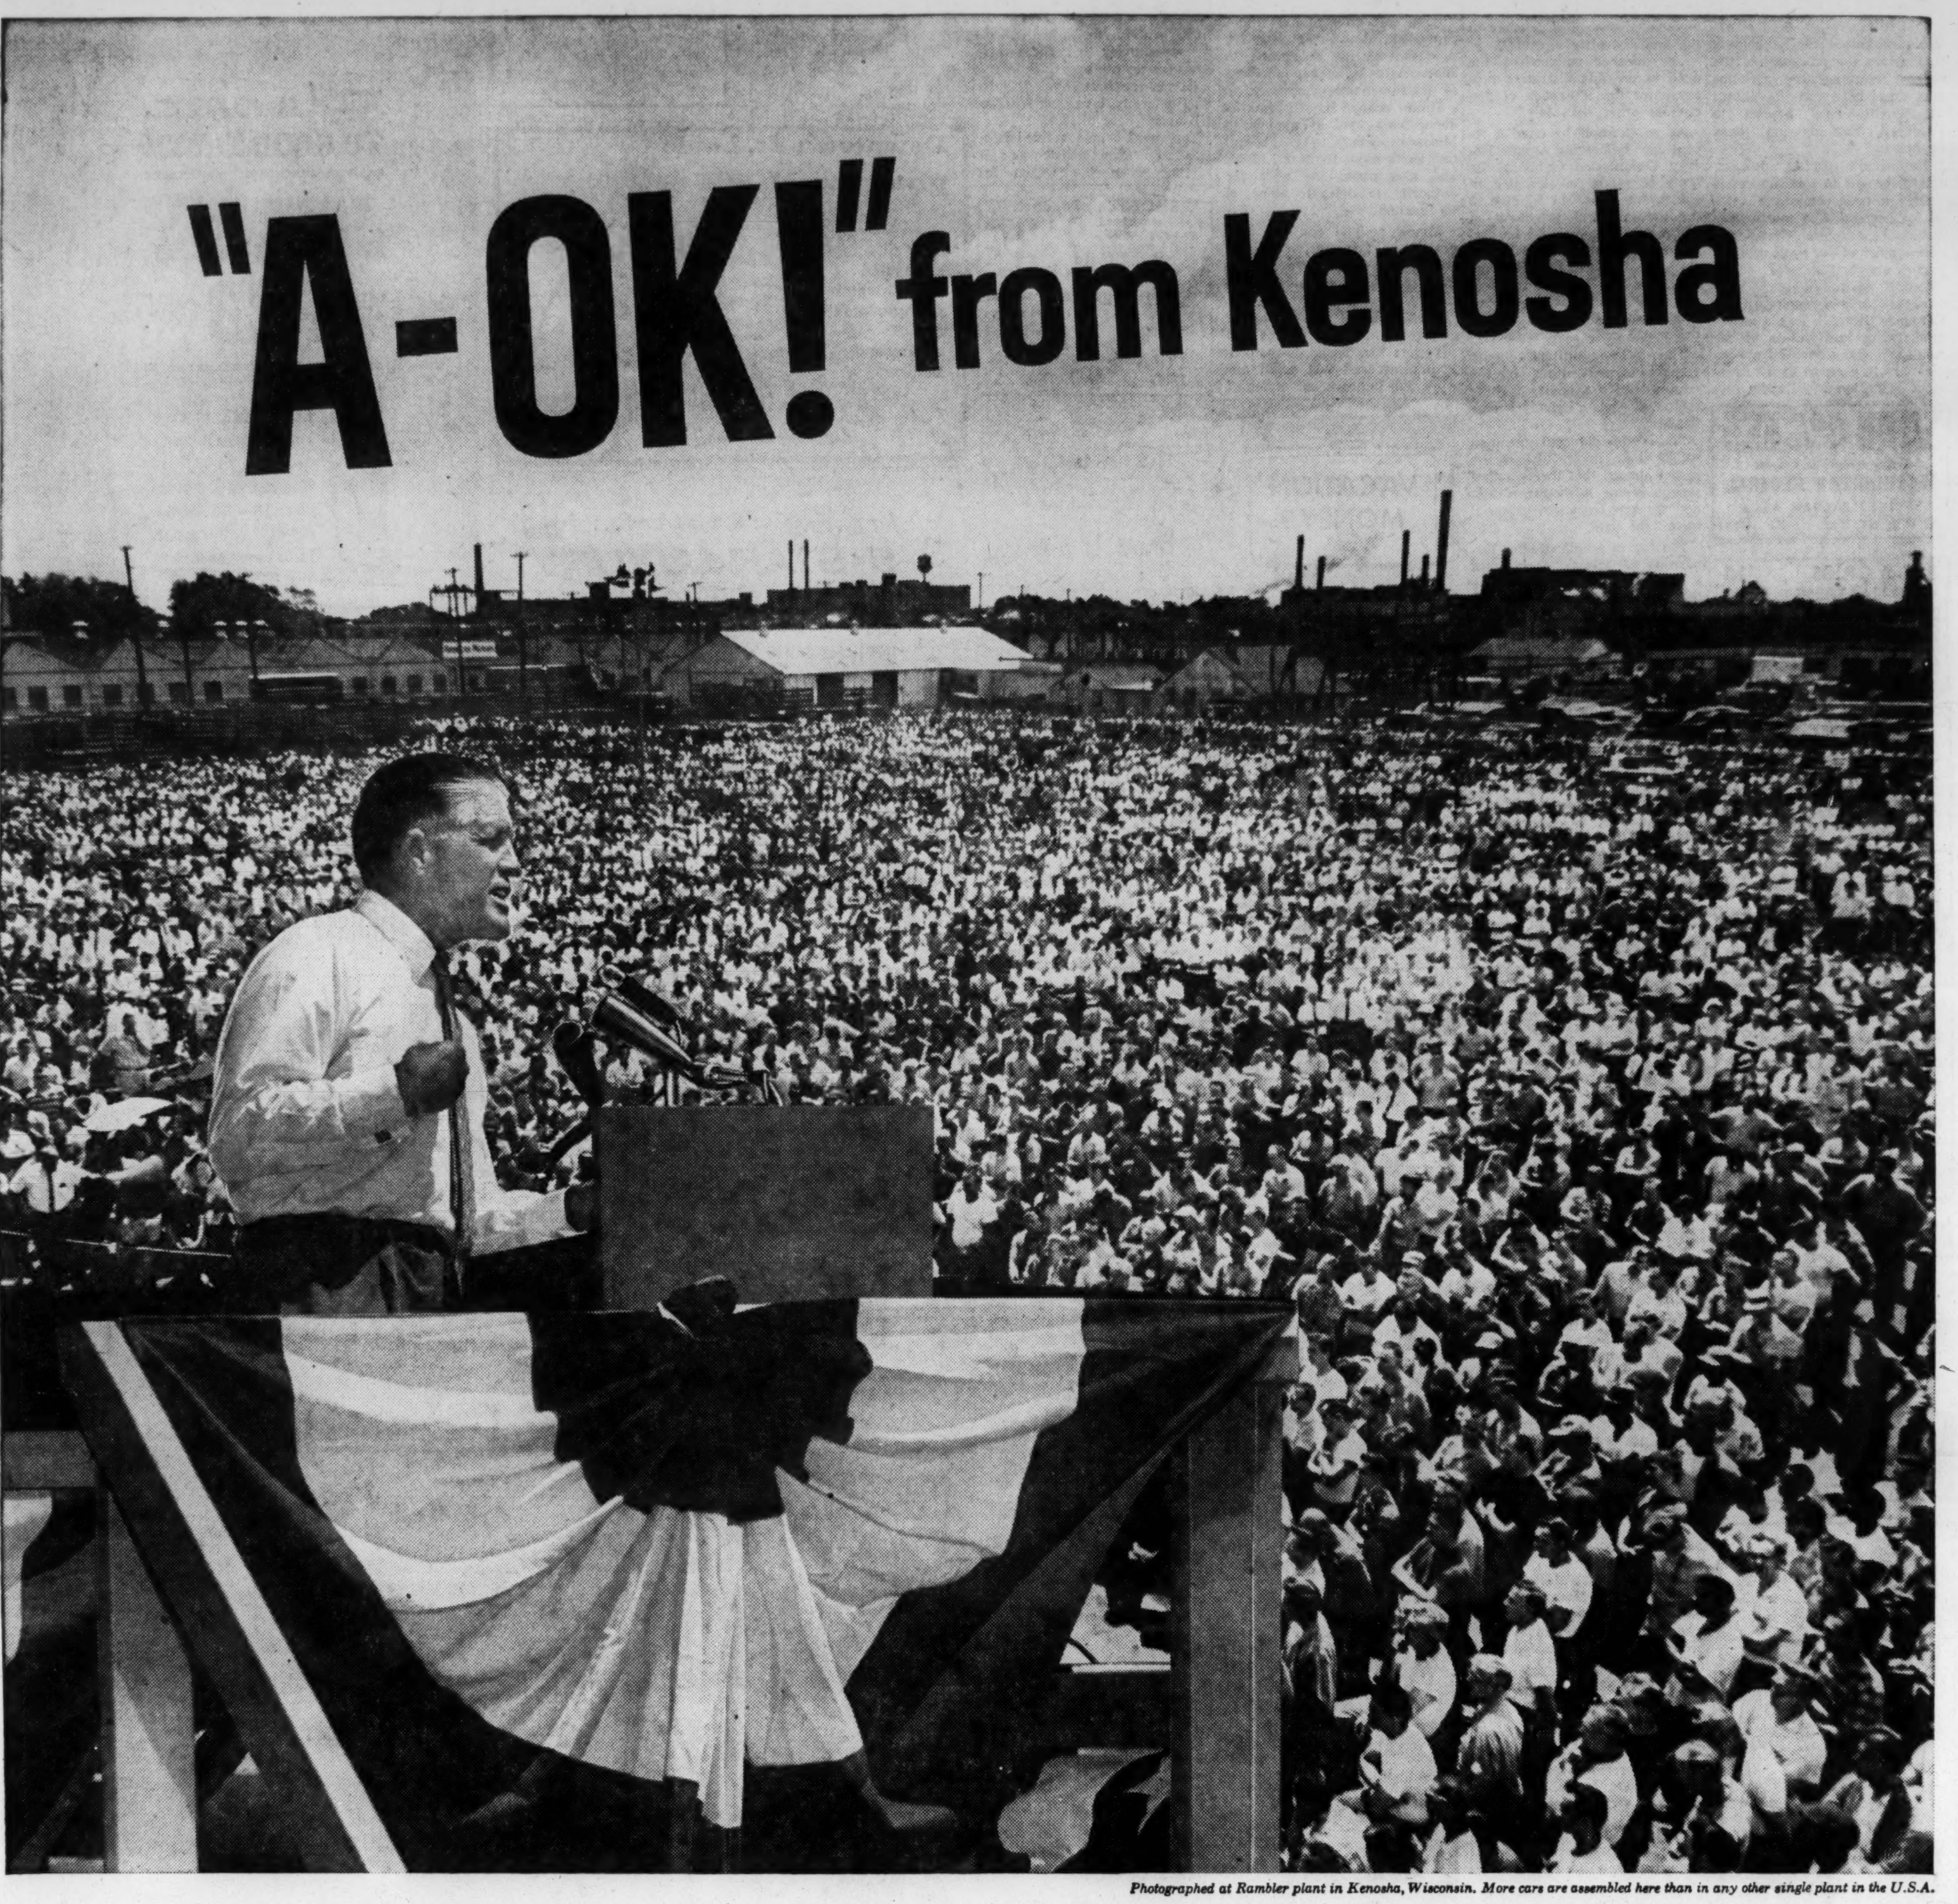
"A-OK!" from Kenosha



Photographed at Rambler plant in Kenosha, Wisconsin. More cars are assembled here than in any other single plant in the U.S.A.

THIS PICTURE WAS TAKEN JULY 25, WHEN AMERICAN MOTORS' PRESIDENT GEORGE ROMNEY AGAIN TALKED DIRECTLY TO RAMBLER EMPLOYEES. THIS OCCASION WAS THE LAUNCHING OF OUR LATEST QUALITY THRUST—THE "A-OK QUALITY WORKMANSHIP" PROGRAM USING THE ASTRONAUTS' DRAMATIC "EVERYTHING IS ALL RIGHT" SIGNAL AS THE SYMBOL.

American Motors has a face-to-face, spade-a-spade habit.

At the face-to-face, call a spade-a-spade meetings in Kenosha and Milwaukee, Mr. Romney told the 23,000 employees that what the American consumer wants most as standard equipment in his cars is trouble-free quality. He asked all of the employees to pledge their intensified emphasis on quality. And they agreed enthusiastically.

American Motors periodically brings all of its employees together for top-management discussion of problems and opportunities involved in serving the consumer better.

Rambler success has been due basically to 3 things:

- The common-sense compact car idea pioneered by Rambler.
- Emphasis on superior trouble-free Rambler quality.
- Letting people know the facts about Rambler advantages.

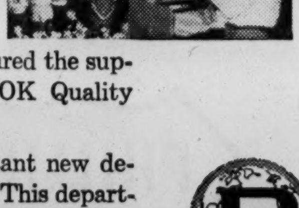
Today, one of our biggest competitive advantages—one that is winning us customers who become unofficial Rambler "salesmen"—is superior product quality.

In mass-production industry, you don't get quality just by wishing for it. Or boasting about it. You have to work for it all the time.

Some have called this the "era of the goof-off"—of sloppy workmanship on the part of executives, professionals and workers. One of our problems in the world is that America hasn't made the most of what it has.



American Motors' company-wide objective is to make trouble-free Ramblers the symbol of American industrial integrity and honesty—to make Rambler quality superior to cars costing much more built anywhere in the world.

That's why George Romney enlisted and secured the support of all our employees in the new "A-OK Quality Workmanship" program.

That's also why Rambler created an important new department unique in the automobile industry. This department is in addition to the usual organization methods employed to achieve quality.

This new Customer Quality Assurance Department acts like an outside critic or auditor and is responsible directly to President Romney instead of to manufacturing executives.

Its expert staff audits components and final car quality as produced by our regular manufacturing departments . . . quality that has been subject to the scrutiny of a full staff of regular inspectors. Members of this new department have the authority to stop the production lines any time quality isn't measuring up to what customers have the right to expect.

If you are not already one of the 1,250,000 Rambler owners, it would be to your advantage to learn what these owners know—that superior trouble-free quality is standard equipment in Rambler.

Ask any Rambler owner about his Rambler — then test drive one at your nearest Rambler dealer.

AIR GUARD RADAR UNIT SCANS SKIES

By THEODORE P. WAGNER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

VOLK FIELD, Wis., Aug. 8—Members of the 131st Tactical Control Squadron from St. Louis, scan the Wisconsin skies by radar in round-the-clock practice, searching for aerial friend or enemy while awaiting a possible call to active duty. The squadron is one of the Missouri Air Guard units in summer training here.

Set up in mobile vans, special air-conditioned hutches and trailers adjacent to the jet air strip, the radar watchers plot the position of every aircraft in their search area. Watchers sit at radarscopes in a large canvas hutch, noting the travel in the sky. Planes appear as blips on the screen and are reported by headset telephone to men stationed behind an illuminated plexiglass screen on which the positions of the planes are drawn with grease pencil.

The scanning and recording on the screen is continuous. Red symbols denote an enemy, white friendly and orange is an unknown element. Any object of "special interest" is noted in yellow. An important function of the control squadron is to "scramble" fighters to intercept and destroy an enemy, or investigate an unknown visitor.

Mobile Generators.

Several of the hutches house the operation. Insulated canvas is stretched over wood bows. Power for the radarscopes and is carried from mobile generators to the hutches through numerous cables. Wooden floors of the center become packing boxes for the canvas when the unit moves.

Other special equipment includes primary search and height finder radar screens, mounted near the recording devices. Armed guards patrol certain secret sections of the operation, including a van equipped to handle cryptographic messages.

The 131st squadron is a unit of the 157th group. Both are stationed at Jefferson Barracks. The group is commanded by Col. David W. Baugher. The squadron commander is Lt. Col. Francis Noyes. The St. Louis units are made up of 325 specialists.

Also working under the direction of the 157th group are the 128th and 133rd aircraft control and warning squadrons. The three search squadrons in training are in Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The 128th squadron from Wisconsin, also has been alerted for possible active duty.

600 by 200 Miles.

The area scanned by the three squadrons is about 600 by 200 miles. Wisconsin Air Guard Scorpion fighters are called on for scrambles to intercept intruders. Constant weather reports come in and become part of the data.

Clocks all carry Greenwich time settings, to which is added five hours representing the time difference between Greenwich and Volk Field. This makes for universal time settings at all United States plotting stations throughout the world.

Aerial gunnery, strafing, rocket firing and skip bombing continues from dawn to dark in the intensive effort to attain combat capability. Pilots returning from aerial gunnery missions over Lake Michigan eagerly gather tow targets dropped by tow planes.

Hits on the elusive silver dart target are identified by the colors of paint on the .50-caliber shells. Each of the four pilots in a flight is represented by a different color, making identification of successful marksmen positive. The target is towed at the end of a 1500-foot cable by a jet fighter plane specially equipped to tow and release the target.

Two Guard Units From St. Louis Take Part in Massive Airdrop

FORT BRAGG, N.C., Aug. 8 (AP)—Seventy-five hundred men of the Eighty-second Airborne Division made a massive airdrop today in their role as United States troops participating in a simulated war.

Twelve Air National Guard units alerted for possible duty took part in the maneuver, Operation Swift Strike. Two are from St. Louis, the 131st Tactical Fighter Wing and the 110th Tactical Fighter Squadron.

Led by Maj. Gen. Theodore J. Conway, the Eighty-second parachuted into two drop zones in the Camden (S.C.) area about 100 miles southeast of this military base.

The joint Army-Air Force exercise was the first held off military reservations since the Louisiana maneuvers of 1941.

Plans called for troop carrier planes commanded by Brig. Gen. John S. Bagby, 512th Air Force Reserve troop carrier wing, to fly 300 sorties. Most of the planes were manned by air reservists and Air National guardsmen. With the Eighty-second went all its supplies and heavy equipment.

The Berlin situation and President Kennedy's recent decision to swell the armed forces by about 250,000 men focused attention on the exercise. Its basic units, the Eighty-second, based at Fort Bragg, and the 101st Airborne Division from Fort Campbell, Ky., are the key units of the Strategic Army Corps, this nation's forces prepared to fight brushfire wars any place in the world.

Here to observe the airdrop were Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr., Secretary of the Air Force Eugene M. Zuckert and several other officials from Washington.

The exercise was under the joint command of Lt. Gen. Paul Adams, Third Army commander, Fort McPherson, Ga., and Maj. Gen. Maurice A. Preston, commanding general of the Nineteenth Air Force, Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, Goldsboro, N.C.

Nearly 40,000 men participated in the exercise over an eight-county area of North Carolina and South Carolina, stretching southwest from Fort Bragg for 100 miles and covering an area 50 to 75 miles wide.

Five hundred and fifteen military aircraft of all types were used. The 101st, as an aggressor, is to jump Thursday.

CAUGHT AFTER FLEEING FROM FILLING STATION

Johnson said he saw a car parked at the filling station, and that when he drove in, the man fled from the rear of the building and drove off in the machine. The chase ended when the fleing car skidded on gravel and came to a stop in an alley. The driver surrendered immediately.

He identified himself as Vance O. Moore of Waco, Tex., and said he had ben released from a Tennessee pnitentiary last July 20, police reported. He admitted, police said, that he had stolen the automobile earlier and broken a rear window in the filing station, but did not enter. He was booked for resisting arrest and careless driving. Warrants will be sought charging him with automobile theft and attempted burglary.

COTONOU, Dahomey, Aug. 8 (AP)—The United States Navy made a practice amphibious landing yesterday on the beach of this West African country. HOUSE GIVES U.S. NEW REBUFF ON NUCLEAR PLANT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (UPI)—Some House Democrats joined Republicans today to hand the Administration a sharp setback in its efforts to win approval of a big new federayyy owned nuclear power plant at Hanford, Wash.

The outcome duplicated an earlier vote on the same public-private power fight less than a monht ago. At that time the House refused to authorize $95,000,000 for electric generating facilities at a new plutonium production reactor at Hanford.

The new test came on the question of what instructions should be given House members of a conference committee which will try to work out a compromise bill with the Senate.

The Senate included the Hanford facilities in its bill and had been expected to prevail in conference unless the House members were bound by instructions.

In an effort to insure this, House Democratic leaders tried to kill a motion to instruct the conferees. The lost, 235 to 164, and then were beaten a second time when the House instructed its conferees to stand firm against the Hanford project.

Republicans voted almost solidly against the project. They were joined by a combination of Southern, coal state and a few Eastern Democrats.

The original $400,000,000 measure carried the $95,000,000 for Hanford, but the House knocked it out July 13 on a 176-to-140 nonrecord vote. The Senate restored the Hanford money, plus $5,000,000 for a organtown (W. Va.) coal laboratory.

Other construction items in the bill, including a multimillion dollar atom smasher for Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., were not involved in the controversy.

'Met' Season

name them might be read as an imputation that they were being disloyal to the Metropolitan.

Anna Moffo's Plans.

By the Associated Press.

Soprano Anna Moffo is known to have made other arrangements for the season, but such stars as Leontyne Price had been holding off in the hope of a settlement.

In all, nearly 700 are affected.

Robert Merrill, who was to have starred in a new production of Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera" this season, said in Rome that the cancellation is "a disgrace not only for the American people but for the entire musical and arts world."

Mezzo-soprano Rise Stevens sent a telegram to President Kennedy, saying:

"This is an irreparable blow to the cultural prestige of our country. For years we have striven for a cultural exchange with other nations, and the gradual progress in the past has been encouraging. We can hardly hope for additional progress in this direction if the symbol of one of our most important cultural institutions becomes a thing of the past."

The Metropolitan has two types of contracts for its singers. Some artists contract for a certain number of performances, from one to 12 a season, at fees ranging up to $1500 a performance. Others, of lesser stature, sign on a season basis at widely varying salaries.

Shooting

doors were unlocked. In addition to finding bloodstains, they saw a smashed wristwatch, a bloodstained knife and a hammer on the floor.

In a search of the grounds, police found a blood-covered flashlight in weeds in front of the tavern.

Miss Harrison and Miss Hayes admitted their story of McGovern's injury was untrue, but said they did not know how he had been shot. They were placed in St. Clair county jail in Belleville and held for Madison county authorities.

McGovern, 49 years old, was transferred to St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis, where he underwent surgery. He was shot in the right side of the head, in the left cheek and in the left chest close to the heart. He had bumps on his head as if he had been struck with a blunt object.

McGovern lives at 751 North Thirty-ninth street, East St. Louis. Last year he was fined for keeping a house of ill fame in the 8400 block of Collinsville road, St. Clair county.

BODY IN RIVER IDENTIFIED

A body recovered from the Missouri river Sunday was identified yesterday as that of Robert Diemann, 6301 North Lindbergh boulevard, Hazelwood, Deputy Coroner Gil Kauffmann said. The body was taken from the river near the northern boundary of Bridgeton.

Kauffmann said identification was made by Diemann's brother, Edmond, by the dead man's dentures and clothing. Edmond Diemann said his brother, 36 years old, was a paralytic and limbs on the left side of his body were shorter than on the right.

PROXMIRE CALLS O'CONNOR TOO BIASED FOR FPC

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Senator William Proxmire (Dem.), Wisconsin, told the Senate today President Kennedy's appointment of a former Texas oil man to the Federal Power Commission amounts to "stacking the deck, loading the dice, against the householder."

Proxmire renewed his one-man fight against Senate confirmation of Lawrence J. O'Connor Jr. for a seat on the FPC, which regulates the oil and gas industry among others.

He told reporters he doubted that a vote on O'Connor's nomination would be reached before tomorrow.

Proxmire spoke in most of yesterday's nine-hour Senate session and said he would need eight to 10 hours more today to complete his speech.

As he resumed his speech today, he denied he was filibustering. He said he has stuck to his subject of criticizing O'Connor's fitness for the post, and has not used quorum calls or other delaying tactics to consume time.

Proxmire charged that O'Connor is a man with a "built-in bias in favor of the industry" he would help to regulate as a member of the FPC.

He quoted statistics which showed, he said, that the industry has such vast power that it has obtained special tax benefits under which some rich oil companies pay a lesser rate than wage earners do.

He said they do not need a spokesman on the FPC in addition to this.

Declaring it would serve no no purpose to mention names, Proxmire said "a huge oil company" he identified only as Company A paid federal income taxes of $5,260,000 in 1957 which figured out to 14.9 per cent of its net income of about $35,000,000, and in 1953 paid only $367,000 taxes, or 1.9 per cent of the net earnings.

"Almost any wage earner falls into the 20 per cent income tax bracket," he said.

The Senator cited a Company B as a smaller firm whose $38,000 taxes in 1954 amounted to about 1.16 per cent of net earnings of $3,291,000.

He said most corporations outside the oil industry pay taxes ranging from 47 to 52 per cent of their net earnings. He said this shows a tremendous advantage given oil-gas companies by the tax laws.

Proxmire's announced objective is to induce the Senate to send the O'Connor nomination back to the Commerce Committee, which had approved it unanimously a week ago.

"I don't claim I'll win," Proxmire said in reply to a reporter's question.

Win or lose, he said, he hoped his speech "will have the effect of heading off any other appointment of this kind to this agency."

Senate leaders said they expected not more than a few votes would be cast against the nominee.

In his talk yesterday Proxmire termed FPC a "notorious example of an agency that has refused to comply" with federal court orders. He said the Supreme Court has held that the agency should "regulate gas (rates) at the well-head, but the FPC has said 'no.'"

Proxmire said that the consumer has been the victim of slow handling of rate cases by the FPC, because rate increases requested by the utility companies go into effect if the cases are not settled within five months. He said the customers are supposed to get refunds if the agency later sets some lower rate, but that often it is impossible to find many of the consumers entitled to refunds.

Proxmire attacked two other Kennedy appointees, Secretary of the Navy John B. Connally Jr. and Assistant Secretary of the Interior John M. Kelly.

He said the appointment of these two and of O'Connor show "the vast and, it seems, irresistible power of oil." Kelly, the Senator said, "has been up to his neck" in the oil business.

U.S. PAYS $73,681 FOR PLANE GIVEN TO IVORY COAST

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — A twin-engine Aero Commander plane that the United States gave to the Ivory Coast Sunday as an independence day gift, cost the Government $73,681.

Attorney General Robert Kennedy presented it in Abidjan to the Ivory Coast's President, Felix Houphouet-Boigny, for his personal use. The President's brother attended the anniversary observances as the President's representative.

The International Co-operation Administration bought the plane at a discount from the Aero Design & Engineering Co., of Bethany, Okla. A company spokesman here said the plane normally lists at $81,500.

The State Department said three more identical models have been ordered as independence day gifts for Dahomey, Upper Volta and Niger. The three West African states are joined with the Ivory Coast in a loosely federated entente.

Before the year is out 12 other African countries will have received independence gifts totaling about $500,000.

Partial Text of Khrushchev's Radio and Television Speech: 'West Building Forces for War'

'Our Foreign Policy Is Peaceful Coexistence,' Soviet Premier Asserts—Capitalism Is Afraid of Political and Economic Rivalry, He Charges.

MOSCOW, Aug. 8 (AP).

Following is a partial text of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's radio and television speech as translated and transmitted by Tass, the official Soviet news agency:

RADIO AND TELEVISION speeches by statesmen of our country are becoming a good tradition. Today I should like to tell you briefly about developments within our country and then to dwell on questions of the international situation.

In the first place allow me to cordially congratulate all Soviet people upon a new great victory, the successful completion of the flight of spaceship Vostok 2.

Maj. Gherman Stepanovich Titov on board the satellite-spaceship performed an unexampled journey through space which lasted more than 25 hours. After fully carrying out the assigned program, the cosmonaut landed in the prescribed area of the Soviet Union. This flight speaks for itself. As a result of this flight, humanity made another major step towards the realization of interplanetary travel . . .

Even at the time when the capitalist countries were economically far ahead of the Soviet Union, we, Marxists-Leninists, were firmly confident of the boundless possiblities of the socialist production system . . .

Those who are confident of the economic victory of their social system need not impose this system upon other peoples by force of arms. This is why we tell the leaders of capitalist states, let the peoples, let history settle the issue which system, the Socialist or the capitalist, has greater vital power and is more progressive. The peoples will make their free choice and that system will prevail that will better satisfy human material and spiritual wants.

THE SOVIET UNION, like the other socialist countries, far from being interested in war, does its utmost to create insurmountable obstacles to the unleashing of war by the imperialists . . .

Our foreign policy is peaceful coexistence, not war . . .

The point, apparently, is that the most aggressive imperialist quarters would like to disrupt our plans of peaceful construction of a Communist society.

It is capitalism that is afraid of peaceful competition between countries with different social systems.

The United States of America and the other Western powers are building up forces for war. They are appropriating tremendous sums for armaments. In the last 12 years direct military expenditures in the United States more than trebled. Fifty-three billion dollars are to be appropriated for military requirements in the current year, yet the United States President recently requested additional appropriation of $3,500,000,000. According to official, obviously far from complete data, in the last decade West Germany spent on military purposes about as much as Hitler did in the period from 1933 to the outbreak of World War II. In 1961 the military items of the budget of the Federal Republic of Germany increased by another 18 per cent. The other imperialist powers are also spending tremendous sums on armaments. This shows that the imperialists again are trying to nail to their mast the policy of "rolling back" the Socialist countries, proclaimed in his time by former United States Secretary of State Dulles.

BUT THE admirers of such a policy ought to bear in mind the real balance of power now obtaining in the world.

Mr. Kennedy, the President of the United States, said during our talks in Vienna, that a balance of power had now been established between the two world camps and that a direct clash between the U.S.S.R. and the United States must be prevented because such a clash would have the most disastrous consequences. In this case Mr. Kennedy took a sober view of things and displayed a definite realism.

This must be granted to him. However, life demands that statesmen should not only say reasonable things but also should not permit themselves in politics to cross the line when the voice of reason falls silent and a blind and dangerous game with the destines of peoples and states begins.

The conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany would make it possible to normalize the situation in West Berlin and thus to remove grounds for a sharp clash between states. We must not permit West Berlin to become a kind of Sarajevo, the Serbian Town, where rang out the shots announcing the outbreak of the First World War. Should West Berlin be made a free city, as the Soviet Union suggests, that would not affect either the interests or the prestige of any state. We propose that it should be stipulated in the peace treaty that the free city of West Berlin shall be granted the freedom of communications with the outside world. We agree to the establishment of any, most effective guarantees of the independent development and the security of the free city of West Berlin.

INSISTING on the conclusion of a peace treaty, the Soviet government declares: We stand for the freedom of West Berlin. But not on the basis of maintenance of the military occupation status. . . .

By will of the Western powers more inflammable material has been stockpiled in the center of Europe than in any other region of the world. It is here that the flame of a world war again threatens to break out.

After the Western powers have trampled underfoot the allied agreements on the demilitarization and democratization of Germany, only a peace treaty can forestall the dangerous development of German militarism and revanchism (revenge). ...

The governments of the United States, Britain and France recently replied to the aide memoire on the German question which was handed to President Kennedy at our meeting in Vienna. The western powers once again seek to evade the conclusion of a peace treaty. They counterpose to it the idea of self-determination of the Germans and the reunification of Germany. It would be fine if genuine friends of freedom and independence of peoples would advocate self-determination for the Germans. But it is strange, to say the least, to hear calls for self-determination from those who for centuries kept peoples in slavery and retaliated with bullet and whip to any attempt of the peoples to get rid of alien oppression and to achieve self-determination.

"Self-determination" is now advocated by the imperialists and colonialists who for several years shed the blood of the Viet Namese people, have been waging a cruel predatory war in Algeria for seven years, are shooting down unarmed people in Bizerte and Tunisia only because the Tunisians have demanded the evacuation of the imperialists' military base from their territory. It is they who organized the bloody massacre of the patriots of The Congo who rose to the struggle for independence, and it was they who killed the national hero Patrice Lumumba. The struggle in The Congo still continues. Colonialists seek to crush by fire and sword the movement of the people of Angola for their liberation. And was it not those who are now trying to pose as the champions of self-determination who organized the armed attack on Egypt.

THERE IS a great outcry over the slogan of self-determination in the United States whose ruling quarters are following a policy of suppressing liberation movements in countries of various continents. It was by the will of the American monopolies that the tyrannical regime of Batista, detested by Cubans, was established in Cuba. And when the Cuban people rose and expelled this dictator, the American imperialists more than once tried through military intervention to crush the Cuban revolution and to suppress the people's aspirations for genuine freedom, for genuine self-determination. The whole world knows how the American monopolies carried out the operation for "self-determination" in Guatemala, an operation conducted by hired bandits, by armed force directed against the Guatemalan people. One could cite quite a few examples of imperialists' interference in the internal affairs of other countries. This is the forcible seizure of Taiwan island which is an inalienable part of the People's Republic of China. . . .

In his recent speech the President of the United States of America said that the United States faces a challenge of some kind from the Soviet Union, that there is a threat to the freedom of the people of West Berlin, that the Soviet Union was all but ready to use force. But he did not say a single word about the substance of the matter, about the fact that the Soviet Union proposes to conclude a peace treaty with Germany, and that it strives to work out the terms of this treaty jointly with all states that took part in the war against Germany. After listening to the speech of their President the American people might indeed get the idea that it is not the vestiges of the last war that we want to eliminate, but to start a third world war.

SO WHAT provisions of the Soviet draft of a peace treaty with Germany could give the American President a pretext to contend that the Soviet Union threatens to violate peace? Could it be those which envisage the renouncement of nuclear weapons by Germany, the putting of a legal seal on the existing German borders, the granting of full sovereignty to both German states and their admission to the United Nations?

If anyone did allow himself to resort to threats it was the United States President. He did not stop at presenting us something in the way of an ultimatum in reply to the proposal to conclude a peace treaty with Germany. As if to reinforce his threats, the President announced an increase of the strength of

U.S. Problem: Inspection of Outer Space

It May Be Years Before Such a System Is Put in Effect.

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP).

UNLESS THE UNITED STATES can make in-flight inspection of Soviet satellites in orbit it will not know which of future Soviet vehicles are for the peaceful purposes proclaimed by Moscow and which may be weapon carriers.

Adlai Stevenson, ambassador to the United Nations, came from a meeting with President Kennedy Sunday and, in comment on news that Russia's Vostov II man-carrying satellite was over-flying the whole world, said that:

1. This even sharpens the need "to regulate the use of outer space and to keep the arms race from spreading."

2. Mr. Kennedy shares this view and hopes Russia "will no longer delay in joining us in co-operative regulation."

One of the obvious problems, not mentioned by Stevenson, is that Russia now is far out ahead with workable space vehicles which could be altered in design to weapon-carrying and reconnaissance purposes. With this edge, there is no practical reason for the Russians to agree to space control — and there will not be until the United States has means for both intercepting and destroying space platforms from which attack on earth targets could be launched.

THE UNITED STATES today lacks any means of actually inspecting a suspected hostile satellite, either visually by men aboard an inspection satellite or by relay television or other electronic methods.

Until that can be done, the free world will have to accept the word of Russia that its satellites are only for scientific purposes.

On the basis of present programs, it could be several or a number of years before the United States has an actual operating inspection system.

France and Britain Provide Dark and Bright Sides of Crisis

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Aug. 8.

TWO DIAMETRICALLY OPPOSED views of the state of the Western Alliance are at hand, available both for the pessimist and the optimist.

The pessimist has no trouble in finding material to put together his picture. The dark doubt is with respect to a unifying and directing force in the face of the Berlin crisis. Or, to put it another way, the question is whether there is a sufficient appreciation of the gravity of the crisis among the Western partners to enable them to submerge their differences and unite on a common position both for strength and eventual negotiation.

THE ENIGMA IS FRANCE. Somewhere above the earth—not in a space capsule but in a gently floating free balloon—is a presence, a great presence, called Charles de Gaulle. In his lofty isolation, President De Gaulle has become increasingly removed from public opinion in France and in the world and from the lesser men who are the ministers in his government.

From his vantage point, the Berlin crisis appears to have been greatly exaggerated. If his ministers correctly reflect his view then, as he sees it, Premier Khrushchev has pressed the Berlin button and the United States has reacted by automatically pushing the crisis button. This was a mistake, he reportedly believes, since if the West simply stood firm and refused to be rushed into ill-advised proposals for "negotiation," Khrushchev would abandon his threats and the crisis would disappear, as it has before.

De Gaulle may be right, he has often been right in the past when others were wrong. But the consequences if he is mistaken could be so very grave that steps for meeting both force and an ultimate confrontation with the Russians are vital. This is the argument the Americans have been putting up at the conference of the Western foreign ministers.

DE GAULLE'S DETACHMENT from what seem to be the glaring realities of the situation in France and North Africa is also a cause for concern. He has thus far refused to consider a compromise of the Tunisian dispute by agreeing to negotiate on the basis of a future date for giving up the French base of Bizerte although that base just as with the British in Suez can hardly be held in the midst of a hostile population.

Tunisia is, in the meantime, moving increasingly away from the West, where it was once oriented, and into the Soviet orbit.

Serious newspapers such as Le Monde and Figaro have begun to discuss possible dates for a new putsch by the army and the ultra-rightists to overthrow De Gaulle. The financial community is said to have turned against him, one evidence being the refusal of his supposed friend, Georges Pompidou, to become minister of finance.

The bomb attacks multiply in Algeria and Paris. And for the first time this observer has heard the name of a possible successor to De Gaulle—the extreme conservative Antoine Pinay, to be put in power by the army.

AS TO THE OTHER principal partner, Britain, the pessimistic view is not so dark. Yet the British, under the mellow sun of the Macmillan government, have been for years living far beyond their means. The recent crisis of the reserve backing of the pound was more serious than the public has been told. The stern measures taken to meet this crisis have absorbed the attention of the British public to the exclusion of the Berlin crisis.

The Macmillan government has been attempting to build a

Letters from the People

The War in Our Past

The universal interest in the commemoration of the Civil War Centennial seems to be a bit overshadowed by those who say: "Let's forget this. Why open the wounds?" These people fail to realize that the Civil War is for the American imagination the great single event of our history. The legacy inherited from the Civil War is what we as a nation have become in the last 96 years.

Charges are made or implied that the Civil War Centennial observance has become too commercial. This has brought a response from Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant III, chairman of the Civil War Centennial Commission: "While admitting there may be more souvenir items than normal, many of these now on the market have been available for years. Some may carry an unfortunate commercial flavor, but it must also be remembered that they also carry the remembrance of the Civil War story to a wide uninformed public, especially young citizens of tomorrow upon whose patriotism our country must depend in the future. They draw inspiration from what they learn of the great deeds of American men and women a hundred years ago."

The Centennial Commission has no authority under the American free enterprise system to stop or curb the sale of these souvenirs, any more so than it has to prevent radio, television or motion picture programs with Civil War subjects sponsored by commercial firms. The commission derives no remuneration whatever from them.

The tragic years 1861-1865 were a terrible price paid by all of us in our progression from a small nation to a great one. The enormous cost made us become one people, a people that finally discovered that the gains, losses (more men died in this war than in all other American wars combined), wrongs of crushing conflict with themselves, were in the end, a common property and a common responsibility.

The Civil War is not being celebrated, it is being commemorated.

Mildred R. B. Chadeayne
Co-chairman of Women's Committee in Missouri, Civil War Centennial Commission

A Vote for Goldwater

Your editorial of July 23, "Shame of a City," is a disgrace to your paper. The city of Newburgh, N.Y., is doing what all cities should be doing, including the City of St. Louis.

The right of "relief" is not a job and shouldn't be considered one but exists only to relieve actual want.

I wish we had more Joseph McD. Mitchells in the government of the nation and Barry Goldwater has gone up in my opinion since he praised this man. I am not necessarily a Republican but if Goldwater runs for President on a platform of cutting out the waste of public funds I, for one, will vote for him.

Facts on Students

In a letter regarding the Washington University students who demonstrated on behalf of continued negotiations with the Soviets and against a militarist United States policy, Edgar Meinhardt Jr. insinuates that the draft status of the demonstrators is somehow suspect and that their action was unpatriotic.

If Mr. Meinhardt had taken the trouble to find out the purpose of the students' demonstration and something about their previous military service and their present status, his response might have been intellectual rather than visceral. For full information on these matters, I suggest he inquire of the Student Peace Union, Box 199, Washington University.

Out of Its Sphere

You pose a question in "Policy On Satellites" that I believe needs an honest reply, namely, "Why can private capital do a better job in this field than the Government?"

The answer to this one must be obvious to any thinking American. The Government in an enterprise of this magnitude would be out of its sphere entirely. The Government has never been in even a lesser venture that could not have been done better by private enterprise.

Bureaucrats appointed to jobs primarily because of political affiliation seldom ever make good business men.

In the case of the communications satellite, private industry is willing to pay the cost. Isn't this in the public interest?

Decatur, Ill. Harold Johnston

The Duty to Discuss

Premier Khrushchev to the contrary, it is not a sign of "war psychosis" that President Kennedy proposes, and the nation supports, a new defense program intended to strengthen our capacity for non-nuclear war. The military side of the President's policy is necessary, and fulminations by Khrushchev will not scare the nation out of it. At the same time, Khrushchev is making it virtually imperative for Mr. Kennedy to develop an equally strong non-military policy on Berlin, aimed at serious negotiation.

In his TV address, Khrushchev made the most specific commitment yet when he said: "We do not intend to infringe upon any lawful interests of the Western powers. Any barring of access to Berlin, any blockade of West Berlin is entirely out of the question." In the face of that position, plainly taken before the whole world, the United States can hardly proceed as if the only thing it has to do is prepare for a test of force in Berlin. It must also prepare to discuss in good faith the whole problem of a German peace settlement.

Marquis Childs reviewed in Sunday's Post-Dispatch the long, sad history of the East-West division on this problem. Basically it has never been solved because the wartime allies became embroiled in a contest over the defeated enemy, each side striving to enlist German resources and manpower for the power struggle. The West has won that contest by making West Germany its military partner. Officially, our position has been that the only possible peace settlement is one that will permit East Germany also, by absorption into West Germany, to become our military partner.

Is this position any longer tenable? It is difficult to think so. Nor can the West plausibly contend that the only possible status for Berlin and Germany is a status quo which carries such obvious dangers of war. There can be no real question that a German settlement is desirable—if we can get the right kind.

What is the right kind? Ideally, the best one would be a settlement which permitted the two halves of Germany to be reunited and which also made Germany in effect a military neutral, with a demilitarized zone down the middle of Europe separating the Soviets and the West. But the West has steadily refused to consider any such plan in the past, Khrushchev now appears to be uninterested in it, and the integration of Germany in NATO may have gone too far to be unraveled.

If that is the Western position, and any form of disengagement is unattainable, then we cannot convincingly oppose an alternative settlement which acknowledges the division of Germany in some form—especially if as part of the settlement we can nail down our rights in Berlin and obtain adequate guarantees for both those rights and the freedom of the West Berliners. Surely this kind of settlement would serve American interests and those of peace better than a continuation of the status quo, with its threat of recurring crises and its danger of accidental war.

Khrushchev, of course, will do his best to get a German settlement most favorable to his own national interests. Our negotiators would do the same. But it is not beyond the bounds of possibility that, with good faith on both sides, a compromise could be worked out that would serve the interests of both and the military advantage of neither. The only way to find out is to negotiate.

The problem, of course, is Chancellor Adenauer. For years he has exercised a veto over American policy, and he will try to veto it now if he thinks it is moving toward an agreement. Yet to refuse to negotiate, to refuse to seek an honorable way of ending a serious threat of war, to close our eyes to the actual power relationships existing in Europe, to miss the chance of actually improving the all-too-tenuous guarantees for West Berlin, would be a serious and perhaps irretrievable mistake.

Rights Issue Ahead

Though President Kennedy has decided to postpone civil rights issues in this congressional session, in the interest of getting other legislation passed, there is one rights issue that the Administration cannot avoid. The Civil Rights Commission will expire Nov. 8 unless Congress extends its term. The Democratic platform proposed to make the commission a permanent agency with broadened powers, and while the Administration is not now ready to advocate that, it cannot let the agency expire. This is especially so since two recent presidential appointments promise to give the commission even stronger initiative. Some Southerners can be expected to denounce the commission, but the agency can stand on its four-year record. The Administration will have to stand on its obligations.

The States and the Cities

Gov. Dalton most certainly was right when he told the Chief Justices of the State Supreme Courts that the failure of state governments to take proper interest in urban affairs was bringing Washington into this field more and more. He said he fears this may become "more destructive of states' rights than anything we have seen heretofore."

The majority of the population of more and more states is concentrated in their urban areas; and when these people feel that they are being treated less than fairly by rural-dominated legislatures, it is not surprising that their interest—and even their loyalty—should turn increasingly from state to nation.

This natural inclination cannot be overcome simply by telling them that they would fare better if they sent better representatives to the state capital. No matter from what district he is elected, a representative should be mindful of his whole state. There is no excuse for promoting the interest of the minority at the expense of the majority. And how can legislators harass a city, for example, by forbidding the sale of drinks at its airport?

There is little merit in the plea that the rural legislators are not sufficiently familiar with urban problems. To the extent that this is so, it can be remedied by more legislative attention to urban affairs. The recent session set up a Senate standing committee, a governor's committee and a state commission on urban problems. It did not go as far as Mayor Tucker asked, for it provided no staff and no funds for these agencies. But here at least is a start at the state level.

True, the Congress—in which the less populous areas also are over-represented — has shown coolness toward a Secretary of Urban Affairs in the Cabinet. Yet if only because of their weight in national elections, it seems certain that the cities eventually will have a spokesman in the Cabinet. This is being asked by Mayor Tucker and the executives of other cities, and they have the backing of President Kennedy.

Politicians like to be practical. They count votes. The cities have the votes—no matter how arbitrarily they may be denied their proper weight. They are bound to count in the end. Realistic legislators should act accordingly.

Going It Alone in Space

Soviet Russia's successful launch and return of the cosmonaut, Maj. Gherman Titov, after circuiting the globe 17 times, could be a stupendous achievement on behalf of all mankind. But in the eyes of Moscow it is primarily a major psychological victory and a further impressive evidence of the Soviet lead in rocketry.

Maj. Titov's 17 orbits dwarf the single orbit of Maj. Yuri Gagarin which held world attention for days last April. Together, Moscow's two latest feats completely overshadow our recent two 15-minute up-and-down flights to the fringes of outer space. On the basis of what the five-ton Soviet capsules and our two-ton capsules have done, it is not surprising that some European scientists suggest we abandon hope of getting to the moon ahead of Moscow. Others have been saying, ever since the first sputnik orbited in October, 1957, that Moscow's giant boosters, twice as powerful as our best, establish a permanent lead.

Although the United States did make a late start, our progress in probing outer space through miniaturized instrumentation of smaller satellites apparently has yielded results in this field that surpass those of Moscow. And officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have said that funds and scientists now at hand are all that can be used. Still there remains the chance that a breakthrough, such as some NASA officials and scientists have spoken of in connection with solid-fuel rockets, might put us ahead.

It is regrettable that Moscow should be so sure of its prowess that it will not even think of a co-operative space venture under the United Nations. Having hit the moon once and also photographed its unseen side, and now having made a weightless flight equivalent in mileage to a round trip to the moon, Moscow is content to go alone into interplanetary travel. Still, Moscow resents our reconnaissance satellites passing over her land. Similarly, Western observers already are mentioning the possibility of Maj. Titov's capsule being rapidly converted into a weapon surpassing the intercontinental missile.

Somehow, men must fashion some other law than that of the jungle in outer space. The great ventures in exploration must be divorced from weaponry. Man must learn to live in peace on earth before conquering the cosmos.

Intelligence Test

It has become pretty generally known what a low opinion former candy-maker Robert Welch, head of the John Birch Society, holds of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Chief Justice Earl Warren, and other distinguished Americans, and now it may easily be understood what a low opinion he holds of college students. He proposes to invite them to compete in an essay contest on the subject, "Grounds for the Impeachment of (Chief Justice) Warren."

Intelligence tests do not, in a general way, excite our admiration or agreement. But here is one which we are willing to admit hits the objective right on the button. It brings to mind the story of the little boy who asked his father, with penetrating naivete: "What would happen if they gave a war and nobody came?" If nobody came to Hate-monger Welch's essay contest, what would happen would be an adequate answer to his low estimate of the intelligence of college students.

The Truth About Drugs

Testimony from both the Federal Trade Commission and the Food and Drug Administration makes clear that legislation is required if physicians are to know the possible dangers of new drugs they are asked to prescribe for their patients. F&DA Commissioner Larrick testifies that physicians are being misled by advertisements of some drug houses. FTC Chairman Dixon says his agency is powerless to do anything about it without enactment of some such legislation as has been introduced by Representative Dingell of Michigan. How can anyone justify opposition to so reasonable a measure of public protection?

The dangerous possible side effects of many of the new drugs which are flooding the market, confusing doctors and patients alike, have been widely elaborated. Respected authorities have testified that some of the new drugs have produced peptic ulcer, liver damage, diseases of the skin and nervous system, and lung ailments; that some tranquilizers have caused drug addiction and, in children, a seizure like that of tetanus or polio. The New England Journal of Medicine reported that an anti-biotic widely prescribed for simple infections is capable of causing permanent loss of hearing.

It would seem that the least any drug house should want to do, and should be required to do, would be to inform doctors fully of these possible dangers, not only in its advertising but in its other literature as well. Even that is not a complete protection. Patients themselves should be better informed about the possible perils to which they may be subjecting themselves. But the whole truth in advertising so far as the drug-maker knows it would go a long way to safeguard the public health.

Illinois Lesson for Missouri

Gov. Kerner has signed into Illinois law a lien and recovery act, which commends itself to Missouri as well. The bill permits the state to recover some of its old age assistance payments by putting a lien on the property of deceased recipients. The aged do not suffer from such a law; the only possible loss is to their heirs who might have supported them in the first place but were willing to let the state do it. Most recent Missouri governors have urged such legislation. Though Missouri has ranked near the bottom in spending on education, mental health and other projects in relation to total personal income, this state ranks near the top in old-age benefits. Missouri needs a recovery law even more than Illinois.

Bizerte Crisis Raises Question of What Statesmen Mean When They Agree

The Mirror of Public Opinion

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The stupid war over Bizerte is certainly bizarre. Political analysts confess their bafflement. The only explanation they have to offer is that the Bizerte catastrophe should be attributed to miscalculations on the part of President Bourguiba, President De Gaulle and perhaps even President Kennedy.

This explanation, far from shedding light upon the events in North Africa, rather intensifies our perplexity—and our dread. For if we cannot avoid war by miscalculation and misjudgment among friends how can we prevent the big and final bang by miscalculation among the proto-antagonists?

In the present North African conflict the three leaders belong to the same camp (the West) and each is celebrated for his astuteness and even his moderation. But what is most important, and hence most disturbing, is that they had occasion quite recently to meet each other in long and secluded discussions. Bourguiba and De Gaulle met in Paris at the end of last February. Bourguiba and Kennedy met in Washington in May. And Kennedy and De Gaulle met in Paris in June.

All these meetings were rated as highly successful. The identity of views on most of the major issues was stressed.

In view of what has since happened in the Bizerte region, we face the overwhelming question: When heads of state meet supposedly with the purpose of alleviating tensions, what do they talk about?

If as the De Gaulie-Bourguiba communique states, they reviewed "all problems of interest to the two countries," that should certainly have included the problem of Bizerte. How is it then that after they presumably discussed this problem "in a spirit of reciprocal understanding," a shooting war suddenly breaks out in the wake of this reciprocal understanding?

Embarrassing Interruption

When two leaders proclaim, after having met, an identity of views, one cannot help asking oneself what views and identity about what?

When they speak of co-operation, outraged common sense demands to know—co-operation in what field and toward what aim? If not about Bizerte and North Africa, then it can only be about the moon—and neither of them is at it yet.

But Bizerte is supposedly not of exclusive French-Tunisian concern. The French claim—and it has never been contradicted by any authoritative American source—that the naval base is of primary importance to the security of the North Atlantic alliance. If this is the case, didn't Presidents Kennedy and Bourguiba find it necessary to discuss it during their meeting in Washington?

Yet the subsequent events took their course as if these leaders live on different planets, have never met, have no idea what the others are thinking.

If the battle for Bizerte could occur between friends, how much greater is the danger in the relations between leaders of the opposite camps.

The meeting between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev was rated as useful, and superficially, at least, it was amicable. Yet in the wake of this amicable meeting the world finds itself probably nearer the brink of doom than at any previous time since the end of the last war.

Naturally one can blame all this on fate. A modern poet-dramatist gave a magnificent reinterpretation of this attitude as exemplified by the sophisticated Greeks. In his play "La Guerre de Troie N'Aura Pas Lieu," Jean Giraudoux describes a summit meeting between two ancient antagonists, Ulysses and Hector.

The older Ulysses didactically explains: "You are young, Hector! It's usual on the eve of every war, for the two leaders of the peoples concerned to meet privately at some innocent village, on a terrace in a garden overlooking a lake. And they decide together that war is the world's worst scourge, and as they watch the rippling reflections in the water, with magnolia petals dropping on to their shoulders, they are both of them peaceloving, modest and friendly. . . . And when their meeting is over, they shake hands in a most sincere brotherly fashion, and turn to smile and wave as they drive away. And the next day war breaks out."

If I reproduce this fascinating part of Giraudoux's monologue, it is not so much for its poetic insight and political topicality as to disassociate myself from the classic fatalistic attitude that leaders don't count in history since they are doomed to behave as the fates have preordained. The test of leadership is to shape destiny and to fight fate. However, these leaders cannot live up to this test unless they learn to speak a meaningful language. Otherwise the same miscalculation and misjudgments on the present tiny scale in North Africa may well become multiplied by our overstocked piles of atomic weapons, the instrument of civilization's doom on a global scale.

One Way to Win Elections From The Milwaukee Journal

The London Economist reports that most members of the West Germany bundestag expect to be returned to office this fall and aren't worrying about the coming election. Just before adjourning, the bundestag approved a law which will give 25 marks a month (about $6.50) for the second child of parents who earn less than $1960 a year. The payments will be retroactive to April 1. It will take some time to handle the paper work for this newest largess, so a lump payment covering the sums due since April will be made early in September. The voters go to the polls Sept. 17, and many of them will have almost $40 in newly distributed government handout in their pockets.

THE SWALLOWING WILDERNESS:
The Life of a Frontiersman, James Ohio Pattie; by Stanton A. Coblentz. (Thomas Yoseloff, New York, 188 pgs., $5.)

This is a retelling, in modern form, of one of the classic true-adventure stories of the West in the days of the mountain men—the story of James Ohio Pattie. For six years, from 1824 to 1830, he wandered through the western wilderness and met with all kinds of harrowing experiences, from encounters with grizzly bears and savage Indians to participating in a California revolution.

Pattie, himself, told his story in a book titled "The Personal Narrative of James Ohio Pattie of Kentucky" which was published in 1831 and republished in 1833. Those early books are collectors items (St. Louis's Mercantile Library has an 1833 copy) and even the reprints in Thwaites' Early Western Travels (1905) and a Lakeside Classic (1930) are hard to find except in libraries.

While Mr. Coblentz has achieved his goal of rescuing Pattie from oblivion, his book has lost the charm and vigor of Pattie's own story, which was told simply and straightforwardly and yet was a thrilling tale. As Mr. Coblentz states in an introduction, he took the position of an independent observer in reappraising Pattie's chronicle, and in reorganizing and condensing the material. The new book devotes most of its pages to Pattie's adventures in Mexican California, where he spent much time in jail as a foreign intruder. Admittedly his California experiences are the most interesting, but to gloss over his many other adventures in New Mexico, on the Great Prairies, on the Rocky Mountains, the Southern California desert and Old Mexico does the intrepid Pattie an injustice.

Perhaps the time has come for another reprint of Pattie's original narrative, properly documented to clear up controversial points and erroneous dates.

More Propaganda Outlets for U.S.

KYRENIA, Cyprus.

THE UNITED STATES IS NOW INVOLVED in negotiations with four separate nations aiming to strengthen our cold war propaganda hand in the strategically important Middle East. We seek lease rights to erect large new radio stations.

Sulzberger

Fror these stations Voice of America programs would be beamed in many languages toward North Africa, the Arab world and as far eastward as Soviet Central Asia. We now lag woefully in this vast Afro-Asian area which our diplomacy courts. In numbers of languages, numbers of hours broadcast and strength of emissions we come far behind Russia, Communist China and the United Arab Republic. We have even ceased Persian programs to Iran for the reason that our signal was too weak.

Hitherto our efforts in this region have defended largely on a relay station in Tangier, Morocco, and on a radio ship called the "Courier" anchored off the Greek island of Rhodes. Tangier is far away for the task. Our lease expires in December, 1963, and relations are cooling. Therefore it is not considered worth building a more powerful installation. Transmission from the "courier" has also been inadequate.

Stations in Greece.

The State Department, acting on behalf of the U.S. Information Agency, is engaged in talks with Italy, Greece, Turkey and Cyprus in an effort to rectify the situation. From Rome we hope to obtain rights to broadcast from Sardinia. From Turkey we hope to obtain similar rights in Adana and, perhaps, at another station further to the north and beamed at the Soviet Caucasus and Central Asia. No agreement on this can be expected until after the October Turkish elections.

We have already arranged with Greece to transfer equipment from the "Courier" to Rhodes itself and we are seeking rights to construct another installation, possibly at Salonika. And from Cyprus we hope to rent land for a new transmitter here at Kyrenia, near our present monitoring station.

This is part of a major effort to expand Voice of America facilities which have had no substantial increase in power since 1953. In December, 1962, a new transmitting complex will begin functioning in Liberia, giving us for the first a competitive position in sub-Saharan Africa vis-a-vis Russia, China and the U.A.R.

More Money Needed.

Simultaneously, the world's largest single transmitter will start in Greenville, N. C., beamed primarily at Latin America. We hope by 1963 to install a station in England to replace Tangier and supplement our present European and future Middle Eastern schedules.

Surveys for a Far Eastern broadcasting center have been made in Australia, the Christmas Islands and the Philippines. This is going to require time and money.

Our present weakness in the Middle Eastern propaganda contest will continue for at least a year. Even if we can arrange additional sites, U.S.I.A. will need large supplementary sums to finance them.

In Fourth Place

U.S.I.A.'s present budget plans for a mobile radio unit that can be flown to troubled regions. But more powerful permanent installations are needed. Moscow allots more each year to jam the V.O.A. than the entire annual U.S.I.A. budget which amounts to less than the price of one combat-loaded Polaris submarine.

The most important ultimate contest is for men's minds. However, much as we pride ourselves on advertising techniques, we are apparently unwilling to spend enough to advertise the United States.

This is a self-defeating attitude. One may hope our diplomats will succeed in their efforts to secure locations for new radio stations. One may also hope Congress will have the wisdom to allot sufficient funds. Fourth place in cold war propaganda is not good enough.

Cole Porter's "Can-Can," given its second production by the Municipal Opera last night, was again a lively and amusing show. Although in a couple of aspects it wasn't so good as the brilliant 1957 production, it had to be first-rate with Dolores Gray and Norwood Smith again carrying it.

As for Miss Gray as La Mome Pistache, proprietor of a low Montmartre cabaret where the sinful can-can was danced, shocking even the Paris of 1893, the "C'est Magnifique," which she and Mr. Smth sing, applies to her in spades. She is a great performer. Swaggering in her skin-tight gowns, saucy, insolent and brassy at times, cooing and clinging with seductive warmth at others, she had a sure comedy sense. It was one of the most vivid characterizations seen in Forest Park and she dominated the stage.

Her warm and vital voice ranged from throbbing cello tones and purring silken caresses of notes to clangorous climaxes in "C'est Magnifique" and "Allez Vous-en." She was hard and bright and cynical in "Never Give Anything Away," a rather cheap song, yet was tender and moving with her husky "I Love Paris," sung again before a repetition of Paul McGuire's beautiful set of the rooftops of Paris against a softly awakening sky.

As Judge Aristide Forestier, the reforming jurist who tries to enforce the law against her and ends up joining her, Smith had the acting strength, sureness and force of personality, and also the vibrant and ringing baritone, to stand with her. He was able to make himself the puritanical foil without overdoing it, and realistically carry off his change to a more warm and compassionate outlook. His voice got full play in "I Am in Love" and "It's All Right With Me," which he made sound better than they probably are.

In the role of Boris, the timid Bulgarian sculptor, Jack Gilford didn't have the comic ingenuity that Hans Conried showed in the first production. He didn't seem able to grasp the role in the first act. He improved later, and the rooftop duel scene with the haughty critic Jussac was funny.

"Come Along With Me," the duet of Boris and Jussac, in which the critic tries to entice away the sculptor's girl, did not reach its jaunty comedy possibilities. Edmund Lyndeck played Jussac. Robert Eckles, Leonard Elliott and F. J. O'Neil were the other Bohemians, Theopile, Etienne and Hercule. The book is by Abe Burrows and there is a lot of humor in it.

Mara Lynn, as Claudine, the dancing girl, was a pert, long-legged creature with an intriguing personality, and danced well, with Ray Kirchner opposite her. The burlesque Apache dance and the satirical Garden of Eden fling were well-done in the manner of the original choreography of Michael Kidd. The first can-can, however, had been toned down quite a bit from the original, and although it was vigorous and rowdy, it didn't have the shrieking, explosive earthy vulgarity it once did. The finale can-can had a little more bounce.

It is not Mr. Porter's best score, but it has several good songs in it and is consistently pleasant. The show was attended by the largest opening night crowd of the season, 11,009 persons.

F. J. JEFFREY DIES, RETIRED EDUCATOR

Former St. Louis Assistant Superintendent of Instruction Was 83.

Fred J. Jeffrey, a former assistant superintendent of instruction and former principal of Hadley Technical High School, died today of a heart ailment at a hospital in Orlando, Fla. He was 83 years old and had moved to Florida following his retirement in 1948.

A graduate of Ohio State University, Mr. Jeffrey served in the St. Louis public school system for 44 years. He was an assistant superintendent from 1929 until 1943, when he became principal of Hadley. He served there until his retirement.

Mr. Jeffrey taught at the old Yeatman High School, which now is Central High, from 1904 until 1919. He was principal successively of Meramec, Penrose, Jefferson and Franklin schools.

He was also an instructor during extension terms at Harris Teachers College in 1925 and 1926.

As assistant superintendent of instruction, Mr. Jeffrey was in charge of vocational and adult education. He made a survey in 1941 in which he indicated facilities for national defense technical training in the public schools in St. Louis were adequate to supply the demand for specialized labor in the aircraft industry of eastern Missouri for the following 14 months.

Mr. Jeffrey was honored in June 1948 at a seventieth birthday anniversary dinner at which his retirement was officially announced. Tribute was paid by a delegation of Board of Education members, administrative officers and faculty members of Hadley.

Representatives of labor unions, for which apprentices were trained at the school, and city officials also were present at the dinner.

Mr. Jeffrey had been active in fraternal affairs and was a past master of Kadosh of the St. Louis Consistory of the Scottish Rite. He was a thirty-second degree Mason.

Surviving are a sister, Miss Gertrude Jeffrey, with whom he lived at Winter Park, Fla.; a son, Thomas G. Jeffrey, an attorney in Hamilton, O.; two daughters, Mrs. J. E. Pipkin of Winter Park, Fla., and Mrs. Rogers Deakin, 4915 Lindell boulevard, and eight grandchildren.

MSGR. G. J. GOTTWALD CONSECRATED BISHOP

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Cardinal Joseph E. Ritter, archbishop of the St. Louis Catholic diocese, consecrated Bishop Gottwald as titular Bishop of Cedamusa and an auxiliary bishop of the St. Louis diocese.

Thirty-five archbishops, bishops and abbots from 14 states attended the ceremony at the cathedral, where Bishop Gottwald was ordained to the priesthood 21 years ago.

Principals in Ceremony.

Cardinal Ritter was assisted in the ceremony by Bishop John P. Cody of the Kansas City-St. Joseph diocese and coadjutor Bishop Leo C. Byrne of Wichita, Kan., both formerly of St. Louis. Bishop Cody served as senior co-consecrator, and Bishop Byrne, whom Bishop Gottwald succeeds as an auxiliary bishop here, was junior co-consecrator.

Bishop Charles H. Helmsing of the Springfield-Cape Girardeau diocese, another former St. Louisan, delivered the sermon.

At 9:30 a.m. a procession of the principals, visiting prelates and other members of the clergy entered the cathedral. The ceremony began after Cardinal Ritter, Bishops Cody and Byrne and Bishop-elect Gottwald and their attendants assembled in the sanctuary. Cardinal Ritter sat facing the congregation and the new bishop and co-consecrators faced the Cardinal.

Details of Ceremony.

Then began the Apostolic Mandate, the formal request made to the Cardinal for permission to proceed with the consecration. When permission was granted, Cardinal Ritter questioned the episcopal candidate according to the formula set down in the Pontificale, the liturgical book which contains the ritual of consecration.

After the examination, Bishop Gottwald proceeded to a temporary altar set up on the epistle side of the main altar, where he celebrated Solemn High Mass at the same time as Cardinal Ritter at the main altar.

The two celebrations continued until after the Gradual prayer. Then the Mass was interrupted for resumption of the consecration. Bishop Gottwald lay prostrate before the altar, then arose and underwent the imposition of hands or the ritual which signified his reception of the Holy Spirit. Cardinal Ritter and the two co-consecrators placed their hands on the head of the candidate.

Bishop Gottwald's head and hands were then anointed by the consecrator, who presented him with his symbols of office—the crozier and ring.

Following the sermon, the Mass continued with additional ceremonies signifying the various powers and authority the prelate will have.

After the ceremony, Bishop Gottwald blessed the congregation and gave an address. This was followed by the recessional.

Several priests, including the new prelate's brother, the Rev. Joseph L. Gottwald, participated in the ceremony in various capacities. Father Gottwald is pastor of Holy Redeemer Church, Webster Groves.

A luncheon in honor of Bishop Gottwald was held at the Norwood Country Club for the clergy. In addition to the bishops and abbots, more than 250 monsignors and other priests attended.

Toastmaster was the Rev. Joseph F. Horenkamp, a classmate of the new bishop and pastor of St. Lawrence the Martyr Church in Bridgeton. Cardinal Ritter was one of the speakers.

A public reception honoring Bishop Gottwald will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Cathedral School auditorium.

Bishop Gottwald, 47 years old, a native St. Louisan, had been pastor of Immaculate Conception Church at Desloge, Mo., for five years before he was named administrator of the cathedral in May 1960. He was made a monsignor last January.

2 DRAWS IN CHESS MATCH

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8 (AP)—Champion Bobby Fischer and challenger Samuel Reshevsky played two more draws yesterday in their 16-game chess series.

The eighth and ninth games, adjourned over the weekend, each concluded with no decision. It brought the score to two victories each and five draws. The tenth game is tonight.

DR. FRANK BUCHMAN DIES; M.R.A. FOUNDER

Headed Moral Rearmament Movement Once Known As Oxford Group.

FREUDENSTADT, Germany, Aug. 8 (AP)—Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, founder of the Moral Rearmament movement, died here last night after a heart attack. He was 83 years old.

The Pennsylvania-born Lutheran clergyman died when resting at his hotel in this Black Forest resort where he first had the inspiration to found his movement. Dr. Buchman was here for a holiday.

Peter Howard, British newspaperman and author and one of Dr. Buchman's closest friends, was with him when he died. Also present were Prince Richard of Hesse, Dr. Maurice Martin, an old friend, and Dr. Paul Campbell, who was the late Henry Ford's physician.

There was no indication of Dr. Buchman's successor at the worldwide movement's headquarters in Caux, Switzerland.

Dr. Buchman in 1921 founded the Christian Fellowship which became known as "the Oxford group" and emerged in 1939 as "M.R.A."—Moral Rearmament.

The original movement spread rapidly throughout the world and had millions of adherents, many of them prominent.

The idea came to him, it was said, when he was vacationing after lectures at Christ College, Oxford, England. The organization was first called A First Century Christian Fellowship, but as it gathered strength it was better known as "the Oxford group."

The movement took its final name from campaigns that Dr. Buchman launched in Britain and America in 1939, when the world was on the brink of war, for "Moral Rearmament → the battle for peace."

It advocated character improvement as the first step toward an ideal society. It stressed honesty and selflessness.

Moral rearmament has been attacked consistently on the Moscow radio and by the Tass news agency.

Advocates of Moral Rearmament say it is "an ideology which is trying to substitute for the class war the eternal struggle of good and evil, and that it has bridgeheads on every continent."

Dr. Buchman had been decorated by eight governments for his work.

Burial will be in Allentown, Pa.

Jackson, Redbirds Win Fifth Straight

By Neal Russo

Ken Johnson and his Reds have a strong case against Johnny Keane, who could be charged with unfair competition. Sending a tired Stan Musial against a new pitcher in the league is considered unfair enough, but meanie Keane turned loose a super weapon—a Musial with a week's rest.

Musial, whose three-run homer helped Larry Jackson and the Cardinals to their fifth straight victory, 5-1, over the Reds last night, had consoling words in the clubhouse later.

"I hated to do that to Fred Hutchinson and Bill DeWitt because they're old pals, but that's one of the tough things about baseball—you become enemies when you put on the uniforms," Musial said. "But we'll beat Los Angeles some more for Cincinnati."

While the Cardinals were pulling up to .500 for the first time since June 9, making their home stand record 6-1 and improving their record under Keane to 20-12, the Reds fell six percentage points behind the first-place Dodgers. Cincinnati has won three more games and lost three more than Los Angeles.

Four At-Bats in Week.

In the week since the second All-Star game in Boston, Musial had gone to bat just four times.

"We got to bed in Boston about 3:30 in the morning after flying there from Milwaukee," Musial said. "There was no air-conditioning in the hotel and the kids were knocking at the doors for autographs by 8:30 in the morning."

Side trips to New York, where he made several appearances, tired Musial more. With the weather hot during the current home stand, Keane decided to give The Man a rest and Musial welcomed the vacation.

"I wasn't swinging the bat good at all," Musial said. "But this rest picked me up. At my age, a game or two off is not enough. I need five or six days off."

Johnson, a 6-foot 4-inch right-hander who used to hurl for Kansas City, had no regrets about the pitch Musial hit into the right-center pavilion seats in the sixth inning.

"It was a fast ball down good for a double play," said Johnson. "I wouldn't be ashamed to throw him the same pitch again."

Sawatski Also Homers.

Going into the sixth, the Cardinals led by 1-0 because Carl Sawatski got the Polish Falcon contingent of the Redbirds on the beam for the third successive game. Back in the second inning, the stocky catcher drove a fast ball to the pavilion roof for his seventh home run. "It was right down the pipe," said Sawatski.

Joe Cunningham, leading off the sixth, was hit by a pitched ball for the eleventh time this season, this time on the left thumb. He then moved up on a wild pitch. Bill White was credited with a hit when Johnson fielded his bunt and found first base unattended. At this point Musial pounded the first pitch for his eleventh home run of the season and No. 440 for his career.

The distance clubbing by Musial and Sawatski, named "Power Poles" by newsman Stan Mockler, was more than enough for Jackson, who evened his record to 8-8.

Jackson, turning in his second successive walk-less game and striking out seven, was understandably proud of his change-up.

"It was as good a change as I ever hope to have," said Jackson. Even when they were looking for it, they fouled it off. The boys made some great defensive plays behind me, too."

Jackson, a seven-hit pitcher, was referring to two brilliant saves by third baseman Ken Boyer and a sensational stop by Bob Lillis on a sharply-hit smash by John Edwards. Lillis dived and, while on one knee, smothered the ball with his glove. Surprisingly, he was able to recover and throw to second base for an inning-ending force play.

Run-Scorers Get Together

As STAN MUSIAL crosses the plate on his sixth-inning three-run homer he is greeted by CARL SAWATSKI (1) and JOE CUNNINGHAM (15). Sawatski had homered in the second; Cunningham came home on Musial's blast, as did Bill White. Cunningham also scored in the eighth as the Cards beat the Cincinnati Reds, 5-1.

Lynch Delivers Again, Now .455 Pinch-Hitter

Jerry Lynch, whose pinch single helped rob Larry Jackson of a shutout last night, is hitting .455 as a pinch-hitter with 15 for 33. As the Reds' star emergency swinger, he has hit four homers, three doubles and one triple and has driven in 20 runs.

Against the Cardinals' Jackson, Lynch opened the eighth with a single, went to second when Joe Cunningham fumbled and eventually scored an unearned run on an infield out.

Ernie (8-10) Broglio will close the Redbirds' home stand by starting against the Reds' Bob (13-5) Purkey tonight at 8 o'clock at Busch Stadium.

The Cardinals then will hit the road for stops at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Cincinnati before returning to face the Dodgers here on Aug. 22. The Birds will play an exhibition at their Billings (Mont.) farm club's park Friday.

Smitty to Tutor Youths.

Hal Smith, catcher sidelined with a heart ailment, will be with the Cards in Pittsburgh, then will spend 10 days with the Redbirds' Charleston farm club. He will tutor young catchers Tim McCarver and Bob Herrera.

Smitty's 17-year-old brother Tom is working out with the Cards, who may sign him as a catcher. Young Smith is 6 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 200 pounds.

A special Family night is scheduled for Wednesday, Aug. 23, when the Dodgers call at Busch Stadium. For that game the head of a family will be admitted for the usual $2.25 price for a reserved seat but will pay only $1.25 for each dependent. The general admission price will be $1.50 for a family head, 50 cents for a dependent. The special prices apply only to grandstand seats.

Jackson's jaw, which was fractured when it was struck by a piece of flying bat in a spring training game, has passed the final test. Jackson felt no pain while he jawed vigorously with Ken Burkhart, after the umpire called Don Blasingame safe as he ran down the first base line after bunting. First Baseman Bill White dived at Blasingame with the ball, and the Blazer was thrown for a loss of considerable yardage. But—

Keane Also Loses Argument.

Manager Johnny Keane disagreed with umpire Augie Donatelli's "out" call on White at third base in the ninth inning. Stan Musial had taken a called third strike on a 3-and-2 pitch which looked high and White headed for third base.

"White touched the bag as he dived, but the umpire said he was out of the baseline," said Keane.

The big righthander pitching batting practice for the Reds home and away is Ray Shore, who was with the Browns in 1948-49. Shore has been in the construction business in his native Cincinnati.

The Reds' Ken Johnson says he is not related to the lefthanded Ken Johnson who pitched for the Cardinals several years ago.

"I get some of that Johnson's mail, and I'm often mistaken for Norm Siebern and Jerry Lumpe," the Reds' pitcher said. He used to team with Siebern and Lumpe at Kansas City.

McNeeley Bout Still In Works

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 8 (AP)—Heavyweight king Floyd Patterson plans to fight Tom McNeeley in Boston despite a warning from the National Boxing Association that it might life the champion's crown if the bout takes place, Milwaukee Sentinel boxing writer Ray Grody said last night.

In a signed story, Grody quoted Patterson's manager, Cus D'Amato as saying in a telephone interview that the N.B.A. has no moral or legal right to go through with its edict, and "we intend to go through with it. (the McNeely bout)."

D'Amato said he had sent a letter to Dave Ott of the N.B.A. championship committee pointing out that he (D'Amato) had never been officially notified by the N.B.A. of its ultimatum or its rule calling for Patterson to defend his title within six months against one of the six contenders on the N.B.A.'s list.

"Mr. Ott, in his reply to me, said he didn't realize that fact and dispatched the information to me without any further comment," D'Amato was quoted. I feel it is wrong to penalize Floyd for something he was not aware of. We went ahead and scheduled the fight with McNeely for October, and we intend to go through with it."

Blow to the Pride

Listening and learning while seeing stars:

If they weren't a bit patriotic and also in awe of old soldiers like DOUGLAS McARTHUR and DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, the footbal writers' assciation would have removed Army from the ranks of major football schools the other day.

A committee of gridiron reporters, annually reviewing the schedule of all teams so that statistical leaders in team and individual categories won't have fed on small fry, took this action:

Miami of Ohio, Bowling Green and the University of Ohio, all members of the Mid-America Conference, were upgraded to the major college status. Mississippi Southern, Trinity of Texas, the University of the Pacific (formerly College of Pacific) were dropped into the minors, statistically at least.

Ever since Mississippi Southern upset Alabama a couple of years running, a few years back, then beat Georgia and routed Virginia Tech, the "name" colleges in the South have ducked the Hattiesburg school. And Mississippi state law prohibiting competition against integrated institutions has done the rest.

West Point, surprisingly, has not played two-thirds of its schedule against major schools, the yardstick for keeping company with the big fellows statistically. Actually, the Cadets have been good enough to have met more robust opposition.

Why shouldn't Army meet more of the big state schools, the way it's playing Oklahoma in November in Yankee Stadium?

Kiner on Homers

RALPH KINER, who hit 50 homers more often than any hitter except Babe Ruth, has two solid reasons for believing Mickey Mantle and-or Roger Maris will break the Bambino's record of 60. Kiner, now a White Sox broadcaster, hit 51 for Pittsburgh in 1947, 54 in '49.

RALPH KINER

"Of all the hitters who made a pass at Ruth's record, none previously, except Jimmy Foxx in 1932, went into August with 40 homers as Mantle and Maris did," Kiner said. "And none had the company Mickey and Roger give each other, the friendly competition that keeps the entire pressure from focusing on either man.

"One thing," Kiner cautioned, "they'll get fewer and fewer good pitches to hit because pitchers don't like to contribute to the cause. I remember a game in St. Louis in 1947. MURRY DICKSON and the Cardinals had us beat good, something like 10-4. I'd walked twice in three trips by the time I came up the last time. Know what that Dickson threw me?

"He missed with three knuckleballs, then got his curveball over twice and finally got me to fly out on a slider. Even though he had a six-run lead, I still haven't seen his fast ball."

Hand Is Quicker . . .

ROCKY MARCIANO, who had seen some of them, too, was enthusiastic about the fight films of JIMMY JACOBS, the Los Angeles handball champion and boxing buff who will bring a selection of his movies of old ring classics to St. Louis Sept. 26 at the invitation of the Knights of the Cauliflower Ear.

However, TOMMY LOUGHRAN, though flattered to be among the fighters who showed up well in Jacobs' collection, said he had reservations about movies ever since he survived a first-round knockdown and outpointed LEO LOMSKI in 1928, shortly after he became light-heavyweight champion.

"I was out on my feet for five rounds," Loughran recalled at the recent New York luncheon honoring STAN MUSIAL and other champions of the past 15 years. "So at 3 a.m. I insisted on seeing the first print of the film. I told my manager, 'Lomski was robbed.'

"Next morning I viewed the films again. 'I still say I lost,' I told the manager. You know, I saw that film five times before I realized that, though Leo was doing the feinting and faking, my left was flicking him for points—and the film didn't show clearly what ringsiders had seen."

Loughran, trim, dapper 59-year-old broker, was pleased, anyway, that Jacobs' film collection had shown the Philadelphia Dancing Master to be more skillful than his celebrated predecessor, Philadelphia JACK O'BRIEN.

"I like that," Loughran said, "because I was described so often as 'another Jack O'Brien.' That one particularly infuriated my old trainer, Joe Smith, who had seen him fight.

"'Don't call the kid that,' Joe would say. 'O'Brien was nothing but a jumping jack.'"

Redbird Prospect Wins No. 11

CHARLESTON, S.C., Aug. 8 (UPI)—If the Charleston Marlins win out in their close race for second place in the International League, they'll be deeply indebted to Ray Washburn, their 23-year-old bonus pitcher.

Just when Buffalo was seriously threatening the Marlins' hold on the runner-up spot, Washburn pitched an eight-hit shutout to beat the Bisons last night, 5-0.

Budd Runs 100 At 9.3 in Norway

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 8 (UPI) — Frank Budd of Villanova University equalled the accepted world record of 9.3 seconds for the 100-yard dash last night in winning that event in an international track and field meet at Bislet Stadium.

Budd already has run the 100 yard dash in 9.2 seconds at New York on June 24 this year, a performance that still is awaiting world record recognition.

Angels Rush In

NEW YORK, Aug. 8—The baseball mind is a jewel in the strict sense—that is to say, a stone of special value, rare beauty, and extreme hardness. Cut, polished, and fixed in the Tiffany setting of a club owner's skull, it resists change as a diamond resists erosion.

In 1901 there were 75,000,000 inhabitants of the United States and 16 teams in the major leagues. In 1960 the population was 180,000,000, the membership of the big leagues 16. "We can't expand," the baseball mind reasoned. "There aren't enough players to go around."

"Sheer madness!" The sinkers cried when two clubs were added to the American League for 1961. "They will be lucky to win 40 games apiece."

Now the Angels rush into Yankee Stadium where not only fools fear to tread, and when they depart, the Yankees will drop down to Washington for a series with the other half of the freshman class. The Senators are running seventh in the field of ten, Los Angeles eighth, and it isn't inconceivable that they could finish fifth and sixth. They have traveled two thirds of the distance at a pace that should produce about 70 victories for each team.

Man With a Purpose

In fact, through the month immediately preceding this visit to the East, Los Angeles played at the championship gait of .667, winning 20 of 30 games and tightening the second division like a noose. Demonstrating what can be done from a standing start, both new teams have set an example that should hearten backers of next year's National league pledges in New York and Houston.

Most valuable member of the whole celestial band is an apple-cheeked little refugee from the major league infields who is 63 years old and hasn't swung a bat in anger in 23 seasons. Name of Fred Girard Haney, the general manager.

When he had spent $2,100,000 furnished by Gene Autry and Bob Reynolds last winter for 28 rejects, seconds and retreads off American league rosters, this not especially angelic operator didn't hold his wings and rest. Since then he has made 14 separate deals, and 13 of them have worked out to the team's advantage. The exception was the Fritz Brickell-Duke Maas swap with the Yankees; both players are in the minors now.

The Thomas Boys

The deal that brought Bob Cerv back to the stadium along with Tex Clevenger stirred some pointed remarks about Los Angeles replacing Kansas City in the Yankee farm system. At the time, the key man in the transaction from the Los Angeles view was Ryne Duren, but because Haney has insisted on getting at least one young player in every trade, the Yankees included St. Louis boy, Leroy Thomas, an outfielder they had been been bringing along through the minors.

Shortening his name to Lee and lengthening his swing, Thomas has done a first rate job in the outfield and at first base, batting close to .300 in his first big league season. He and George Thomas, another young outfielder plucked off the Detroit roster to play third base for the Angels, had a hot streak that inspired some sunkist Homer to extol them as the T.N.T. boys. Fortunately they cooled off.

Haney had the audactiy to trade Jerry Casale, an established big league pitcher, for the Detroit rookie, Jim Donohue. In his first start in the majors, Donohue, a St. Louisan, had the Minnesota Twins shut out, 1-0, until Harmon Killebrew tagged one in the ninth. The kid's earned run average of 2.85 is among the league's best.

Accent on Youth

Both of the team's leading hitters, little Albie Pearson and the massive Steve Bilko, were reclaimed from the minors, as was the former Giant, Leon Wagner, who got 17 home runs in a hurry. The $75,000 investment in Ken Hunt, of the Yankees, provided a centerfielder who has whacked 19 home runs. Ken McBride and Ron Moeller are young pitchers of promise.

Of the 28 chattels purchased in the original consignments, only 13 are still on the team but Haney has retained title to others now ripening. One is Jim Fergosi, a shortstop who got a bundle for signing with the Red Sox and is now regarded as a steal at $75,000. Another is Bob Sprout, a left-handed pitcher snatched out of the Tigers' organization. Doing well with this pair in Dallas are Dean Chance, a right-handed pitcher, and Bob Rodgers, a catcher who hits both ways.

With only a narrow choice open, Haney has been a canny shopper. Taking the long view, he chose youth wherever possible. Failing that, he tried for power hitters who could reach the friendly fences of Los Angeles' Wrigley Field.

New York Has Won 7 Out of 8

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (UPI) — Ralph Houk, who started out with the hope he could do "half as well" as Casey Stengel, has the New York Yankees playing better ball than they did under the "Old Perfesser" during the past six years—and you can look it up.

The Yankees' best percentage under Casey since 1954 was .636 in 1957 when the club won 98 games to breeze to the pennant.

Under Houk, the Yankees currently are playing at a sizzling .660 clip.

They own a three-game lead over the second-place Detroit Tigers and if they maintain their present pace, they'll finish with 107 victories in this year's extended schedule. That total would be four more victories than they ever registered for Stengel in any one season.

Houk finished his five-day suspension last night and the Yankees welcomed him back with a 4-1 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels. The victory, the Yankees' fifth in a row and seventh in their last eight games, was achieved by southpaw Bud Daley, who limited Los Angeles to six hits.

Berra Moves Up in Homers.

Yogi Berra broke a 1-all tie when he led off the sixth inning with his fourteenth homer of the season off loser Ken McBride. It was also the 332nd homer of Berra's career, moving him into the fourteenth spot past Hank Greenberg on the home run list.

Daley, now 9-15, allowed the Angels' only run in the second inning on a walk and singles by Joe Koppe and Rocky Bridges. It was McBride's fifth futile attempt at winning his tenth game. His record is 9-8.

In the only other American League games scheduled, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Kansas City Athletics, 5-4, and the Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins by identical 5-4 scores.

The Cincinnati Reds fell six percentage points behind the idle first-place Los Angeles Dodgers by dropping a 5-1 decision to the Cardinals, and the Pittsburgh Pirates handed the Philadelphia Phillies their tenth straight defeat, 3-1, in the only National League games.

Home runs by Jim Gentile and Jackie Brandt carried the Orioles to their victory over the Athletics, whom they have beaten 10 out of 11 times this season.

Gentile's homer was his thirty-first and broke the Baltimore club record of 30 set by Gus Triandos in 1958. Brandt had a single in addition to his homer and drove in three runs.

Wertz Still at It.

Mike Fornieles pitched and batted the Red Sox to their first-game win over the Twins. In addition to hurling five scoreless innings, Fornieles helped himself toward his sixth victory by doubling off loser Don Lee in the ninth and scoring the winning run on Carl Yastrzemski's single.

Rookie Don Schwall won his thirteenth game against two defeats in the nightcap when pinch-hitter Vic Wertz singled home the winning run off loser Pedro Ramos (8-13) in the eighth.

Bob Friend scored his eleventh victory for the Pirates with a four-hitter over the Phillies. Loser Johnny Buzhardt (3-12) yielded single runs in the first, second and seventh innings.

Pro Sinks 150-Yard Shot as Team Wins

By Bob Ruhl

A salesman, an attorney, and a florist teamed up with an assistant professional, who feels fortunate to get in a single round of golf a week, to win the Eastern Missouri pro-amateur best-ball tournament yesterday at St. Louis Country Club.

The St. Clair foursome of Jack Ryan, a salesman for a cash register firm; attorney Neal Ducey; Gene Menges, a retail florist, and assistant professional Clarence Voigt shot a 58 over the par 35-36—71 course.

Voigt registered one of the spectacular shots of the afternoon, a 150-yard six-iron stroke that rolled the ball into the hole on the par-5, 545-yard No. 5 hole for an eagle.

"I'd rather play golf than eat, but I just don't get time to play more than once a week," said the 35-year-old Voigt, who puts in more than 15 hours a day working at the course.

The Belleville team edged the University City Golf Club team of Pro Henry Christman and amateurs Bert Hannum, Tom Alu and Ed Komlosy by a single stroke.

"This was the first time we've ever played together," Ducey said, "and we just held up each other." Three had never played the course before.

Ducey was the low amateur in the event that drew 27 teams. He shot nines of 38-37 for a gross score of 75 and a net score of 70 with his handicap of 5.

Voigt, an assistant at St. Clair for 15 years, shot the low net among the professionals with rounds of 36-38—74. His handicap of five brought his net total to 69.

Norwood professional Gene Webb had a scratch score of 70. Dave Douglas of the host club posted a scratch total of 71.

Miss Phillips Qualifies in T.-M. With 80

EUGENE, Ore., July 8 (AP)—Medalist Sherry Wheeler, Glasgow, Ky., met Sandra Spuzich, Indianapolis, in the opener of the first round of match play in the Women's Trans-Mississippi golf association tournament today.

Miss Wheeler tied the women's record for the Eugene Country Club course with a two-under par 36-35—71 in qualifying yesterday.

(Doris Phillips of Belleville, Ill., with an 80, drew Mrs. Sidney W. Mills of Portland, Ore. in the first round. Mrs. Mills qualified with an 87.)

The tournament's big surprise was the 9-over-par qualifying score of British amateur champion Barbara McIntire, who was runnerup in the Western women's tourney at Pasadena, Calif., last week.

Bears Attract 15-Point Guard From Iola J.C.

Washington University basketball coach Chuck Smith said yesterday that Joe Patterson, a 15-point-a-game guard from Iola (Kan.) Junior College, has accepted a scholarship and will enroll at the Hilltop this fall.

Patterson, a 5-foot-10 guard, attended Nixa High School in southwest Missouri, then went to Iola on a basketball scholarship. Smith said that Patterson averaged six steals per game as a standout defensive player at the junior college.

Baptists to Sponsor Boys' Baseball Meet

The St. Louis Baptist Athletic Association will sponsor its first baseball tournament for boys this season.

Two divisions 9-10-11 years and 12-13-14 years — will compete in morning and afternoon sessions on Aug. 19 and 26 and Sept. 9 and 16. Entries, which close Aug. 13, are to be arranged with Jim Newton, MI 5-7758.

Metro League to Try To Unscramble Races

By Dave Lipman

Even the officials of the Muny Baseball Association's Metropolitan League are a bit confused over the scrambled Western Division race.

"It's getting so I'm not sure where we stand," said William Boswell, league president, of the two-way tie for the first-half crown and the three-way tie for first now existing in the second-half race. "Maybe we can get things straightened out this week."

In first-half play, the Dodgers and Grays ended up in that deadlock for first. The stalemate finally should be decided Thursday night, when those two teams meet in a playoff at 8 o'clock at Fairground Park No. 1.

A partial solution to the three-way second half tie should be forthcoming next Sunday when the St. Louis Cubs and Grays are scheduled to close out their regular season of play with a game at 2:30 o'clock at Vashon Center. They have 7-3 records, as do the Dodgers, in the final half of play.

The Dodgers, who have one game remaining, boast one of the city's top hitters in Marion Tillard, who has hit at a .660 clip.

The Union Printers of the North-South Traveling League, who won two and lost two in the recent Union Printers International Tourney in Washington, D. C., will return to action here tonight when they meet Kutis North at 8:15 o'clock at Fairground Park No. 1. The Kutis team already has clinched first place in the Traveling League's North Division.

The Printers need a victory if they are to retain any hopes of finishing ahead of the Ceresias in their battle for second place.

Valley McKinney's Indians of the Khoury Association's St. Louis Senior League owe some thanks Vashon and Hadley Tech for their first-place finish.

The team's top two hitters are Earl Bluford, 18 years old, who will be graduated from Vashon in January, and Willie Cook, who was graduated from Hadley Tech last June. Cook, a shortstop, is hitting .485 with three home runs. Bluford, a third baseman, is batting .515 with two home runs.

Leading pitcher on the team is 20-year-old Vashon graduate William Clay, who has won five straight since losing in his first start this season.

George Teasley, whose bat and arm have helped boost the McAteers into first place in the Blue Division of the Southwestern Illinois Intercity League, soon will trade his sliding pads for shoulder pads.

The Assumption of East St. Louis graduate will be bidding for a starting end position on the Wichita University football team. Teasley, a sophomore, played quarterback in high school.

In his last pitching start, he defeated the Mercers, 9-5, and had four hits in five times at bat. That victory gave the McAteers a half-game lead over the Mercers in their season-long battle for first place.

Adios Butler Wins Again.

YONKERS, N.Y., Aug. 8 (AP) —Adios Butler, who can beat anything but a sloppy track, now is working on a string of nine straight victories.

The five-year-old son of Adios set a track record of 2:32.1 last night in winning the $25,000 Hal Dale Stakes at Yonkers Raceway. It was his ninth in a row since losing his season's opener on a sloppy track.

Major Decline in '61 Duck Flight Forecast

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The third straight year of drouth on the prairies resulted today in bad news for duck hunters. The Interior Department forecast "major declines" in duck flights in the Mississippi and Central flyways and moderate decreases in duck flights in the Pacific and Atlantic flyways.

The department said the mid-summer survey of waterfowl production showed a serious mid-continent situation had been caused by major drouths in the southern portions of the three prairie provinces in Canada and in the Dakotas.

Because most of the birds from this areta go to the central and Mississippi and central flyways, the department said the effect is being felt more in these flyways than in the two coastal areas.

The forecasts were compiled on the basis of surveys just completed by the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and wildlife in central and northern Canada and on information collected by its personnel and others in duck nesting areas in the states and other parts of Canada.

The reports were presented to the Waterfowl Advisory Committee as it began deliberations concerning this year's waterfowl hunting regulations. The committee is comprised of delegates of the four flyway councils, representing the states, and officials of various national conservation organizations.

The committee will prepare recommendations on hunting seasons and submit them to Secretary of the Interior Stewart C. Udall. The decision is expected to be announced about Aug. 16.

The department recalled that in 1959 the waterfowl crop in the prairie pothole region was largely a failure because of the loss of water areas for nesting birds. There was a considerable recovery in 1960, but the situation was still below normal.

"This year, the situation is worse than it was in 1959, the survey crews report," the department said. "The number of ponds is down 89 per cent from the peak year of 1955. There was a 67 per cent decrease in numbers from last year to this."

The department summarized the waterfowl situation and fall flight forecast for the Mississippi and Central flyways as follows:

MISSISSIPPI

Ducks—Minor areas with increases will in no respect balance large decreases in production in major areas; major decline in duck flights as compared to 1960.

Geese—Status of goose populations favorable; flights of Canades, blues, snows and white-fronted geese about same as in 1960. However, compared to 1959, flights of Canadas, blues and white-fronted geese are expected to be larger with flight of snow geese reduced somewhat.

CENTRAL

Ducks—Same picture as Mississippi flyway; major decrease in fall flight as compared to 1960.

Geese—Flight of all geese same as last year but as compared to 1959, Canadas will be the same, blues and snows somewhat smaller, and white-fronts markedly reduced.

Coot—Major reduction.

Cardinals

Jackson said, "When you stop those two, you've stopped half of their team's attack."

Pinson not only missed a chance in the first inning but also bounced into a double play, a rarity for this speedy runner. With two on base in the sixth, Jackson fooled Pinson with a third-strike change-up, then got Frank Robinson on a soft tap to the mound.

"Pinson's the guy who moves 'em along, and Bobby is the guy who bangs the men home," Jackson said. Between them, the Reds were 0 for 8, and it took an unearned run—in the eighth inning—to deprive Jackson of a shutout.

By then Musial had eased matters for Jackson with his home run. The vacation is over for the Man, but it's over for the enemy's pitchers, too.

Canadian Boat Again Captures Harmsworth Race

PICTON, Ont., Aug. 8 (UPI)—The United States will have to put more power in its boats if it's going to re-capture the historic Harmsworth Trophy, the bronze plaque which represents the world's championship.

Yesterday for the third successive year, an American challenge failed on the waters of Long Reach when Canada's Miss Supertest III handily defeated and outclassed Miss Detroit.

Miss Supertest, piloted by Bob Hayward, won over Miss Detroit and owner-driver Chuck Thompson, in a minimum of two heats.

The Canadian boat was nearly two laps ahead of engine-troubled Miss Detroit at the end of yesterday's 15-lap, 45-mile race. It won the first heat easily Saturday when the American craft's oil line was broken. Yesterday the 2000-horsepower engine of Miss Detroit was bugged by dirt, picked up in the water scoops.

Despite the misfortune, it was all Miss Supertest III. Hayward went in front from the start line, and was steadily increasing his margin until it became obvious the American boat was no real challenge. His speed for the second heat was 96.102 miles per hour, more than four miles an hour slower than in the first heat.

Big Red To Show All Road Contests

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (UPI)—The Columbia Broadcasting Company has arranged to televise at least 90 National Football League games during the coming season.

A change in the N.F.L. television program was necessitated when a Philadelphia judge ruled that the 1961-62 "package" deal which the league had negotiated with CBS violated the anti-trust provisions.

As a result, the N.F.L. clubs were required to negotiate their TV rights on an individual basis, just as they had done in the past.

In effect, the 1961 program will be about the same as last year's. Nine of the N.F.L. clubs which sold their TV rights to CBS last year again will televise all their road games back to the home area over that same network.

Those clubs are: the Philadelphia Eagles, Green Bay Packers, New York Giants, Detroit Lions, San Francisco Forty-Niners, Chicago Bears, Los Angeles Rams, St. Louis Cardinals and Dallas Cowboys.

It was expected that the Washington Redskins and Minnesota Vikings also would shortly complete arrangements with CBS for the televising of their games.

Last season the Pittsburgh Steelers and Baltimore Colts sold their TV rights to the National Broadcasting Company while the Cleveland Browns' games were televised by the Independent Sports Network.

While nearly all of the N.F.L. regular-season games will be televised regionally, three games will be shown coast-to-coast. These games are the annual Thanksgiving day clash between Green Bay and Detroit, and two Saturday afternoon games on the West Coast late in the season.

The Saturday televised games pit Baltimore at Los Angeles, Dec. 9, and Baltimore at San Francisco, Dec. 16.

Season Ticket Sale at Mizzou Equals Record

COLUMBIA, Mo., Aug. 8 — Sale of season ticket No. 10,281 for the University of Missouri football games this week equaled the record number of season ticket purchases set in 1950, according to athletic director Don Faurot.

Faurot said that 11,500 public, 11,000 to 12,000 student and faculty, and 999 complimentary tickets will have been distributed before the opening game with Washington State in Columbia on Sept. 23, and that total means that a minimum of 25,000 may be expected for the Tiger home games.

Construction men have assured the athletic department that the new stadium addition with 4100 seats in the concrete bleachers will be completed before the opening kickoff.

Took Pro Job To Move Up, McGuire Says

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 8 (AP)—Frank McGuire, former North Carolina basketball coach, said the betting scandal and de-emphasis program at his school had nothing to do with his entering professional basketball.

McGuire has become vice president and coach of the Philadelphia Warriors. He is lecturing at the Texas coaching school here.

"I once played pro basketball and I have wanted to get into it as a coach for many years. Incidentally, it pays more money than college coaching."

McGuire brushed off any ideas that he anticipated any prima donna trouble with big Wilt Chamberlain.

"I've been playing second fiddle to stars throughout my coaching. I like it that way. I don't anticipate any undue trouble with Wilt."

"Besides," he asked, "where else can you start a game with a 50-0 advantage?" in speaking of the giant Chamberlain's scoring potential.

Etcheverry Tests Arm, Says He Felt No Pain

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Aug. 8—There were smiles in the training camp of the St. Louis Cardinal football team today. Sam Etcheverry gave his mending arm an extensive throwing test yesterday and afterward reported that he suffered no pain.

"The arm felt a little weak," said the former Montreal Alouettes quarterback, "but I guess that should be expected after not throwing for more than a week."

Etcheverry hurled passes in both the morning and afternoon workouts. It was the first throwing he has done since coming up with the sore arm 10 days ago.

Etcheverry said that his arm had felt pretty good last week and he had wanted to do some passing in Wednesday's game against the Toronto Argonauts, but Coach Pop Ivy preferred that he give it additional rest.

While the report on Etcheverry was encouraging to the Big Red, the club was disappointed to learn that the knee injury suffered by veteran Ken Panfil is likely to keep him out for about four weeks. It was announced Saturday that Panfil probably would be back in action within two weeks.

Charlie Donaldson, a rookie linebacker from Henderson (Ky.) State Teachers, is still on the sidelines because of a leg cut suffered in a scrimmage a week ago Saturday. Fifteen stitches were needed to close the gash. Donaldson isn't likely to play for several days.

Halfback Willie West was in uniform at yesterday's two workouts, but he is not running because of a severe ankle sprain suffered in the Toronto game.

Packers Trade Meilinger.

GREEN BAY, Wis., Aug. 8 (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers announced today a trade of offensive end Steve Meilinger to the Dallas Cowboys for a future draft choice.

The trade reduced the Packer roster to 43, seven over the National Football League player limit. Cut earlier in the day were five-year veteran John Miller and rookies halfback John Rollins, defensive end Clarence Lacina, tackle Leland Bondhouse and center Bob Beaver.

Roach Is Traded By Grid Browns

HIRAM, O., Aug. 8 (UPI)—The Cleveland Browns traded quarterback John Roach to the Green Bay Packers in exchange for an undisclosed draft choice.

The Browns acquired Roach from the St. Louis Cardinals July 6 in a deal for halfbacks Prentice Gautt and Taz Anderson. Roach completed 17 touchdown passes for the cards last season.

Brown described Roach as a capable quarterback. He said he sent him to Green Bay so he "would have an early start with a team that felt it needed his services."

Brown said he is satisfied with the progress shown by quarterback Leon Dawson as understudy to regular signal caller Milt Plum.

BOSTON, Aug. 8 (AP) — Marshall Starks, 22, a 6-foot, 196-pound fullback and safety man has signed with the Boston Patriots, the American League football club announced today. Starks, who was graduated from Illinois last June, has been released by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Browns' Marshall Ill.

HIRAM, O., Aug. 8 (AP)—Jim Marshall, defensive end for the Cleveland Browns, is suffering from encephalitis.

The diagnosis was made at a Cleveland hospital by Dr. Vic Ippolito, the team physician. The former Ohio State star had been bothered by severe headaches and was taken to the hospital for tests last week.

Dr. Ippolito said complete recovery was expected but there was a possibility Marshall would not be able to play any football this season.

McKinley Wins, Faces Graebner

Chuck Gets Ready for Nationals

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J., Aug. 8 (AP) — Chuck McKinley, healthy and hustling, today viewed the Eastern Grass Court championships as an "important tournament for me" in regaining the form that carried him in the recent Wimbledon final.

"This is my last singles tournament before the Nationals at Forest Hills," McKinley said. "I'd sure like to win it."

McKinley, who breezed past Paul Sullivan, Belmont, Mass., 6-2, 6-3 in yesterday's first round, faces 17-year-old Clark Graebner, Lakewood, Ohio, the Wimbledon junior champion, in the second round and figures to win. But then its a tough road.

Allen Fox, Los Angeles, the national collegiate champ from U.C.L.A., looms as McKinley's third-round opponent. Last week, Fox won the seventy-third Meadow Club invitation at Southampton. Yesterday, he ripped Bill Scarlett, Montclair, N.J., 6-1, 6-2.

"I've got a tough draw," McKinley said, "but that's good. I like it that way."

The other seeded players advanced easily, but second-seeded Bob Mark of Australia was granted a postponement of his first-round match with William Wright, Cheyenne, Wyo. Mark will undergo treatment for a painful leg cramp.

In the women's division, top-seeded Karen Hantze, Chula Vista, Calif., faces Elise Spruyt,, the Netherlands, after breezing past Carole Wright, Brooklyn. Miss Hantze won the first set, 6-1, before a hand injury forced Miss Wright to default.

St. Louisans Carol Hanks and Justina Bricka won second round women's matches. Miss Hanks defeated Susan Behlmar, Yonkers, N.Y., 6-4, 8-6. Miss Bricka beat Mimi Kanarek, New York, 6-1, 6-1.

'Off' Time Is An Hour Off; Bookies Pay

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 8 (AP)—Race horse bettors in Louisville took advantage of a time error and socked bookmakers for an unexpected windfall when Ellis Park opened last Wednesday, the Louisville Courier-Journal reported.

The newspaper said a racing publication listed the time of the first race as 3 p.m., CDT, when it actually started at 2. As a result, some bettors found out the results of the first two races while the bookies were still taking bets on them. And then, the Courier said, "disaster hit."

It quoted one bookie as saying "they bet with both hands. Two-dollar players became $5 bettors, $5 men plunged for $10 and so on. Why, even the porter in my place bet $5 to win on each of the first two winners."

The handbook operator was quoted as saying he lost about $600 on the first two races and the daily double at the track near Henderson, Ky.

49 Yearlings on Block.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y., Aug. 8 (AP) — Forty-nine yearlings are scheduled to go under the hammer during the second day of the forty-first annual Saratoga yearling sales tonight, with L. Clay Camp of Shadwell, Va., owner of the Glenmore Farm, putting four on the block. Camp will have four more auctioned off Wednesday night.

The opening of the six-day sale last night produced brisk but unspectacular action. A total of 49 fledgeling thoroughbreds brought $238,000 for an average of $4857. This was a drop of 18 per cent from 1960.

Westwood Tennis

Five matches are scheduled in today's opening round of the Westwood women's invitational tennis tournament. Marily Mueller is seeded No. 1 and Dorothy Clayton No. 2. They will play their first matches tomorrow.

Moloneys Win, 20-0

Hole-in-One at Norwood.

Mrs. Charles Harris, who has been playing golf at Norwood Hills Country Club for about 10 years, scored her first hole-in-one Sunday when she sank her tee shot on the 150-yard No. 8. Mrs. Harris was playing with Mrs. Paul Arensman.

GIZENGA REGIME GIVES NOTICE OF ITS DISSOLUTION

© New York Times News Service

LEOPOLDVILLE, Aug. 8—The Soviet-backed regime led by Antoine Gizenga in Stanleyville has declared itself dissolved in favor of The Congo's new central government of Premier Cyrille Adoula. With this and other developments, the Adoula government appeared yesterday to be gaining ground in its efforts to achieve control over dissident regions of The Congo.

President Moise Tshombe of secessionist Katanga province belatedly sent his party's deputies and senators to Leopoldville to attend the session of the National Parliament. Katanga has boycotted the session up to now.

The Gizenga regime had claimed to be the only legal government in The Congo. The official announcement of the Stanleyville regime's dissolution was made Saturday by Marcel Lengema, secretary of foreign affairs in Stanleyville.

Western diplomats in that city reported that Lengema had called in the envoys of eight Communist and African countries accredited to Gizenga's regime and had informed them that Stanleyville authorities had recognized the full legality of the new central government.

Inspection

Research Projects Agency of the Defense Department, the program since has been turned over to the Air Force's Ballistic Missile Division for development.

As of now, there is no hardware ready, even for test purposes. The Radio Corporation of America has been given the contract to build the final stage vehicle and the inspection payload.

The system is called Saint. When the program was set up, the letters stood for the words Satellite Inspection Technique. However, the BMD now calls it the Satellite Inspection System.

THE VEHICLE would be used only for inspection, would have no "kill" capability, although that probably would come later in other vehicles. The Air Force believes it may be possible to bring an inspection satellite to within 100 feet of a known satellite. The Saint vehicle, in the test phase, will be launched by an Atlas missile.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, in testifying before a Senate committee in April, said the Administration had added $14,000,000 to the original Eisenhower budget for Saint.

When asked how much was in the original proposal, a Defense Department spokesman said this information was classified.

The Saint project is part of the Defense Department's over-all space program, which contemplates eventual perfection of missile detection equipment, like the Midas satellite, other intelligence-carrying vehicles and, at some point in the future, possibly armed space vehicles.

It is his testimony McNamara assured a Senate committee that "great attention is being paid to space developments, particularly as they relate to military requirements."

Then he added that a total of more than a billion dollars was being requested for those purposes.

He said that increases range from 25 to more than 100 per cent in expenditures planned for "a number of space projects."

professional army of 165,000 men. If conscription were now reinstated to augment the armed forces, it would probably destroy an effort to create a long-term defense system within the capacity of the British economy. This is one reason for the British reluctance to respond more readily with military measures to meet the worst if the worst should come.

SO MUCH FOR PESSIMISM; now for the view of the optimist. It begins with the fact that Britain has applied for membership in the Common Market and, despite all the reservations that must be entered because of the Commonwealth and Britain's associates among the Outer Seven, the belief here is that within six to nine months the United Kingdom will be part of the European economy. This is a fulfillment of the dream of such persistent optimists as Jean Monnet, who have never doubted that a united Europe would come into being. Close economic co-operation will inevitably be followed by political co-operation.

A Europe united will have far greater productivity and greater man power for war or peace than the Communist bloc. Under circumstances of unity and strength, decisions can be taken to meet threats such as that now directed against Berlin. A force for freedom will have come into being at least equal to that of the Soviet Union on the one hand and the United States on the other.

WHAT IS IT THEN that stands between these two so opposed pictures, the dark of the past night and the hope of a promising day? In the view of this observer, it is simply the will, the resolution, to do what must be done in this hour and that is, above all, to prepare the meet calmly not just the immediate threat against Berlin but for the long pull the struggle with Soviet imperialism.

For De Gaulle what must be done — beginning, for example, with the necessity to make peace with the Algerian rebels—is far more difficult than for the others, if only because these necessities have so long been postponed. These urgent, desperate, necessities cannot be much longer put off. The realities are not all on the side of pessimism if only there is a clear and immediate realization of how late the hour is.

the armed forces by 217,000 men and the American senators started to trumpet about the need for mobilizing certain classes of reservists.

A military hysteria is now being drummed up in the United States. At the same time, there are some who are conditioning the American people to the idea that there would be nothing particularly terrible even if war does break out. But on the part of American leaders, it would be criminal thoughtlessness to expect in earnest that after unleashing war against the socialist states it would be possible to keep it within certain bounds. If a clash does occur between the two giants, the Soviet Union and the United States of America, which possess powerful economies and great stockpiles of nuclear weapons, it goes without saying, that neither of the sides would be ready to admit defeat without having used all weapons, including the most destructive ones. . . .

NATURALLY, a third world war, should it break out, would not be confined to a dual between two great powers — the Soviet Union and the United States of America. . . . We are taking all this into account and have at our disposal the necessary means of combat not only to strike a crushing blow at the territory of the United States, if the imperialists unleash a war, but also to render harmless the aggressor's allies and to suppress American military bases scattered throughout the world.

Any state which would be used as a springboard for an attack on the Socialist camp will experience the full devastating power of our powerful blow. War will also come to the home of the American people which for a century, since the time of the Civil War between the North and the South has not known hostilities on its territory. We do not want to threaten anyone. We only want to induce some reasonable thinking among those upon whom the policy of NATO member-states depends....

Comrades, it must be said frankly that at present the Western powers are pushing the world to a dangerous divide, and the emergence of a threat of an armed attack by imperialists of Socialist states cannot be excluded....

We are convinced that if the question of whether or not there would be a war will depend on reasonable people in the Western countries, they would not allow war to break out. But if people possessed by the suicidal mania take the upper hand, one cannot vouch for them.

IN THIS connection I should like to recall an instance from the times of the great patriotic war (World War II) which shows what can result from the loss of self-possession, from the loss of the power of reason. . .

It happened that on the fifth or sixth day of the war the commander of the front and I sent Gen. Vashugin, a member of the military council, to one of the tank corps, to convey orders how to use the forces of this corps in the best way possible. Upon returning from the corps, Vashugin called on me. He was in a very grave and confused state. "Everything is lost, everything is going on like it did in France, this is the end of everything. I will shoot myself," he said.

I tried to stop him: "You are crazy, come to your senses," but before I had time to do anything he drew his pistol and shot himself, right there, before my eyes.

This tragedy occurred because the man was absolutely unnerved, he no longer knew what he was doing and lost self-control. I do not want to draw a direct analogy, but in the West there are some people who are losing self-possession and self-control. In the story I have just told, it was one man who perished. But in present conditions, if some Western leaders would act recklessly, and push the world to a new war, such a suicidal act would spell death to millions upon millions of people. . .

IF THE Western powers persist in refusing to sign a German peace treaty, we shall have to settle this problem without them. . .

It goes without saying that in the case the German Democratic Republic would attain full sovereignty and therefore, the question of the use of communications with West Berlin running across its territory would have to be decided by agreement with the G.D.R. (East German) government. As to the agreements between the U.S.S.R. and the Western powers on the question of access to West Berlin concluded during the occupation period, they will become null and void. . .

I should like to repeat once more that by concluding a peace treaty with the G.D.R. we do not intend to infringe upon any lawful interests of the Western powers. Barring of access to West Berlin, blockade of West Berlin is entirely out of question. All this is only a figment of imagination of those who want to incandense the atmosphere in order to prepare war. . .

To them (the Western Powers) the question of access to West Berlin and the question of the peace treaty as a whole is only a pretext. If we renounce the conclusion of a peace treaty, they would regard this as a strategic breakthrough and would widen the range of their demands at once. They would demand the liquidation of the Socialist system in the German Democratic Republic. Were they to attain that too, they would of course set the task of annexing from Poland and Czechoslovakia the territories restored to them under the Potsdam agreement. And these are Polish and Czechoslovak lands. And were the Western powers to attain all this, they would advance their main claim, the abolition of the Socialist system in all countries of the Socialist camp. This is what they would like to do right now.

This is why the settlement of the question of a peace treaty cannot be postponed.

THE CONCLUSION of a peace treaty with the G.D.R. will be of tremendous positive significance for the development of the entire international situation. As the needle of a compass, the peace treaty will indicate to the entire German people the true direction of development, ensuring for them peace, freedom, independence and sovereignty in the community of peace-loving peoples of Europe.

We address our people and frankly tell them about the present situation. . . .

We shall watch the further developments and act in accordance with the obtaining situation. Perhaps subsequently we shall have to increase the numerical strength of the army at the western borders by transferring divisions from other parts of the Soviet Union. In this connection it will, perhaps, be necessary to call up a part of reservists in order to bring our divisions to their full complement and make them ready for any surprises.

Why is the Soviet government considering such measures? These are measures in the nature of a reply. The United States of America is in fact carrying out mobilization measures, is threatening to unleash a war. The allies of the United States in military aggressive blocs are supporting this dangerous course. The British government has announced that it will transfer additional troops to West Germany, France is recalling troops from Algeria to Europe.

With such a situation taking shape, it would be impermissible for us to sit with our arms folded. The experience of history teaches: When an aggressor sees that no rebuff is given to him he grows more brazen, and, reversely, when he is given rebuff, he calms down. It is this historic experience that should guide us in our actions.

WE ARE confident that all Soviet people will understand correctly the measures of the Soviet government, will take a serious view of the present situation....

Soviet citizens might want to know if it is necessary to appropriate even greater funds for the strengthening of our armed forces. I am in a position to reply that tentatively the Central committee and the government are inclined to think that this is unnecessary. The funds which have already been appropriated for strengthening the defenses of our homeland, the armaments which have already been created and are being created by industry will suffice for us. . . .

The Soviet Union does not want to go to war with anyone. We do not need anyone's territories, anyone's wealth.

The United States of America is rich and strong, and we are rich and strong. When relations between us enter a calm channel, this benefits the peoples of all countries.

This is why we address the governments of the United States of America, Britain, France once more: Let us honestly meet at a round table conference, let us not create a war psychosis, let us clear the atmosphere, let us rely on reason and not on the power of thermonuclear weapons.

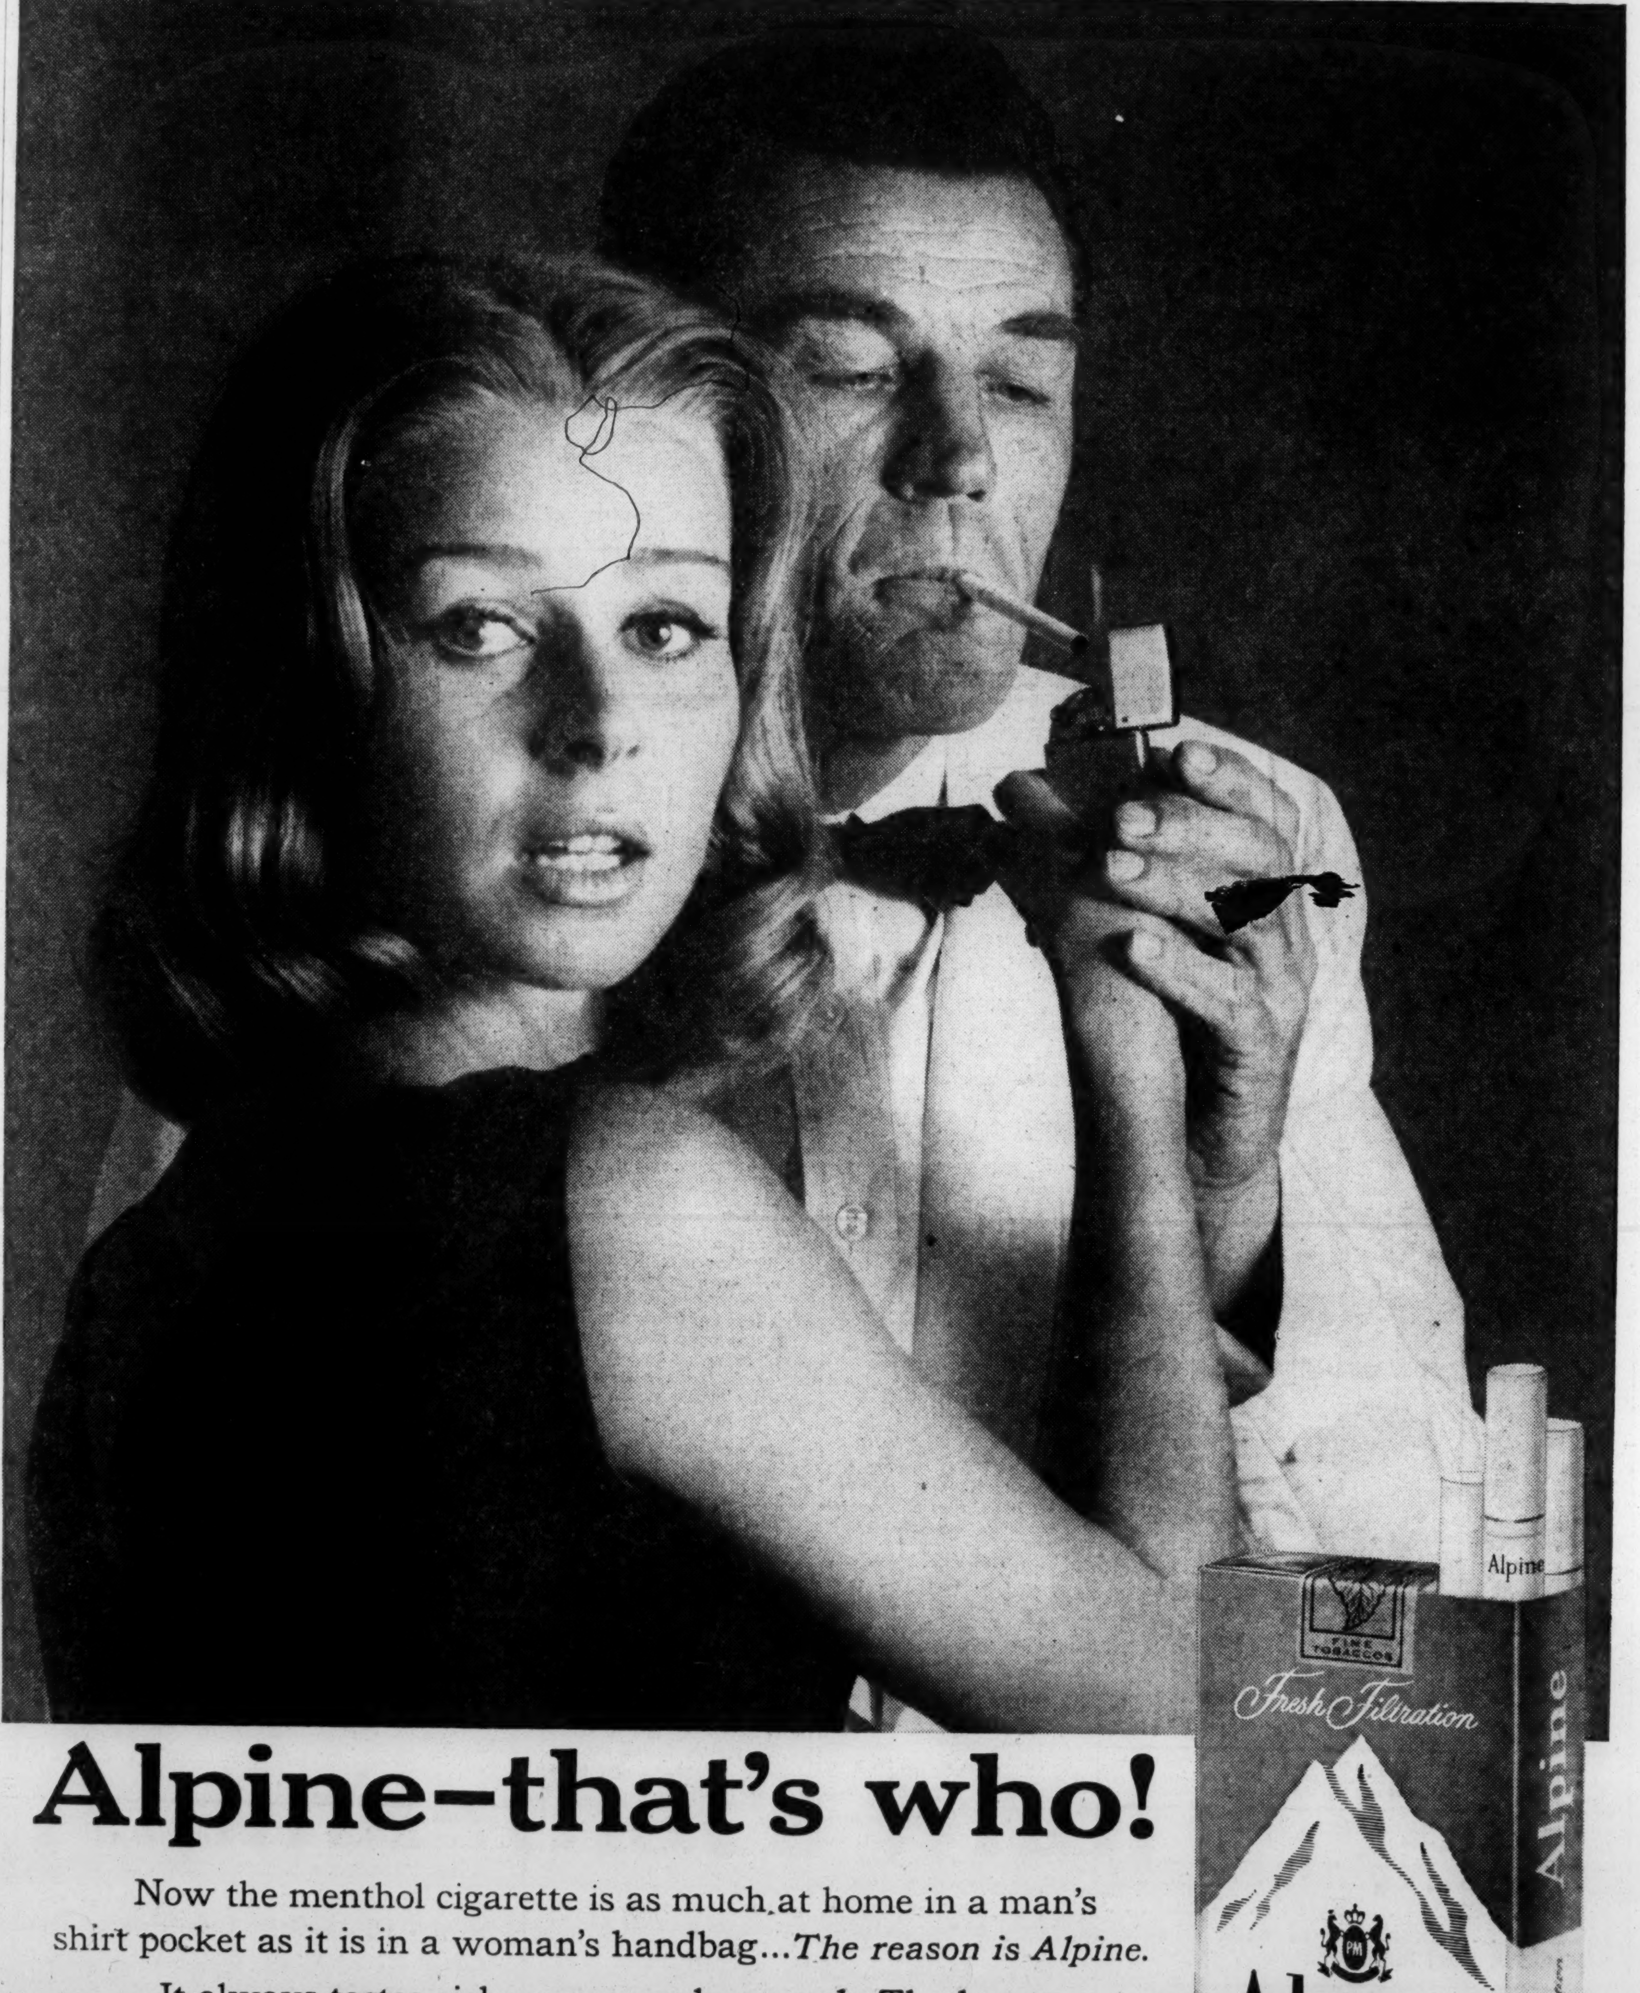
Who put the men in menthol smoking?



Alpine—that's who!

Now the menthol cigarette is as much at home in a man's shirt pocket as it is in a woman's handbag...The reason is Alpine.

It always tastes rich, never smokes rough. The hearty tobaccos are specially blended for the new way of smoking. They give a man a flavor he can get hold of.

The clear, crisp flavor of Alpine will give your taste a fresh start. And your taste stays clean and moist right down to the end of the pack. Try Alpine.

NOTICE OF SALE
OF
$9,133,000.00 PRELIMINARY LOAN NOTES
OF
August 8, 1961

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received by the above-identified local public body corporate (hereinafter called the "Local Public Agency") at 2031 Olive Street in the City of St. Louis, Missouri, until, and publicly opened at one o'clock, P.M., Eastern Daylight Saving Time, on August 22, 1961 for the purchase of $9,133,000.00 of notes of the Local Public Agency to be known as "Preliminary Loan Notes (Third Series, C)," being issued to aid in financing its Urban Renewal Project, designated Project No. Mo. R-2. The United States of America, acting by and through the Housing and Home Finance Agency, has agreed to make a loan under Title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1450 et seq.), to the Local Public Agency to assist the latter in undertaking and carrying out such Project. By authority of said Act and with the agreement of the Local Public Agency, the said Notes are to be unconditionally secured as to the payment of both principal and interest by the United States of America in the manner set forth herein.

THE NOTES will be dated September 19, 1961, will be payable to bearer on September 28, 1962, will bear interest from their date to their maturity at the rate or rates per annum fixed in the proposal or proposals accepted for the purchase of such Notes, will be issued in such denominations, and both principal and interest thereof will be payable at such incorporated Bank having trust powers or incorporated Trust Company, as the purchaser designates in the proposal. Such Bank or Trust Company must be a member of the Federal Reserve System, or of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and must have an unimpaired capital and surplus of not less than the aggregate principal amount of Notes designated in the proposal or proposals submitted by the purchaser; provided, however, that such unimpaired capital and surplus need not exceed One Million Dollars. The Notes will provide that they are not valid until after such Bank or Trust Company has signed the agreement, appearing on each Note, to act as paying agent. The Notes will be transmitted to such Bank or Trust Company for delivery to the purchaser upon receipt and disbursement of such Bank or Trust Company of the purchase price thereof in accordance with instructions from the Local Public Agency. After taking delivery of the Notes, the purchaser shall obtain the signature of such Bank or Trust Company upon the Notes as aforesaid. All fees or charges, if any, of such Bank or Trust Company shall be paid by such purchaser.

SAID NOTES will be special obligations of the Local Public Agency and will be secured by a requisition agreement between the Local Public Agency and the United States of America under the terms of which agreement the United States of America agrees to lend the Local Public Agency prior to the maturity of said Notes an amount sufficient to pay the principal and interest of all said Notes and agrees to cause so much of the proceeds of such loan as shall be sufficient to pay the principal of and interest upon any of said Notes to be deposited at the respective Bank or Trust Company at which said Notes are payable to the benefit of the holder or holders thereof. Under the proceedings authorizing said Notes, the proceeds of such loan payment will be irrevocably pledged first to the payment, at maturity, of the principal of and interest on said Notes.

THE VALIDITY of the Preliminary Loan Notes and of said requisition agreement will be approved by Messrs. Charles & Trauernicht, 408 Pine Street, St. Louis 2, Missouri, and such attorney's opinion will be furnished to the successful purchaser without charge.

ALL PROPOSALS for the purchase of said Notes shall be submitted in a form approved by the Local Public Agency and shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope, addressed to the Local Public Agency, which should be marked on the outside "Proposal for Preliminary Loan Notes." Copies of such form of proposal may be obtained from the Local Public Agency at the address indicated above. Proposals may be submitted subject to completion pursuant to telegraphic instructions which must be received by the Local Public Agency at or before the time above specified for the opening of proposals. In view of certain statutory and policy limitations, no award of the Notes will be made at an interest rate per annum which is not less than Three and Three-fourths per centum (3¾%).

PROPOSALS may be for all or any part of the Notes, and separate proposals will be required for each part of said Notes for which a separate interest rate is bid. Said Notes will be awarded at the lowest interest rate or rates offered in the proposals, without reference to premium; provided, however, that, as among proposals specifying the same lowest interest rate, award will be made on the basis of the highest premium per dollar principal amount of Notes specified in such proposals. No bid for less than $50,000 principal amount of said Notes or for less than par and accrued interest (which interest shall be computed on a 360-day basis) will be entertained, and the Local Public Agency reserves the right to award to any bidder all or any part of the Notes which such bidder offers to purchase in his proposal, upon the basis of such proposal; provided, that if less than $50,000 principal amount of Notes is to be awarded to any bidder, such bidder will be relieved of the obligation to purchase such Notes upon written notice to the Local Public Agency within two days after notification of such proposed award. If ony a part of the Notes bid for in a proposal are awarded by the Local Public Agency, the premium, if any, offered in such proposal shall be prorated and said Notes will be issued in denominations in the order of the lowest denominations specified in such proposal; provided that one Note may be issued in a smaller denomination than is otherwise specified. The further right is reserved to reject any or all proposals.

SECTION 102(g) of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1452), provides as follows: "Obligations, including interest thereon, issued by local public agencies for projects assisted pursuant to this title, and income derived by such agencies from such projects, shall be exempt from all taxation now or hereafter imposed by the United States." In the event that prior to the delivery of any of the Notes to the successful bidder therefor the income received by private holders from obligations of the same type and character shall be taxable by the terms of any Federal income tax law hereafter enacted, the successful bidder may, at his discretion, be relieved of his obligations under the contract to purchase said Notes.

Swim-Suited Robbers Coolly Lock Victims in Refrigerator

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8 (AP)—The heat is on for two barefoot robbers in bathing trunks who locked two grocery clerks in a refrigerator and stole $300 yesterday.

The men entered a supermarket and one said: "I have a gun."

"I don't believe you. Robbers don't wear bathing suits," said clerk Fred Botsford.

These did.

One robber pulled a revolver from a beach bag and forced Botsford and another clerk, Mrs. Penney Nicholson, into a walk-in refrigerator. It took the clerks about 10 minutes to escape. When they emerged the robbers were gone with $300 from the cash register.

POLICE RECRUITS SCREENED BY LIE DETECTOR TESTS

Lie detector tests are being used for the first time in screening recruits for the St. Louis Police Department, it was announced today by H. Sam Priest, president of the Police Board.

Use of the polygraph, he said, is being initiated to assure that all persons appointed to the department meet necessary standards of character, emotional stability and honesty.

It is another means, Priest explained, of weeding out unqualified applicants before they demonstrate through performance that they are not suited for police work.

The tests are being given to 54 recruits who have passed their written examinations and have completed their physical examinations. The tests are being conducted by personnel of Leonarde-Keeler Inc., Chicago, a firm specializing in the training of lie detector operators and internal security officers.

PASTOR NIEMOELLER HURT IN AUTO CRASH

AABENRAA, Denmark, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Rev. Martin Niemoeller, German Lutheran pastor whose outspoken opposition to Adolf Hitler kept him in a concentration camp eight years, was unconscious today more than 12 hours after an automobile crash in which his wife and housekeeper were killed.

Doctors at the Aabenraa hospital said Niemoeller's condition was "satisfactory under the circumstance." The 69-year-old pastor suffered severe head injuries and a great loss of blood. He has been unconscious since he was taken to the hospital after the accident yesterday.

The pastor's car shot across the road at a turn and crashed into a tree when he was driving in South Jutland. Police said they found neither brake tracks nor skid marks at the scene and believed he became ill moments before the crash.

Niemoeller's wife, Maria Elizabeth, 71, was killed instantly. The housekeeper, Mrs. Dorothea Betha Schulz, 47, died at the hospital. Niemoeller's 7-year-old grandson, Martin von Kleewitz, was unhurt.

CRESTWOOD VOTE MAY DECIDE FATE OF HISTORIC HOME

The Sappington House, called the best preserved example of Federal architecture in St. Louis county, will be dedicated to the county for a historical site if Crestwood voters approve a park bond issue Aug. 22, Walter Eschbach of the county planning commission said today.

Built between about 1786 and 1805, the house stands in a three-acre tract on Sappington road opposite the Crestwood Elementary School. Mayor Paul T. Koenig has announced that proposed development of the tract, one of several the city seeks to preserve for park use, may include a library and art exhibits.

Charles Van Ravenswaay, director of the Missouri Historical Society, said the house is in remarkable condition despite recent vandalism. He said it is well situated near the school and could provide county residents with "passive recreation" of historical significance.

Eschbach said the Sappington House is listed on the planning commission's map of historic county sites. He said the county has funds to restore the house if Crestwood voters approve its dedication. Otherwise, he added, an industrial park may absorb the tract.

CONCILIATION MEETING HELD IN HIGHWAY WORK STRIKE

A meeting of representatives of the Southern Illinois Contractors Association and the Southwestern Illinois Laborers District Council was held today with George Squires of the United States Conciliation and Meditation Service.

Members of the council, which represents highway construction workers in a 12-county downstate area, went on strike Tuesday for higher wages. In voting to strike, the highway laborers joined building laborers in East St. Louis, Granite City, Alton and Wood River who walked out earlier last week in a similar wage dispute.

James Mason Jr., executive secretary of the laborers district council, said nine individual road contractors have reached settlements with the union. The union is seeking hourly wage increases of 15 cents retroactive to last Aug. 1 and another 15 cents Aug. 1, 1962.

CITY HALL PICKETED BY 6 URGING JOBS FOR NEGROES

Six pickets walked in front of the Market street entrance to City Hall for about two hours yesterday, carrying signs and passing out leaflets protesting that not enough Negroes were hired as employes of the Mayor's office.

They said they represented the Committee of the People of St. Louis and would picket daily until their demands are met.

5 KILLED WHEN DOOR AT TITAN SITE SLAMS

DENVER, Aug. 8 (AP)—Five workmen were killed and eight injured yesterday when a 58-ton steel and concrete door atop a Titan missile launching silo slammed shut.

Three bodies were recovered. Two others were still pinned between the door and the edge of the silo. A spokesman at Buckley field, scene of the accident 15 miles east of Denver, said that it might be 72 hours before the door could be raised.

Buckley field identified the dead as Jerry E. Brancio, Denver, and George Graham, Aurora. Another of the dead has been identified but his name has not been released pending notification of relatives. The other two victims have not been identified.

Witnesses said that some of those who were injured leaped into safety nets placed at intervals in the 165-foot silo.

The missile base was the first of a Titan three-site complex to be turned over to military control. Each site will have a capacity of six missiles.

The prime contractor, Morrison-Knudson & Associates, Boise, Idaho, formally turned the missile complex over to military control at ceremonies last week.

WOMAN'S BANK ACCOUNTS FROZEN BY COURT ORDER

An order temporarily freezing bank accounts of Mrs. Herman E. Schultz, widow of a founder of the Tower Grove Bank and Trust Co. was issued yesterday by Circuit Judge John C. Casey. The court barred the bank from paying out income from trust funds and other assets credited to Mrs. Schultz.

The order was issued at the request of James A. Purdon, a telephone company employe of Wood River, who is the son of Mrs. Schultz's adopted daughter, Mrs. Helen A. Schultz, by a former marriage. He said his mother had been given power of attorney by Mrs. Herman E. Schultz, and had been writing checks against her mother's accounts.

The petition said Mrs. Herman E. Schultz is 83 years old and in ill health. Purdon said his efforts to see Mrs. Herman Schultz in efforts to conserve the estate had been frustrated. Testimony was given that income from the trust estate managed by the bank is about $11,000 a year and that Mrs. Herman Schultz has about $20,000 a year in other income. Schultz, a vice president of the bank, died in 1935.

OPERATOR OF BELT SANDER ELECTROCUTED IN COUNTY

Lee Edward Behrens, a cabinet maker, was electrocuted yesterday when he was operating a belt sander at the Affton Cabinet and Top Shop, 9312 Alpine drive, Gardenville, St. Louis county police reported.

Behrens, 31 years old, was sanding a cabinet when he fell backward, fellow employes told police. The workers cut off the electricity and called the Affton fire department.

Members of the department tried unsuccessfully to revive Behrens. He was pronounced dead at St. Louis County Hospital. He resides at 4602 Heidelberg avenue.

TWO REVOLVERS STOLEN FROM SHERIFF'S AUTO

Two revolvers were stolen last night from the automobile of Sheriff T. J. Harton of Marshall, Ark., parked near Busch Stadium, he reported to police.

Harton said he parked his car in the 3100 block of North Grand boulevard and went to the St. Louis Cardinals-Cincinnati Reds baseball game. Returning to the car after the game, he noticed the revolvers were missing from the glove compartment.

Police said there were no signs of forced entry. Harton said he thought he had locked the car.

MOVIE UNIONS OK TEST OF PLAN FOR CUT IN FILM COSTS

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) — Movie craft unions agreed yesterday to test a plan to cut the cost of American-made films in competition with foreign pictures.

Under the pact, the union will grant manpower concessions in exchange for a share of profits.

Myerberg estimated that it would be possible under the agreement to make a picture for $200,000 that otherwise would cost $500,000.

Both Myerberg and Steve d'Inzillo, co-ordinator for the locals, said the aim is to bring production costs down to a realistic basis.

"The excesses in constantly rising costs have been the problems of an industry that let things get out of line, with everybody trying to get as much money as possible," Myerberg said.

Hershey Thinks Rejection Rate For Army Is Much Too High

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 — Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service, believes that citizen armies, not professional armies, provide the best national defense. He says it is "frightening" that more than 5,000,000 out of 9,000,000 men in the 18-to-26-year-old bracket have never had any military training.

He believes that the army rejection rate is much too high. Nearly 50 per cent of those selected for service by draft boards are turned down for various deficiencies, "bordering on the frivolous," he said.

The active duty obligations of the reserves, even the six-monthers, could easily be reduced, even to three months, if considerably more persons were called on to assume training obligations, he says.

Gen. Hershey has been director of selective service ever since the draft was instituted 20 years ago this month. He is 68 years old.

Likened to Colonial Days.

In an interview at his office, he likened the situation today to that of the old colonials of New England, clearing the trees from around their log houses to provide an area of safety and visibility against the Indians lurking in the woods.

"Actually, we're in greater danger than those colonials, although our clearing—the vast oceans and distances to the potential enemies — cover greater expanses," he said.

Not that there will be a war, he added. His feelings about international affairs were comparable to his feelings about his personal fate. He does not expect imminent disaster, but he has purchased a lot of insurance.

There will be no trouble in meeting the army's plans for increased draft quotas he said. There are about 1,600,000 men with 1-A status, and if even half are deferred, there still would be plenty of potential recruits, he said.

Increase in September.

The nation-wide draft call for August is 13,000. It will be increased to at least 20,000 in September. The present pool of eligibles numbers 70,000 and is being increased to 100,000.

One of the points the selective service director frequently makes is that, while the draft calls recently averaged only 5000 or 6000 a month, the number of persons entering military service totaled 40,000 to 60,000 a month.

The chances have been slim that any eligible young man could escape all forms of possible military service, it is stressed at selective service headquarters. With increased calls these chances will grow slimmer.

DENIES RUSSIA GETS U.S. PATENT SECRETS

Rumors that the Soviet Union has direct access to United States Patent Office information pertaining to national security are false, the commissioner of patents in the Department of Commerce told a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday.

David L. Ladd, of Washington, said the Patent Office publishes an official gazette which includes general information about patent applications and issuances, but does not carry information touching on the national security.

He said the gazette is available in most public libraries and is for sale to the public for 25 cents.

Ladd pointed out that the Patent Office exchanges copies of non-classified patents with a number of countries, including Russia. The Soviet patent office provides Americans with many good ideas through this medium, he said.

Ladd will address a meeting of the trademarks and copyrights section of the American Bar Association at noon tomorrow in the Statler Hilton Hotel.

The other four who filed since Gov. John M. Dalton signed a bill creating the new position Friday are Gordon Eliseuson, Mehlville; Magistrate A. Bertram Elam; First Assistant Prosecuting Attorney William J. Shaw, and Drew W. Luten Jr., who was named by the Governor to fill the post until Nov. 1962. All candidates have filed for the Democratic nomination. The election will be in August 1962.

A gasoline tank truck was slightly damaged yesterday when a fire broke out as gasoline was being pumped from the truck to a storage tank at the Dave Bush Service, 6 Gravois road, Fenton.

LUXURY LINER HITS WHALE IN ATLANTIC AT FULL SPEED

STAVANGER, Norway, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Norwegian-America line luxury liner Oslofiord hit a whale when sailing the Atlantic at full speed from New York to Norway Aug. 2, Capt. Bjoernulf Egeland reported today.

The 543 persons had just been served dinner when the ship shuddered. People ran on deck. Seamen reported blood flowed in the wake of the liner.

FIRM SPOTS SHOWN IN WEAK GRAIN LIST

CHICAGO, Aug. 8 (AP)—The grain futures market showed some firmness in spots today, but the general trend was toward weakness with most corn contracts again hitting season low levels on the Board of Trade.

September soybeans were hardest hit, however, and lost about 3 cents at times on selling described as outright liquidation. The new crop months eased mostly fractions.

Corn showed some signs of a rally in the early afternoon as pressure eased and short covering increased.

St. Louis Unemployment in June Below Other Areas of Nation

6.3 Pct. Idle Compared With 7.5 Pct. Elsewhere in U.S. — Reversal of Pattern in Previous Reports.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent.

Unemployment in June was less severe in the St. Louis area than elsewhere in the United States.

There were 56,000 persons seeking work in the metropolitan area on June 15, the Missouri Division of Employment Security reported last week. This amounted to 6.3 per cent of the civilian labor force of 883,400.

W. H. Kester

In the United States as a whole there were 5,580,000 unemployed in June, or 7.5 per cent of the labor force of 74,286,000. Unemployment is usually high in June as a result of the influx of graduates and school age persons seeking jobs. On a seasonally adjusted basis, national unemployment amounted to 6.8 per cent of the labor force.

The less severe rate of unemployment in the St. Louis area than in the nation is a reversal of the pattern portrayed by previous reports. In May, unemployment in the area had been estimated at 60,900, or 7.1 per cent of the labor force, compared with a national average of 6.7 per cent.

The St. Louis area was classified by the Department of Labor last year as having substantial unemployment. This resulted from the increase in joblessness to more than 6 per cent of the labor force.

Peak In March.

Declining business activity plus seasonal layoffs pushed unemployment to a peak of 76,000 in March. At that time it was estimated that 8.9 per cent of the labor force was seeking work.

The area continued to be classified as having more than 6 per cent unemployment as of July 31. This was based on the May report, an official of the Department of Labor told the Post-Dispatch.

The labor surplus designation probably will continue on the basis of the June report, despite the lower than national rate of unemployment in the area, he said. Some increase in unemployment was expected in July and August as a result of seasonal factors, primarily the closing of automobile assembly plants for model changeovers.

The area classifications are based on the outlook for employment as well as the ratio of unemployment to the work force.

The better-than-national situation in the St. Louis area resulted primarily from the revision of unemployment and employment estimates.

A new technique was used in the June report in estimating the number of self-employed, unpaid family workers and domestic service workers in private households and the number of unemployed. Employment in May, originally estimated at 793,700, is now calculated at 815,000. The revision added 21,300 to the job total, primarily in the self-employed, unpaid family and domestic service categories.

The labor force for May was revised from 855,200 to 867,800, an increase of only 12,600. As a result, unemployment was reduced from 60,900 to a revised figure of 52,200, a drop of 8700. The rate of unemployment was revised from 7.1 per cent of the labor force to 6 per cent by the new estimates issued by the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

The revision of the St. Louis area figures was postponed from last year, the Post-Dispatch learned today. It was known that the revision would lead to lower estimates of unemployment, an official of the agency in Jefferson City said. The difference in the revised and unrevised figures was smaller last June than when unemployment was higher, he said. The new technique resulted in a smaller difference as unemployment declined.

The old estimating technique overstated unemployment in the area, he said. The new method is a refinement and leads to more valid figures.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's government-controlled cotton crop at 13,918,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight.

This forecast, the first of the year, is 354,000 bales less than last year's crop of 14,272,000 bales. It compares with the 10-year (1950-59) average of 13,553,000 bales.

Like other cotton crops since 1954, this one is being grown under federal planting allotments and marketing quotas designed to prevent overproduction. This year's production will be supplemented by a reserve and surplus of about 7,500,000 bales accumulated from past crops.

By comparison, domestic and export markets are expected to require slightly more than 15 million bales during the 1961-crop marketing season.

In an accompanying report, the census bureau said 227,680 running bales of cotton from this year's crop had been ginned up to Aug. 1 compared with 139,779 a year earlier.

The department forecast this acreage for harvest this year at 15,652,000 acres compared with 15,309,000 harvested last year and 18,737,000 for the ten-year average.

Missouri had 390,000 acres, 492 yield per acre and 400,000 bales.

BOND PRICES DOWN, SHORT TERM RATES UP

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Corporate and U.S. Government bonds retreated all along the line late today.

Over the counter dealers in Treasury securities quoted long bonds off 2-32 to 12-32 and intermediates off 2-32 to 4-32. The loss for the long section was about triple the opening setback. Volume tapered off after a moderate start.

Rails, industrials and utilities all moved downward in New York Stock Exchange corporate transactions. Volume was running about 5 per cent above yesterday's pace.

There were few gainers of a point or more outside the convertibles.

With yesterday's steep losses by government bonds, about one and a half dozen issues were producing a yield of over 4 per cent. At the close Friday the total was only 12. Many issues are selling at their lowest price of 1961.

Bond specialists are adopting the idea that the Treasury will have to seek new funds earlier than originally expected in order to help pay for the speeded up defense program.

The market is convinced that interest rates will rise, particularly if business continues to improve. Higher interest rates mean lower bond prices since bond yields also would tend to rise.

The Treasury's shortest term borrowing costs rose yesterday at the weekly bill auction for the third straight week. They reached a two-month high. The average yield on the new issue of 91-day bills moved up to 2.366 per cent compared with 2.3 a week ago. The companion issue of 182-day bills sold at an average yield of 2.617 per cent, up from 2.557.

Demand was less than enthusiastic. This kept the yields at the highest level since the sale of June 6. Investor interest in other U.S. Government securities has been lagging for several weeks and specialists said the condition carried over into the bill market.

INT. PAPER HALF-YEAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Sales and earnings of the six months ended June 30 declined from the 1960 first half level, International Paper Co. reported.

The company earned $36,540,735, equal to 89 cents a share, compared with $37,906,202, or 92 cents a share, in the 1960 period. Sales dropped to $510,753,046 from $519,062,404.

In the three months ended June 30 the company's profits totaled $20,698,469, equal to 51 cents a share on sales of $264,066,942. This compares with $19,630,380, equal to 48 cents a share, on sales of $263,262,531 in the 1960 second quarter.

"During the first six months of 1961 there has been a continuing pressure on earnings and there have been price reductions for some grades in the paper and paperboard industry," said chairman Richard C. Doane.

"In June, however, there was evidence of improved volume for the industry and we believe there will be further improvement during the balance of the year."

Lady Luck...

Once in a blue moon you might wind up making money by chance alone. But blue moons in our experience make mighty poor substitutes for blue chips.

Not that everybody should just invest in those, either.

There are many other seasoned stocks that might make suitable investments for particular people in particular circumstances.

Which should you buy?

Our Research Department will be glad to make the best suggestions it can in the light of your financial circumstances, your investment objectives.

AIRCRAFT-SPACE ISSUES STRONG IN FIRM MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP)—Stock market prices headed upward at the close today, adding to gains achieved earlier in the day.

Aircraft-missile stocks remained in favor, along with electronics and steels, as key issues advanced fractions to a point or more. Some small losers kept a damper on the rise.

Trading activity picked up as prices advanced. The tape ran late just before clase, as frequently happens when orders pile up in the final minutes. It also had been late for a brief period this morning.

Prices were higher in the morning, started to slip in mid-afternoon and then came on strongly again in the final half-hour.

Raytheon was up more than 2 and United Aircraft ahead around 1½ just before the final bell.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4,000,000 shares compared with 3,560,000 shares yesterday.

Market analysts were watching the trading volume closely, looking for clues to future trends. A pause for digestion of last week's big gains was more or less expected, but there was no telling how long it might last.

A block of 21,300 shares Kaiser Aluminum sold off a point at 41½.

On American Board.

American Stock Exchange late afternoon prices turned mixed, losing an earlier upside edge, with trading moving along moderately. Viewlex was up more than 3 and gains of a point or so included Edo Corp., Hydrometals, and Stop and Shop. Barnes engineering and Syntex were off around a point, Peruvian Oils a small fraction.

LONDON MARKET QUIET

LONDON, Aug. 8 (AP)—Trading was quiet on the London Stock Exchange today under a cloud of continuing British economic uncertainties.

Last week's spurt of equity buying appeared to have subsided. Some selective buying was recorded but gains were not fully held. Several leading industrials closed lower on balance.

Government stocks edged up in response to quiet investment demand and made some useful recoveries from the decline of last week.

Gold and copper shares were dull. Oil shares were quiet and mainly easier.

N.Y. RESERVE BANK ON BUSINESS TURN

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP) — The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said today that recent gains in the business situation should not be exaggerated.

"Various monthly data show that the current recovery rate has been pretty much in line with those experienced during the early stages of the other postwar cyclical upturns," the bank's monthly review stated.

"In comparision with previous postwar recoveries the recent gains should not be exaggerated."

The bank found evidence that the recovery during the second quarter was stronger than generally assumed.

"At the same time," the review added, "there was some slackening in the rate of advance in June and probably July, on top of the usual seasonal influences."

The bank called the president's July 25 speech requesting a defense spending step-up a major new element in the business outlook.

"It is as yet difficult to determine, however, to what extent it will speed the return to full utilization of the economy's resources or at what point it might . . . begin to exert a definite upward pressure on prices."

WEST GERMAN STOCKS UP ON KHRUSHCHEV TALK

FRANKFORT, Germany, Aug. 8 (AP) — West German stocks advanced on a broad front today, reflecting optimism in the wake of Uremier Khrushchev's radio and television address.

Brokers reported orders were received both from foreign and domestic buyers favorably impressed by Khrushchev's renewed offer to negotiate the Berlin problem.

Leading chemicals, including Berlin values, gained between 28 and 6 marks ($7 and $1.50). The German General Electric, also largely based in Berlin, picked up $4 and the lower priced steel values increased between 2.50 and 6 marks (62½ cents and $1.50).

Daimler, the top automative value, moved up to 2,650 marks a gain of 150 ($37.50).

West German markets have been weak ever since Khrushchev revived the Berlin isue more than a month ago. Despite a recent recovery trend the market is still for below the pre-crisis level.

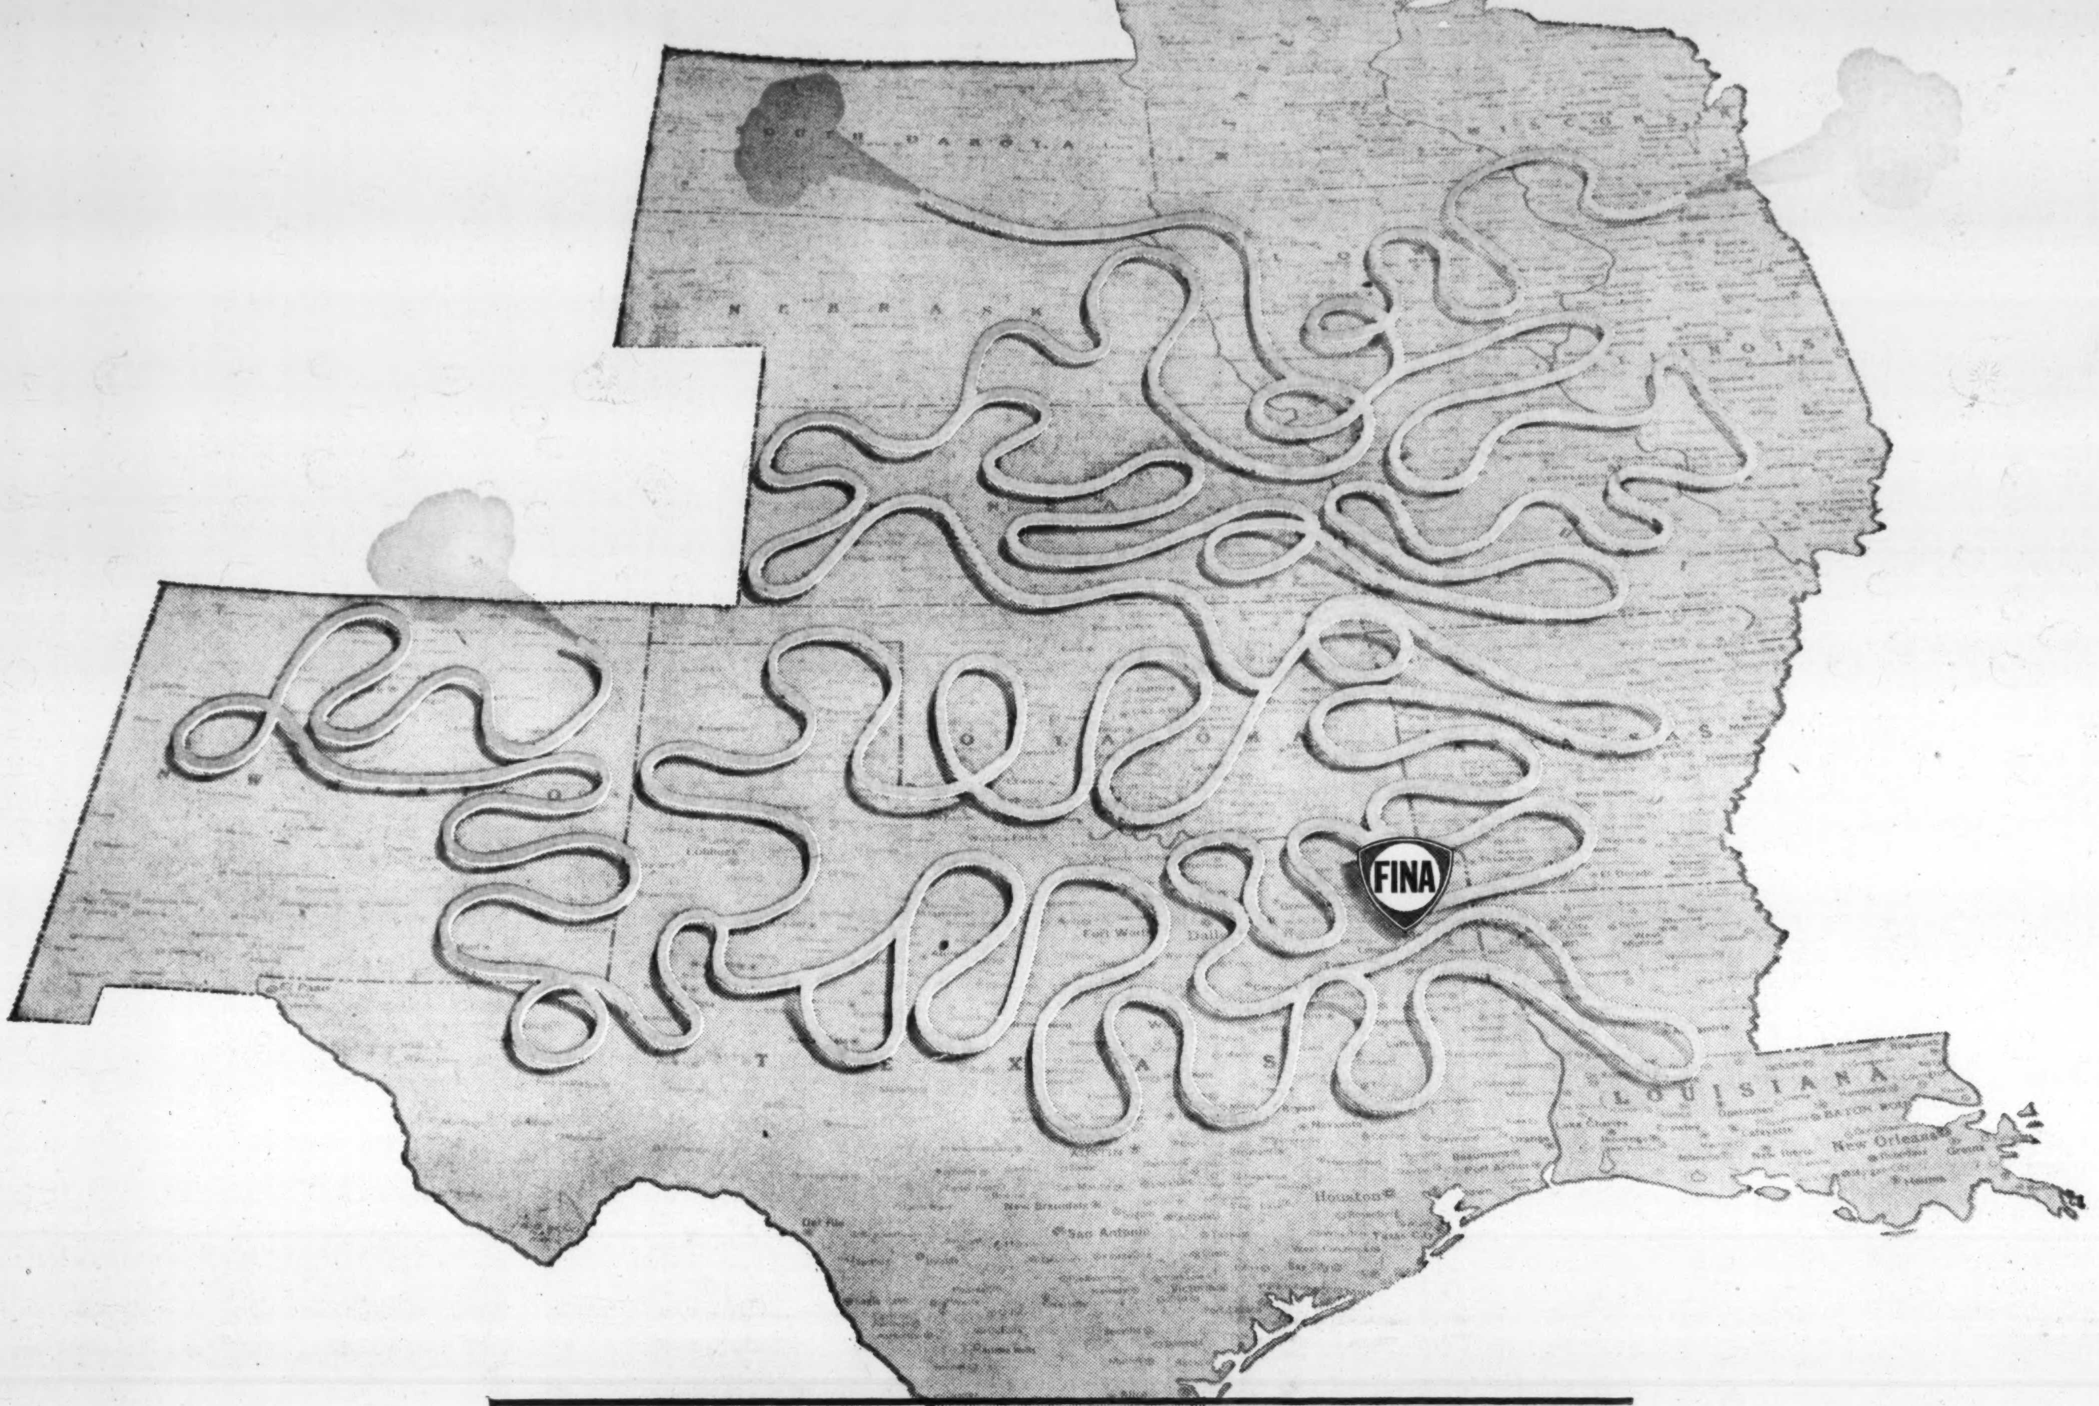
[FINA CONSIDERS THE LOGISTICS IN GETTING PINK AIR, THE ADDITIVE OF THE FUTURE, TO LITTLE FINA STATIONS AS WELL AS BIG FINA STATIONS]



A PINK AIR PIPELINE?

Pink Air, if you recall, is Fina's additive of the future; the secret ingredient which will make the inside of your tires prettier. It is the only possible additive left; everything else in your car has already been taken care of. So Fina can be first, we have started a crash program, The Fina Five Year Plan. Now the question has come up: How are we going to get Pink Air© to the thousands of Fina stations by May 12th, 1966?

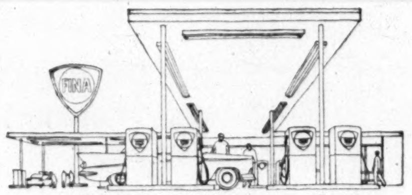
There are two answers:

1. That we transport Pink Air in the same trucks as we do our gasoline: from our refineries in Mount Pleasant, Wichita Falls, and El Dorado to Fina stations. This is impractical because the pink air might mingle with and color the gasoline. Our gas doesn't need any more additives; it is already as good as the best.

2. That we build a Pink Air pipe line: The Pink Inch (See map above): This isn't as easy as it sounds; it would be a lot of hard work and would probably cost a pretty penny. You know, you don't just get out there and lay pipe across the countryside. You've got to ask people's permission and pay them something to boot. Still, if we have to do it we have to do it.

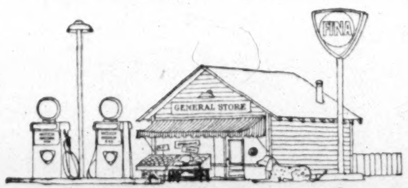
   Maybe the easiest thing would be to make it out of air hoses like we use in our stations, only thousands of miles long: The Little Pink Inch. We don't suppose people would mind so much having a very thin line strung across their front yards and all, if we made it worth their while.

The real advantage to the proposed Little Pink Inch Pipe Line is that it would be fair. It would make Pink Air available at the big Fina stations and the little Fina stations at one and the same time, without fear or favor.



[BIG FINA STATION]

A big Fina station has, in addition to lots of pumps you can see, lots of underground storage tanks; and lots of attendants to keep check on them. So taking care of Pink Air would be no problem at all.



[LITTLE FINA STATION]

But a little Fina station might be just two pumps in front of a general store and the proprietor not only has no extra storage space but is plenty busy as it is, what with slicing bacon and all. You might have to honk twice, not that he doesn't give you good service once he knows you're there. So you can see a direct line from the refinery would be a real help to him.

There are still a few details to be worked out; such as how to get it across highways. Maybe when we come to a road we could string it between poles. If the telephone company people will cooperate. Well, we have five years to iron out the kinks and we'll probably need every minute of it.

Meanwhile, if you are driving down the road and you see a Fina station and it's on your side so you don't have to make a U-turn through traffic and there aren't six cars waiting and you need gas or something, please stop in.*

We've said this so often now that it's gotten to be sort of the Fina motto. It isn't very pushy as mottos go, but it's realistic. We don't expect you to do anything that isn't reasonable or convenient.*

Ann Bancroft, Star Who Gets Slapped

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (AP).

ANNE BANCROFT is a young lady who has been struck in the face more than 2800 times in the name of art.

Film audiences gasped years ago when actress Mae Clarke played a role in which Jimmy Cagney pushed a grapefruit in her face.

As Annie Sullivan, teacher of deaf, mute and blind Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker," she was slapped hard—or hit in the face with a plastic doll—four times a performance by her undisciplined young charge whom she gradually brings to love and learning.

Ann played the stage role through 700 performances and won her second Broadway Tony award. The first was for "Two for the Seesaw."

She and Patty Duke, who plays Helen Keller as a child, are again co-starred in the screen version of "The Miracle Worker," a picture that probably won't leave a dry eye between here and Timbuktu.

The other day I talked with Miss Bancroft during a luncheon break on the set. She still wore knee pads under her long gown, and her head was ringing. They had just finished shooting one of the slapping sequences, and Anne had been bopped in the face—and bopped hard to insure realism—some 15 times.

"It's all in the business," she said matter-of-factly, "but sometimes you hate to do it over and over again—if it isn't your fault."

She said she had a headache but Anne, a dedicated actress if ever there was one, declined to take any aspirin. She feared it might affect her performance in the scenes to be taken that afternoon.

She sighed and stretched out gracefully on a relaxing board in her dressing room. Then she broke out her lunch—three carrots—and began to munch them thoughtfully.

"This is all I have on days when we're doing the physically rough scenes," she remarked. "If I ate any more, I'd get an upset stomach."

Anne, whose first public performance was an impromptu dance as a child before a captive audience of eight WPA street workers in her native Bronx, was signed early by Hollywood. She appeared in a dozen or more films, all of which now she is wryly willing to forget.

ANNE BANCROFT does an unscheduled somersault in struggle with Patty Duke in filming of "The Miracle Worker."

But it was her two starring appearances on Broadway that won her fame and recognition as one of the best of the current crop of young dramatic actresses. She is also one of the best-liked by other performers, who regard her as a real pro who worked hard to develop her natural talent.

"I have hundreds and hundreds of problems," she said cheerfully, tossing aside the rubble of the third carrot, "but no real plans ahead.

"I don't see how one can plan ahead in this business. I take singing lessons when I'm not busy working. I just want to do good stuff, whether its musicals or dramas.

"I'm not sure just what kind of a person I am yet. I don't believe I have a real philosophy of my own. I enjoy acting when it's good, and people—even when they're bad. I'm pretty content right now, but"—she laughed—"I don't know how I'll feel tonight."

She arose from the relaxing board to return to the set. The next scene was one in which Patty Duke was to sock her in the face with a plastic doll.

"They'll probably have to shoot it over six or seven times," Anne said gamely, "but the blows don't hurt so bad except when Patty misses.

Ann Landers

Too Big a Diamond

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with this fellow for two years. We get along well together. Our only problem is interference from his family. Please tell me if you think I'm being silly about this one thing:

ANN LANDERS

We plan to be engaged on my birthday. Clyde wants to give me a large diamond that belongs to his mother. I don't want it. I've told him I'd prefer a small stone, or none at all. I would feel foolish wearing such a big rock, especially when it's obvious that he could not afford to buy such a ring. (He's 23 and still in school.)

He says his mother insists because the family has a reputation to uphold and everyone will be watching to see what kind of ring I get. All this makes me sick to my stomach. How do you feel?

F.E.

Dear F.E.: Sick to my stomach. By all means stick by your principles. If you cave in on this one you'll lose them all from now on.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is a very touchy one. Please tell us what to do.

My aunt (who is my dad's sister) is harmless but her mind wanders a lot. When my uncle passed away two years ago he left her an awful lot of money. She lives well, travels a lot and has the best of everything.

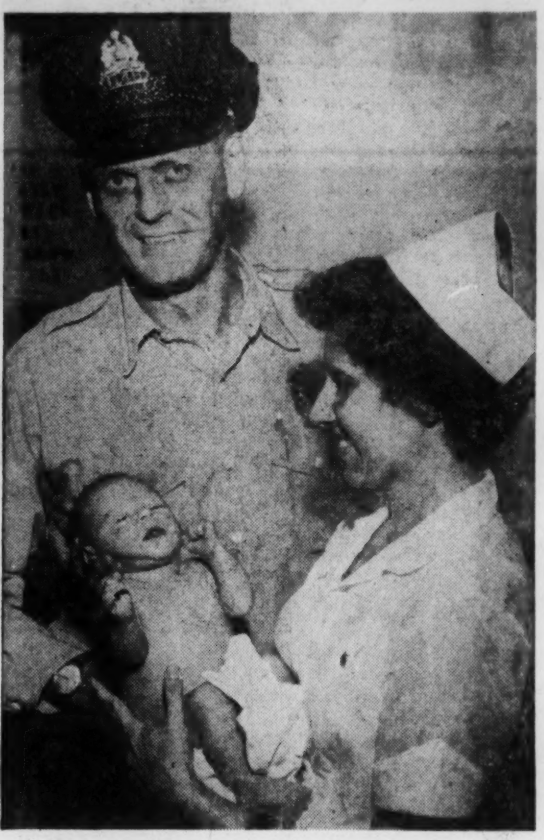
For a wedding gift she gave us a sizable check. We went to cash it last week and it bounced. Dad says it's impossible that she is out of money. His theory is that she has several bank accounts and is confused. Dad thinks we should tell her. My husband says he'd rather skip it. I am TORN

Dear Torn: Your dad gave you good advice—take it. And I suggest that your dad have a talk with his pixilated sister and urge her to enlist the services of an accountant or an attorney. She needs help.

Mouth-to-Mouth Way to Save Lives

Artificial Respiration Method Widely Adopted in Recent Years Is Simple but Effective

Fireman in Brooklyn, N.Y., uses mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to revive a victim of smoke inhalation. Accompanying story tells how method is used.



St. Louis Patrolman WILLIAM RELLING with MRS. VERA KEMMIS, City Hospital nurse, and 6-week-old CALLIE ROBINSON, who was revived by the officer by the mouth-to-mouth method last month.

By Patricia Krebs

LATE ONE EVENING last summer Robert L. York Jr. and Edward Allers, St. Louis police officers, answered an emergency call for an 8-month-old baby who had been stricken with bronchial pneumonia.

"About four or five people met us in the yard with the baby," York related. "No one knew what to do for it.

"Right away I could see it wasn't breathing. It was limp, looked half-dead. I just reached over and grabbed it and started applying mouth-to-mouth resuscitation." That is, he began blowing air into the baby's lungs through its mouth and nose.

Halfway to the hospital the baby began to breathe a little for itself, York said, and he timed the resuscitation to the baby's feeble effort to breathe.

The officers called ahead to the hospital to have a mechanical resusciatator prepared for use, and it fully revived the infant. But while such equipment surpasses all other means of artificial respiration, it had not been available when the baby had to have air. York saved its life.

Another successful use of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation was made here when Patrolman William Relling recently revived a 6-week-old baby suffering from respiratory distress. A number of similar incidents have been reported since the mouth-to-mouth method was widely adopted as the best non-mechanical means of artificial respiration, in 1959.

These rescues have been made by policemen, firemen and other especially trained persons for the most part. Yet almost anyone could use the method as well, and after only brief study. Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is one of the simplest first-aid techniques available, and one of the most important.

A variety of accidents can cause respiratory failure. The swimmer who tires beyond his depth, the child whose bite of food goes down the "wrong way," and the baby who sucks a plastic sheet up against its nose and mouth are typical victims. Others may have succumbed to heart attack, electric shock, overdosage of barbiturates or narcotics and inhalation of poisonous gases like carbon monoxide and blackdamp. More than 11,300 persons died from respiratory failure in this country last year, according to the National Safety Council.

The life of a victim will often depend on efforts by someone on the scene, for he may not be able to survive the wait for a rescue worker. If resuscitation is begun within one minute after breathing stops, 98 of 100 persons will survive, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association. If it is begun after one minute, 92 will survive. After that the number of possible recoveries drops appreciably. Only 25 out of 100 will respond to resuscitation begun after four minutes.

▸ 2. Clears the throat of any foreign matter that may be visible.

▸ 3. Tilts the victim's head back and lifts his lower jaw up so that it juts out beyond the upper jaw. This may be done by grasping the middle of the lower jaw inside the mouth by the thumb and pulling up, or, if the victim's mouth cannot be opened, by grasping the lower jaw at its angles, under the ear lobes, and pulling up. This position must be maintained, for it prevents the tongue, which is attached to the lower jaw, from blocking the airway; in an unconscious victim, the jaw relaxes and the base of the tongue slides toward the back of the mouth.

▸ 4. Places his mouth tightly over the victim's mouth and blows, while pinching his nostrils or resting one cheek against them. (Or, places his mouth over the victim's nose and blows, while covering the mouth.) Air may be blown through the teeth if they are clenched.

▸ 5. Places his mouth over both the nose and mouth, if the victim is an infant or small child, and blows.

▸ 6. Removes his mouth from the face of the victim to allow him to exhale. If no return rush of air is heard, the rescuer should first check the position of the head and lower jaw and then, if necessary, strike the victim between the shoulder blades, to dislodge foreign matter. The mouth must be kept free of foreign matter throughout the rescue effort.

The rescuer should blow forcefully for an adult and gently for a child. For an infant he should use only puffs of air, blown from the cheeks, to avoid over-inflating the lungs.

The amount of air required for a victim can be easily determined, it is said. The rescuer blows until he feels the resistance of the expanded lung or notes the smooth rise of the chest. The breathing rate for an adult victim should be about 12 breaths a minute, for a child, about 20 breaths a minute.

During mouth-to-mouth resuscitation the victim's stomach may become filled with air, and extreme gastric distention may reduce lung volume, in raising the diaphram, and impair circulation. With infants and small children the rescuer may place one hand on the abdomen, between the breastbone and navel, and press gently throughout resuscitation to keep air from passing down the esophagus or to expel air from the stomach. With adults, pressure can be applied only at intervals since the rescuer must use both hands to hold the victim's jaw and cover his nose. Serious gastric distention seems less likely to occur in adult victims.

The rescue effort should be continued until the victim revives or a doctor pronounces him dead or rigor mortis sets in.

The current practice of mouth-to-mouth resuscitation dates back through studies begun about 1950. The Army Chemical Corps had developed a mask resuscitator for use on nerve gas casualties in a contaminated atmosphere. This device was based on the mouth-to-mouth method, and interest quickly centered on it. A number of doctors joined in the study, including, in 1951, Dr. James O. Elam and Dr. Elwyn S. Brown, then at the Washington University School of Medicine.

The investigators found that mouth-to-mouth resuscitation is superior to the "push-pull" and other non-mechanical methods in delivering enough air to the lungs of the victim, partly because the rescuer is in a position to guard against obstruction of the victim's airway, the most common cause of failure in artificial respiration. Using the mouth-to-mouth method requires little energy and little physical strength, it was found. A child of 9 could revive a man weighing 250 pounds with the method, it is said.

The reports of the investigators led to the indorsement of the mouth-to-mouth method by the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, the American Red Cross, and the Armed Forces, among others. Groups now teaching the method include police and fire departments, schools, industries, churches, "Y" groups and Parent-Teacher Associations. In the St. Louis area last year, more then 18,000 persons received formal instruction in the method, according to J. Francis Bruno, director of safety services of the St. Louis Bi-State Chapter of the American Red Cross.

It took nothing less than the prospect of nerve gas warfare to rouse interest in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, apparently. The method was by no means new in 1950. It had been practiced off and on for centuries until about 1850, when it dropped out of use.

The Bible refers to mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, in the story of Elisha and the son of the Shunammite woman, Kings II, 4:34:

"And he went up, and lay upon the child, and put his mouth upon his mouth, and his eyes upon his eyes, and his hands upon his hands: and he stretched himself upon the child and the flesh of the child waxed warm."

Obstetricians have long used mouth-to-mouth resuscitation for asphyxial newborn babies.

Yet mouth-to-mouth resuscitation did not take hold. One objection was the fear that the rescuer would exhale air containing too much carbon dioxide and too little oxygen for the victim. Case histories had indicated that this was not true, however, and calculations made by Elam and others proved it. They showed that the extra air the rescuer must breathe to inflate the victim's lungs at the prescribed rates precludes the danger.

The real reason for ignoring mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, according to Dr. Allen Dobkin in "Save a Life" (1959), was "reticence or even repulsion from applying one's mouth to that of a stranger especially when he appears dead or on the verge of death. . . . For that reason a number of other techniques were devised."

Dr. Dobkin dismisses fear of cross-infection from using the method as a mere "excuse."

The risk of cross-infection from using the method appears to be negligible, a St. Louis anesthesiologist said. No cases of it have been reported so far as he knows, he said.

Those who still are squeamish about using mouth-to-mouth resuscitation may place a cloth over the victim's mouth and blow through the cloth without seriously impeding ventilation. Masks and airways also can be used, but only after special training.

1. Win the king of spades, cross to dummy with a diamond, and lead the queen of clubs and finesse. If the finesse loses, 10 tricks become certain. If the finesse wins, repeat it. This line of play guarantees the contract even though either defender shows out on the first or second lead of clubs.

2. Play the queen of spades. If it wins, the contract is made. But assume South covers the queen with the king. Take it and lead the ace of hearts.

If trumps are divided 1-1, 12 tricks are certain. Assume, though, that South has both missing trumps. The slam is still guaranteed because you can lead the king of clubs, take it with the ace, cash the queen, discarding a spade, and ruff a spade.

Now you throw South in with a trump and he must return a diamond or else give you a ruff and discard. Either return makes the contract.

If it turns out that North has the K-Q of hearts, the prospects are less certain, but still good. Follow the same line of play—cash two clubs, ruff a spade, and give North his trump trick.

This forces him to lead a diamond; otherwise you would ruff in dummy and discard your diamond loser.

If North leads the ten or queen of diamonds, the hand is over. If he leads a low diamond, play low from dummy. This will kill South's queen if North has the ten.

If South produces the ten, win the king, play a diamond, and finesse. You lose the contract only if South was dealt both the queen and the ten.

Great, Big Mexican Conversation Piece

CLARISSA START

SOME TRAVELERS may believe, as the ads say, that "getting there is half the fun." To me, shopping after you get there is even more fun, especially in a foreign country. The first conversational phrases I learn in any language are, "How much?" and "Bargain sale."

Mexico is heaven for the price conscious. To give a few tantalizing examples: Soft drinks at 4 cents, orchid or gardenia corsages at 10 to 20 cents, little boys' haircuts at 28 cents. Obviously any red-blooded American woman encountering this state of affairs reels slightly and then rallies to implore, "Take me to your shopping center."

The shopping center to end all shopping centers is the Mexico "mercado" or market, a huge collection of booths operated by private entrepreneurs where you buy anything from a turquoise bracelet to a pinata.

A pinata, in case you've never seen a Mexican Christmas, is a clay, crepe paper decorated object, usually in the shape of an animal, which is filled with candies and toys and hung just within arm's reach in the center of the room. Children, blindfolded, hit at the hanging pinata until it breaks and then they scramble for the goodies. In summer, they dangle, long strings of them, in the mercado, to tempt tourists.

"Oh look," I said, pointing at a pinata goose with a five-foot wing spread. My husband recognized the acquisitive tone.

"What would you do with it when you got it home?" he asked. "Besides, there's no room for it in the car."

"It would be wonderful for parties," I said. "Sort of a conversation piece. And we'd squeeze it in somehow."

Our car is a small one, however, and after we'd bought the baskets and pottery and huaraches and sombreros at the Mercado Colon and Mercado Juarez, I stopped campaigning for a pinata. Besides, our son was cornering the market on toy tarantulas (just the thing for your friends if you're 9 years old) and they took up a lot of room.

At Monterrey markets, one bargains. My husband, who did Army service in Persia, is adept at this skill, haggling over every object except the one which interests him, until the final parry. The sellers are well aware of the maneuvers since it is a stylized performance but expect this sort of thing and appear to appreciate the good haggler more than the tourist who pays the original price. Our son entered into bargaining zestfully if crudely. ("Twenty pesos or I don't buy it," was his ultimatum.)

In Monterrey we bought jewelry, in Mexico City lacquered plates, onyx ware, arrowheads. In Acapulco we bought very little; prices were high and sellers too jaded to bargain. We returned to Monterrey with pesos left over but at a late hour. Wistfully I thought of the pinatas in the market but knew we'd be leaving long before the markets were open.

"Let's spend what's left," my husband said when we got there. "Buy yourself something. Get a purse or some perfume."

I came back to the car with my purchase hidden behind me, as well as you can hide a three-foot paper elephant.

My husband was right about one thing. It didn't fit into the car. But I was right, too. It is a conversation piece. It made conversation practically all the way home.

THE EARLY DAYS of the "New Yorker" were highlighted by the running feud between Editor Harold Ross and his coy, self-satisfied star contributor, Alexander Woollcott. Woollcott once completed some intricate testimonial transaction whereby he came into possession of 200 expensive Paris neckties, and in a moment of rare graciousness, told Ross, "Pick one out for yourself." Ross not only picked one for himself, but pilfered 40 extra in the process. The next time Mr. W. paid a scheduled visit to the "New Yorker" office, everybody in the place, from elevator boy and the receptionist to the statue of John Greenleaf Whittier in the founder's private sanctum, was draped in one of Woolcott's cravats. "Ross," shrkied Woolcott, "you are the kind of poltroon with whom no gentleman can deal!" and flounced off to his island in Vermont—to write another column for the "New Yorker."

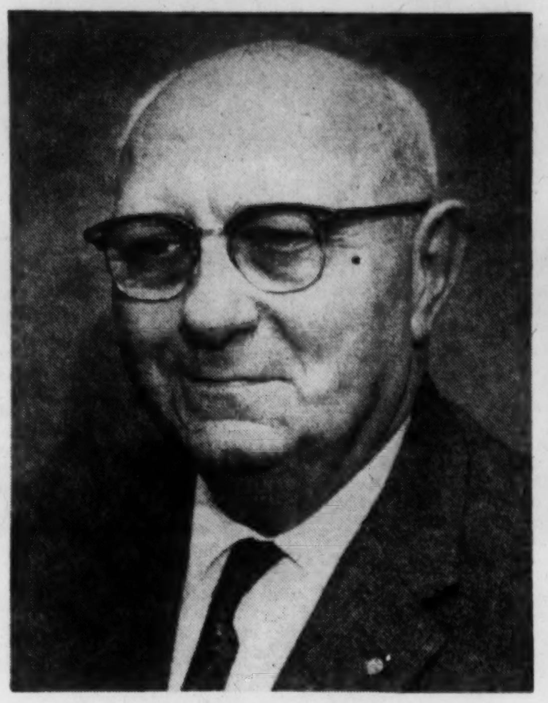
St. Louisan Visits His Orphans in Korea



MAJ. EDWARD R. BATES

Retired Army Major Gets Warm Welcome From His 'Grandchildren' At Home He Helped Found While In Service in War-Torn Country

By Virginia Irwin
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

MAJ. EDWARD R. BATES, U.S. Army, retired, is not a man who cries easily. But his eyes mist when he talks of a sentimental journey he made recently to Korea.

Bates went back to Korea to see his 46 "grandchildren" who live in the Wandering Little Orphans' Home at Wonju.

The youngsters decorated the orphanage in his honor. Two little girls strewed confetti in his path as he walked into the building. The children sang, "You Are My Sunshine." And a Korean lad who had been given the name of Bobbie by Bates during the Korean war read an address of welcome.

The address began: "We thank our Almighty God for meeting our grandfather. Eight years ago when we were very hungry and wandered you prepared the sweet home and gave the foods and clothes. Especially you took care of our health and washed our dirty bodies. But you returned to your native country by the order of your government."

There was more and then this ending: "Whenever we are joyful and sorrowful we think of our kind and loving grandfather. We suppose your impressive features that took care of our circumstances when we were unhappy. Now we enjoy for the sake of meeting our healthy grandfather."

BATES at left with 10 of the orphans who were in the home when he left. Also pictured are ELDER LEE (fourth from left in rear row), who now runs the home, and Lee's wife and daughter, at right.

The English was rather garbled but there was no doubt about the meaning of the speech. The children of the Wandering Little Orphans' Home, backwash of the Korean war, were ecstatic about having their "grandfather" return, even if it was to be only for a short time.

The story of Bates's deep attachment for these Korean orphans goes back to 1953 when he was a captain with the 519th Military Police Battalion on duty in Korea. Talking one day with Chaplain Arvid L. Anderson of the 519th, Bates proposed that he and the chaplain try to do something to help the ragged urchins roaming the streets of Wonju, homeless and starving. The two men talked to members of the M.P. battalion. The American soldiers were enthusiastic about the idea and contributed enough money to help start a small orphanage.

"These kids without parents or homes had to have somebody do something for them," Bates explained. "So we started this orphanage. It wasn't much then but it was better than anything they had."

Soon after the project began the chaplain was sent back to the United States. Bates took charge of the orphanage. And for the remainder of the 16 months he spent in Korea, the project took every minute of the time he could spare from military duties. He won't admit it, but his own personal funds helped to keep the orphanage going.

Picked up in the rubble of war-torn Wonju and brought to the orphanage by the M.P.'s, homeless urchins thought the orphanage a real paradise. Although little more than a shed, it offered food and warmth and a pallet to lie on. Best of all, each orphan got a new English name conferred by Grandfather Bates.

"They loved their new names," he says in a voice strangely tender for a man. "There were those little Korean faces answering to names like Smitty and Spike, Mary, Dolores, Suzanne and Magdalene. And there was also Chico."

"I took off his rags and scrubbed him with laundry soap and under the dirt I found a nice little boy," Bates says softly. "I gave him some bacon and eggs and he went through them like a saw going through a pine board. I made him a pallet out of blankets and he slept in my room. The next day I took him to the orphanage. Overnight that kid wandering the streets of Wonju went from rags to riches."

Bates lived for his orphans. He had a well dug for the orphanage. He got electricity by talking a judge into letting him tap into the electric line at the judge's home. He built a swing for the children, probably the only swing left after the Communist invasion of South Korea.

Finally the day came when Bates was ordered home by the Army. He returned in December 1954.

Bates, who had served in the Army in World War I and was a St. Louis policeman and a deputy sheriff in the county from 1926 to 1942, came back to St. Louis to join his wife Betty, at their home at 4256 Brandywine court. While waiting for his retirement last January, after 18 years in the army, he served as supervisor of U.S. Army recruiting in the St. Louis area.

Bates enjoyed life back home but everywhere he went he talked about the Korean kids in the Wandering Little Orphans' Home. He received permission to talk and show his slides of the orphans in the St. Louis schools. He gave little lectures at libraries and before clubs and various organizations.

When Bates left Korea the orphans were placed in care of Elder Lee Shin Hak, a 40-year-old Korean. Elder Lee wrote to Grandfather Bates each week, reporting that people who had heard the Major's talks about the orphans had sent money or clothing or food. A mention in Martha Carr's column in the Post-Dispatch last May brought a flood of donations of all descriptions. For all this Elder Lee was very thankful.

"I and my little children sincerely hope you will be glad to hear that you are always prayed by us all," Elder Lee wrote to Martha Carr. "We never miss any morning praying for you such a wonderful people. The reason why we get so many cards and other presents from all parts of the St. Louis is because you printed our plight on your paper."

Lee went on to say that although "many coat weather" was near in Korea, the orphans were warmed by the kindness shown them by people in the St. Louis area.

When the Wandering Little Orphans' Home was first started it could care for only 10 wanderers. When Maj. Bates left Korea the home had been enlarged and 47 children were in the orphanage. Now he is dreaming of a new orphanage that will house at least 100 of the thousands of Korean children still wandering the countryside in the backwash of the war.

"This spring I got the feeling that I just had to go back and see those kids again," Bates said the other day when he came home from his trip to Korea. "I talked it over with my wife and she understood. So I took off."

The Military Air Transport Service, in recognition of the work Maj. Bates did in Korea as one of the best ambassadors this country ever had, arranged his trip.

Bates was welcomed in Korea not only by his little wanderers but by the entire city of Wonju. A banner, "Welcome Maj. Bates," flew across the main intersection in the capital city of the Kangwon province.

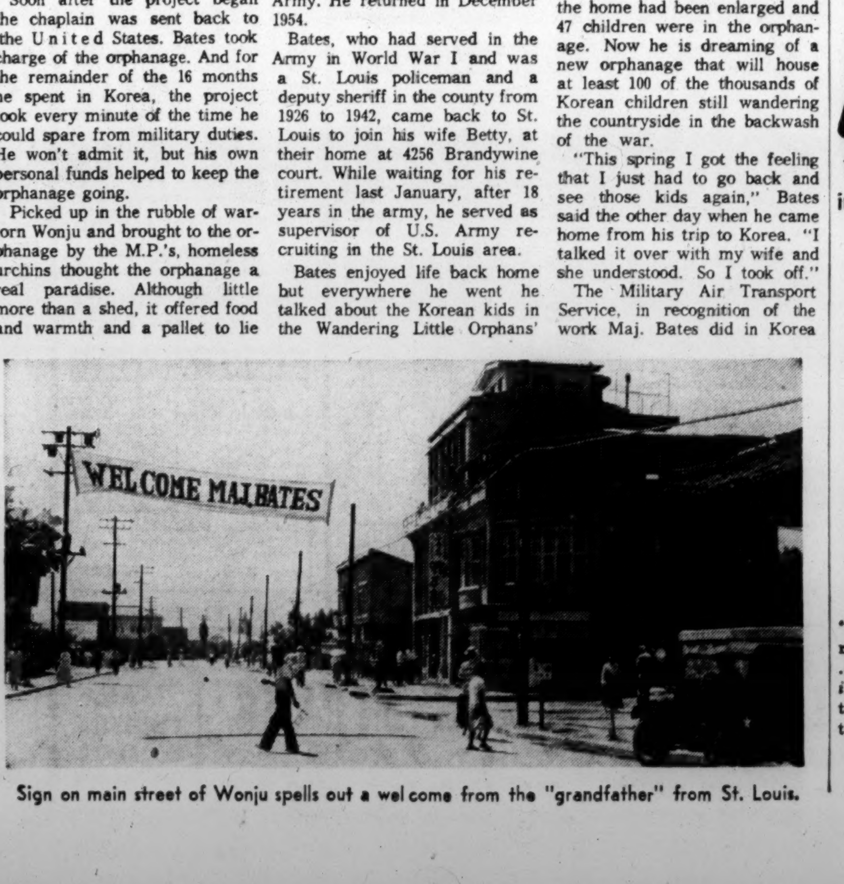
"The Koreans have done a magnificent job since the war," Bates says. "The main street of Wonju that was just a mudhole when I was there is now paved and clean as a whistle. Buildings have been rebuilt. The people are clean and the Korean soldiers are top-notch military men and keep their equipment immaculate."

Recently with contributions from the men and officers of Detachment "L" of the 519th Military Police Battalion and with other contributions sent from the United States, the Wandering Little Orphans' Home acquired three and one-half acres of land on which the children are growing Korean cabbage. The cabbage forms the base of "Kimchi," a sort of relish eaten with rice and fish, the mainstays of their diet. It is on this land that Maj. Bates hopes to see a new orphanage built.

Although prices are low in Korea with a shave costing only 15 cents and a haircut 25, ther is still need for penny-pinching at the orphan home. The budget allows for only a little more than $5 a month for each child.

At 62, Bates thinks he's about the happiest grandfather alive. He has two granddaughters of his own and at present count has 47 adopted grandsons and granddaughters.

"I feel better since I made this trip back to see the orphans," Bates said. "But there's one thing I forgot. The kids all called me something that sounds like 'aubergee.' I know it means grandfather, but I forgot to find out how you spell it."



Sign on main street of Wonju spells out a welcome from the "grandfather" from St. Louis.

A gala luncheon and fashion show was given today in the Khorassan room of the Chase Hotel. "Twentieth Century in Fashion" was presented in co-operation with Stix, Baer and Fuller. Mrs. Marjorie Wilton was commentator. The fashions shown were in four groups, each representing a period of the twentieth century. Each sequence was preceded by a short ballet, executed by members of the St. Louis Civic Ballet Co. under the direction of Stanley Herbertt. Music was by Stan Daugherty's orchestra. Authentic costumes of the period were modeled by lawyers' wives.

The show opened with fashions from the 1904 World's Fair period, and costumes of the era, complete with leghorn hats and parasols, were shown. Gowns from the 1914-1919 era were modeled next, then fashions from the roaring twenties. Miss Sally Curby, this year's Veiled Prophet Queen, modeled her coronation gown and held a bouquet similar to the one she carried at last year's ball. The bouquet was furnished by the Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden. Three lawyers' wives wore ball gowns from the three other periods. Professional models showed gowns by world-famous designers from the new fall collections.

All period clothing worn in the show was lent for the event by the drama school of Maryville College and by Mrs. Edward Callison and Mrs. Dale J. Painter.

They spent two weeks in small cottages along the lake shore enjoying golf, swimming, tennis, boating and other sports. Evenings were devoted to barbecues, beach picnics and informal parties.

In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Howe Voorhees, 933 Lanyard lane; Dr. and Mrs. Everett R. Roeder, 377 Oakley lane, and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Hostetler, 218 Edwin avenue, Glendale. Also at the resort was Mrs. Arnold V. Morrow, 7739 Kingsbury avenue, Clayton, who shared a cottage with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Morrow, and their three children. The younger Morrows live at 533 Sheffield avenue, Webster Groves. Another vacationer at Crystal Lake was John W. Cooper Jr., 649 Sherwood drive, Webster Groves, who was accompanied by his two children.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Girl's Parents Monopolize Her Son

Dear Martha Carr:

I WONDER IF I AM old-fashioned or over-anxious. I have a son who is 21 and lately he has been dating a girl who is 18. I've no objection to this girl but I have to her parents. They ask my son over to their house all day on holidays and some Saturdays for supper. I think young folks can be thrown together too much before marriage for their own good. This girl's parents always ask my son to spend all day Sunday with them at family gatherings. He gets mad at me if I so much as mention this.

BEWILDERED.

Your son is 21 and no longer a boy. All you can do is point out that he is spending considerable time with a young lady to whom he is not even engaged. It is quite obvious that her parents are hastening the engagement along all they can. If he doesn't have a job and sufficient money put by to marry soon, it might be well if he examined the situation and made up his mind whether he wants to be rushed into marriage.

Dear Martha Carr:

COULD YOU TELL ME where to contact a USO troop that entertains at home and abroad? Most of the groups I have read about are actresses and actors. Are there groups of singers, dancers, piano players, who are not big names but want to participate in building the morale of the men in our armed services? Since President Kennedy's speech I have given this much thought and realize that our men both in peacetime and in war sure could use a boost in morale while they are away from their homes protecting our national security. I'm sure I'm not the only one interested in doing what I can for freedom.

MARGIE.

The United Service Organizations' St. Louis headquarters is located in the War Memorial at 1315 Chestnut. You might apply there for information about volunteer work.

Dear Martha:

ALMOST 18 YEARS AGO I met and married a young soldier. Almost nine years and a lot of misunderstandings later we separated, divorced and went our separate ways. We thought we hated each other. Now after being apart nine years we recently met again and find we are still as much in love as when we first married. But sad to relate we are now both married to others and have children so we must stay and do our jobs and not hurt our families. We could never do anything but bring hurt and shame to them and we agree that we must never do anything that would deprive us of a clear conscience. But my question is how does one ease a breaking heart? For us there is no answer. I'm not asking for an out. I know what I must do and that is stay with my family.

ALWAYS WITH A HEARTACHE.

Make it your business to never see your first husband again and you'll soon get over this nonsense. The two of you are just tempted by forbidden fruit. If it were possible for you to marry again you'd probably fight just like you did during those first nine years of "misunderstandings." Your heart isn't breaking; it's just looking for a little excitement.

Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for Martha's leaflets, "How to Grow a Coal Flower," "Names for the New Baby" and "Prayers at Bedtime and Grace to Be Said at Table."

Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

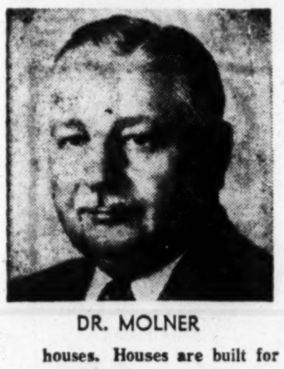
Tired of Work at 70

DEAR DR. MOLNER: I'd like to ask what you think of a person—me—who is just plain tired of a house and yard and work.

I'd like to live in an apartment, be able to spend a little extra money once in a while, take a trip, etc. We, my husband and I, are both in our 70s, and he just sits, watching TV, etc. Would you say, for being so old, I am wrong?

We both have arthritis—sometimes pretty bad. But I still try to keep going. I would appreciate your writing about what is good for older people.

MRS. B.D.X.



DR. MOLNER

People weren't created to take care of houses. Houses are built for the use and comfort of people.

From your letter I take it for granted that your husband is no bundle of energy who must have the house and yard as an outlet for excess vigor. So why hang onto the house?

In the 70s (and 80s and 90s) it's best to keep interested and active—within reasonable capabilities. Activity helps keep you young—but this doesn't mean hard work to the point of exhaustion.

It's in the nature of things for most of us to develop some arthritis as we grow older, but forcing our creaky joints to withstand strenuous work isn't going to help at all.

Activity, yes. Excessive effort, no. Stiffening joints will get even stiffer with each day we allow to pass without moving around. I said "moving." The joints should be moved to the fullest extent that they are supposed to move. That keeps them operating. It does NOT mean that they should be forced into exertion. Keep 'em moving, but don't wear 'em out!

There's nothing wrong with taking things easy when you reach the age of taking things easy. But don't ever confuse that with inactivity. Keep active and let it be a matter of pleasure—HOW active do you want to be? Don't vegetate, but don't feel that you are being "healthy" by forcing yourself into excessive exertion that you don't enjoy. Old Mother Nature is a pretty reliable adviser in such things.

Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Dispatch for a copy of his leaflet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," inclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

Bill Vaughan Says

NEW TROUBLES afflict Great Britain. Still, we would never underestimate a country where those sharp-pointed shoes that women wear are called winkle-pickers.

SECRETARY RIBICOFF says our children sit watching the trash on television "like vegetables." And there are some of those shows we wouldn't even let our vegetables watch.

DIOR'S NEW DRESSES are said to cling tightly to the figure. Next step will be an additional utilization of the aerosol principle—the spray-on gown.

Pennsylvania's Woman Justice

© New York Times News Service

ANNE X. ALPERN of Pittsburgh, first woman member of Pennsylvania's Supreme Court, is small in stature but packs a legal wallop which has won her the respect of attorneys generally.

The "X" in her name doesn't stand for anything. When asked about it, which she often is, Miss Alpern invariably replies: "Exhausted." Shortly after Gov. David L. Lawrence appointed her to the court (the appointment reached her while she was sitting as a member of the State Pardon Board) her staff prepared a sign for the door to her private office: "Anne Xalted Alpern." She laughed when she saw it.

Many lawyers who have opposed her, and lost, have said that the "X" marks the spot she put them on.

Miss Alpern is known as a hard worker, especially on legal cases. Judges often have expressed amazement at her facility in citing decisions and law going far back into legal antiquity.

She is fast with quips and uses them frequently against her opponents. While Pittsburgh city solicitor, she took on the State Public Utility Commission in a successful battle to get lower rates for consumers. At one point she labeled the agency the "Public Futility Commission."

ANNE X. ALPERN

When a state senator, who was opposing a bill she favored, referred to her sarcastically as "Sister Anne," she said: "Senator, you come down out of my family tree." She once called a proposal of a Pittsburgh power company to raise rates "the overcharge of the light brigade."

Throughout her career Miss Alpern has waged fights in the interests of the public. She went before the State Milk Control Commission and won approval of milk in gallon containers at lower prices, to help big families. She succeeded in removing a cent-a-quart premium on Vitaman-D milk after showing that $13 worth of vitamin D would fortify 100,000 quarts of milk.

She convinced the courts that the art collection of the Barnes Foundation at Wynnewood should be opened to the public if the foundation was to continue to enjoy benefits as a "charitable trust."

Miss Alpern has a court manner that is admired in the legal profession. She dresses trimly, mostly in suits; has black hair and brown eyes; a well-modulated throaty voice that takes on a sharp edge in the heat of battle; and she exudes assurance that usually gives judges the impression she knows what she is doing.

She has won many honors. She is a Distinguished Daughter of Pennsylvania, an award given by governors. She received the Junior Chamber of Commerce award for distinction in the field of law and was similarly honored by the Newspaper Guild. And she is past president and only distaff member of the National Institute of Municipal Law Officers, which gave her its award for distinguished public service in 1953.

Several months ago Miss Alpern's husband, Irwin A. Swiss, a Pittsburgh attorney, was killed by an automobile. She found solace in throwing herself into her job of attorney general.

She relaxes now and then on weekends. One recreation is cooking. She delights in exchanging recipes with anyone who has a similar penchant. She thinks there's no reason why her only child, Marsha Ellen Swiss, a student at Swarthmore College, shouldn't be a good cook.

As far as is known, Miss Alpern never has told her age.

When anyone inquires she ask: "Do you know how the saying 'How old is Anne?' originated?" Then she answers the question: "Because Anne wouldn't tell." She is believed to be in her fifties.

Miss Alpern believes capital punishment is not a deterrent to crime and should be abolished. She said a few months ago that capital punishment "does not deter the psychotic person or stoy the sex criminals."

NOTE: The Associated Newspapers, originator of this puzzle, have mailed the correct answers directly to the Mercantile Trust Company, St. Louis, where they will be kept sealed in the vault until after 9 a.m. Thursday. The St. Louis Post-Dispatch did not prepare this puzzle and does not have the answers in advance. The Official Rules of the contest are as follows:

1. Solve this puzzle as you would work any crossword puzzle, printing in the blank spaces the missing letters to form the word which you believe BEST fits the definition.
2. Fill in your name and complete address on the entry form and print the first letter of your last name in the square indicated. Then cut along the dotted lines and paste the complete entry on a 3-cent postcard. Address the postcard to CASH-CROSSWORDS, Box 648, Central Station, St. Louis 88, Missouri.
3. All entries for Puzzle No. 48 must be received not later than 9 A.M., Thursday, Aug. 10. Entries may be mailed or may be delivered in person to the Cash-Crosswords box in the Post-Dispatch Lobby, 12th and OLIVE Streets.
4. $12,000 in cash will be paid for the correct solution to Puzzle No. 48. If more than one contestant submits the correct solution, the prize will be divided equally among the winners. If no correct solution is received, the cash award for Puzzle No. 49 will be at least $13,000.
5. Only correctness of solution will count, not decorations. There is only ONE answer that in the judges' opinion is the BEST word to fit the definition of each clue. Decisions of the judges are final and all contestants agree to accept those decisions as a condition of entry.
6. There is no limit to the number of entries a contestant may submit except that no more than five facsimile copies of each puzzle will be accepted from any contestant. All facsimiles must be accurately hand-drawn directly on the backs of 3-cent postcards. No carbon copies or reproductions made by mechanical processes will be accepted. It is not necessary to buy the Post-Dispatch to compete in this contest.
7. Any resident of Missouri, Arkansas or Illinois (excluding Cook County) may enter the contest except (1) employes of The Pulitzer Publishing Company, its advertising agency and members of their households; (2) any person who has won $1,000 or more in any previous newspaper contest. No more than one prize will be awarded to the residents of any one household.
8. Names of winners, if any, and the correct solution to Puzzle No. 48 will be published in the Post-Dispatch Sunday, Aug. 13. A new puzzle will appear on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, August 13, 14 and 15.
9. Each contestant who submits the correct solution to a Cash Crosswords Puzzle agrees to certify (1) that the answers were not obtained from any source outside of the contestant's household and (2) that the contestant has not acted for or in collaboration with any person who is not eligible to compete in this contest.
10. The Post-Dispatch is not responsible for entries that are lost, that arrive too late, that are incorrectly filled out or illegible. It also reserves the right to correct typographical errors and to discontinue the contest at its discretion.
11. A $100.00 BONUS WILL BE PAID FOR THE CORRECT SOLUTION IF IT IS SUBMITTED ON A POSTCARD AND NOT INCLOSED IN AN ENVELOPE. If there is more than one winner, the $100.00 bonus will be equally divided.

TV Notes and Gossip

DENNIS O'KEEFE . . . Guest star for an episode of Joey Bishop's NBC-TV show Sept. 20.

GENE SARAZEN will be the commentator for "Wonderful World of Golf," the full-hour show that starts on CBS-TV in January. The series will match noted American golfers against top foreign professionals. Matches will be filmed in Japan, Hong Kong, South America and Europe.

POLLY BERGEN, moving to Hollywood, is leaving the "To Tell the Truth" panel. The show originates in New York. Miss Bergen fell off a horse the other day while working in a "Wagon Train" episode and has been wearing a brace on her neck between scenes.

MIKE AND JEFF CONNORS, sons of Chuck Connors of "The Rifleman," will play Huck Finn types in an upcoming episode. Both Mike, 10, and Jeff, 9, had bit roles in a "Rifleman" segment last season.

DOROTHY LAMOUR has some TV work ahead of her this coming season. She will have roles in the Dick Powell and Alfred Hitchcock drama shows, and maybe a guest shot with Ed Sullivan.

THE BOB NEWHART series starting on NBC-TV in October will be presented in color.

OLYMPIC swimming champion Lynn Burke will handle the color commentary when "Wide World of Sports" presents the women's A.A.U. swimming and diving championships at Philadelphia next Saturday.

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

THE "TOTEM MOUNDS" of the Mound Builders were made chiefly in Wisconsin, but some have been found in other midwestern states.

The outlines of birds, furry animals and reptiles may be observed in many mounds. The furry animals include bears, moose, foxes and wolves. Among the reptiles are frogs, turtles, snakes and, in one strange case, an alligator.

The "strange case" is Alligator Mound near the village of Granville, O. Whether this mound really represents an alligator is open to question. An outline of an entirely different animal may have been intended.

Each of the outspread legs in Alligator Mound measures from 25 to 30 feet. The body is enormous.

Q. How could the Mound Builders have had any model of an alligator to follow since this animal did not live that far north?

A. Alligators were found around the Gulf of Mexico, but they seem never to have reached points as far north as the Ohio river.

The best suggestion seems to be that one or more natives from of Gulf Coast visited the Mound Builders in the Ohio area. They may have described the strange animal we call an alligator, and this may have led to an attempt to make a mound with that shape.

Q. Why were totem mounds made?

A. The clans in many old Indian tribes had animals as totems. For example, a tribe might have a bear clan, a fox clan, a turtle clan and a wolf clan.

It seems likely that the Mound Builders in Wisconsin and nearby parts put up mounds to represent the totems of their clans. Many graves of Indians have been found near the totem mounds.
